*Lipscomb is an intangible idea . . . a symbol of the search for truth. Not mere provocation to philosophical thought, but stimulus for the stirring of the soul. It is a college and a challenge . . . ceaseless and real . . .
toward truth which leaves not God out.
Lipscomb, the learned way of living . . .
Ours, her ceaseless search*

UMBRIS ET IMAGINIBUS IN VERTATEM from shadows and symbols into the truth

*David Lipscomb, hail to thee,
Hear our heartfelt praise.
May thy truth and brotherhood
Guide us all thy days.
Precious scenes of days gone by
Give us strength today—
Robed in beauty, led by faith,
Show for all to see
Love of God and love of man,
Lipscomb, hail to thee.*

*David Lipscomb, hail to thee,
Hear thy children's song.
Grateful hearts now pledge anew
Love both true and strong.
Love of thee forever grows
On through all our years.
Grow in grandeur, grow in grace
Till eternity.
God protect and give the peace.
Lipscomb, hail to thee.*

Proposed Alma Mater

Because his scholarship is surpassed only by his spirituality . . . because his personality penetrates our problems, enabling us to progress . . . because his high scholastic standards are reflected in the highly efficient department which he heads . . . because his life is one of light, dispelling darkness and doubt . . . and because his efforts are a ceaseless search for truth . . . we proudly dedicate this BACKLOG 1961 to John T. Netterville, our respected teacher and friend.

Campus Life

The laughter, the love, the life . . . all in the search for truth.

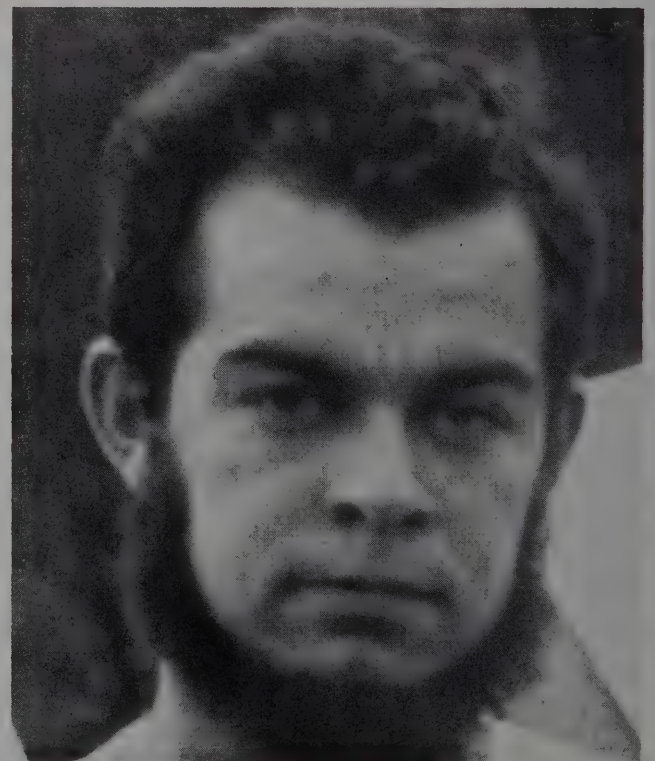

After The Night, The Day

Tall columns at the front of every building . . . white, gleaming in sunlight . . . casting grey shadows in the still of the night. Between and beneath . . . pass the people and the language of Lipscomb.

Moments of solitude . . . time to think. Hours spent with others in laughter and love. Minutes of inspiration through the harmony of hearts. Infinitesimal divisions of our days and our nights.

Struggling to belong, to achieve, to succeed. Searching for the answers, the honors, the degree. Sharing ideals, dreams, and sometimes defeat. Together at Lipscomb we live.

Lipscomb Is People

People behind the faces . . . in crowds, couples, classrooms, and cafeteria lines. Chaos of a ballgame . . . silence of an evening devotional . . . routine of each registration . . . impact of chapel singing . . . sting of unexpected disappointment . . . thrill of sudden victory . . . love found forever . . . together we share campus life.

Autumn's Orientation

Twins and roommates . . . Janice and Joycelyn Henry come to college with a double assortment of fur-lined coats and fingernail polish.

Tennis rackets, blazers, sweaters, and ukuleles to be packed . . . summer sports and suntans left behind . . . miles to go from Massachusetts, Georgia, and Oklahoma . . . the sudden awakening of September.

The too long lines of first registration, faculty faces at a lawn reception, friendship growing around Friday night's bonfire, and the freshmen are oriented in autumn.

Upperclassmen move in literally and figuratively. Unattached males stand in circles surveying good-looking date prospects among five hundred freshmen. Old circles crowded together around student center tables, a smile from a certain stranger, empty mailboxes checked on the hour, roommates rejoined, names half-forgotten suddenly remembered, summer's tale retold in the dorm under late lights . . . college life never tasted so good. Tomorrow are classes to meet, not much dessert for procrastinating minds.

The face at Faculty Firesides is Dr. Russell Artist sharing European summers with the frosh.

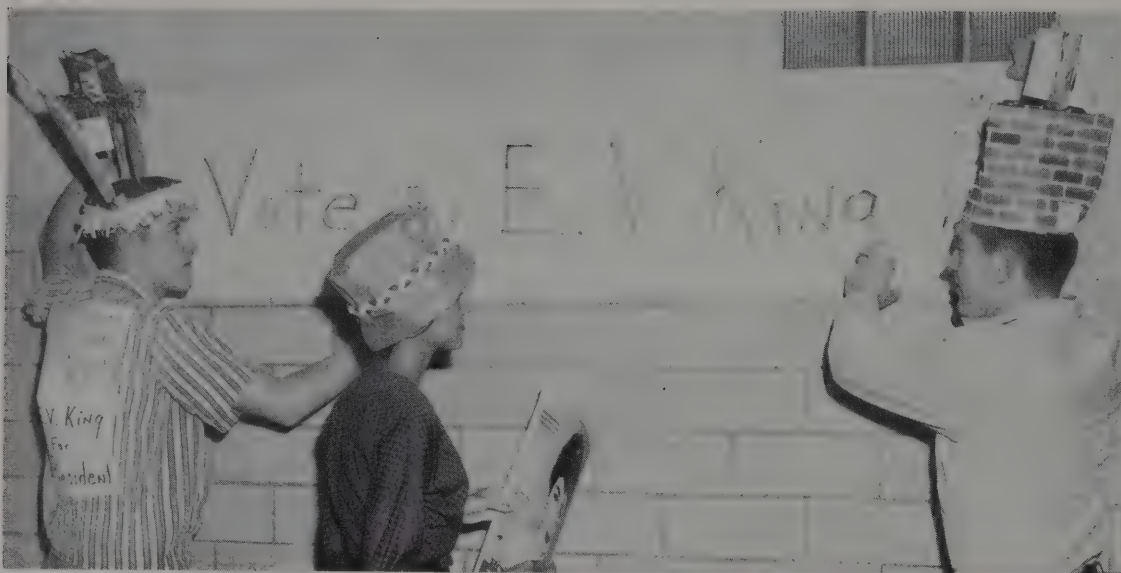

Friday night's bonfire and fall quarter . . . the end of the beginning for freshmen.

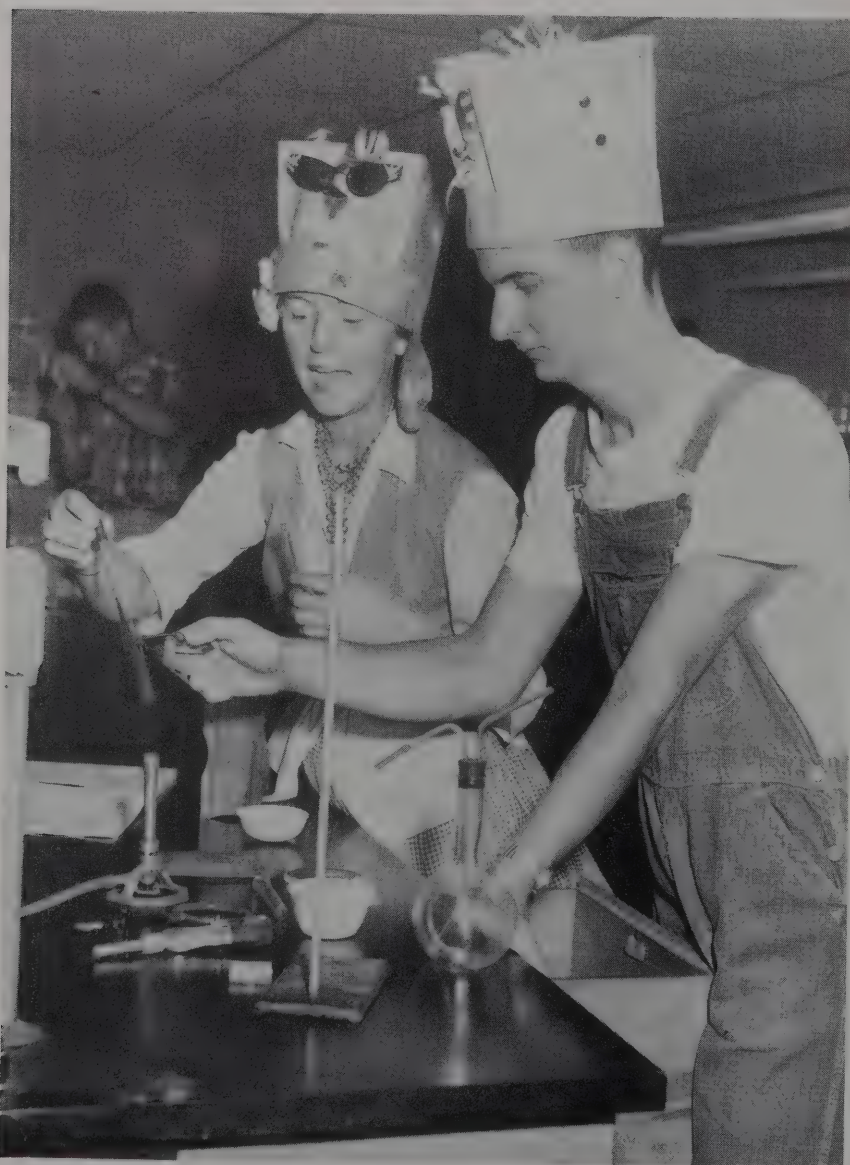

Frustration, fatigue, and cards to be filled out . . . the grueling beginning to be found in long lines.

Politics, posters, position . . . the making of a president, the president E. V. King.

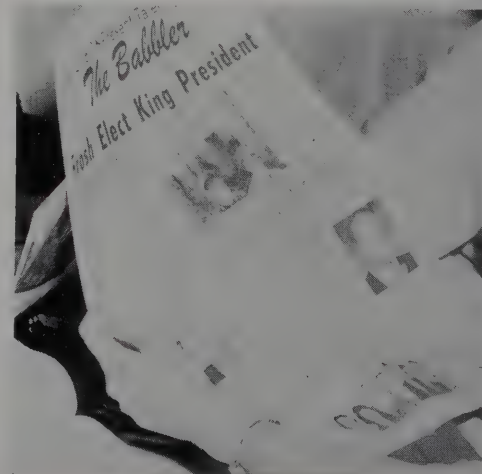

Scientific "Sackies" combine college initiation with chemical experimentation.

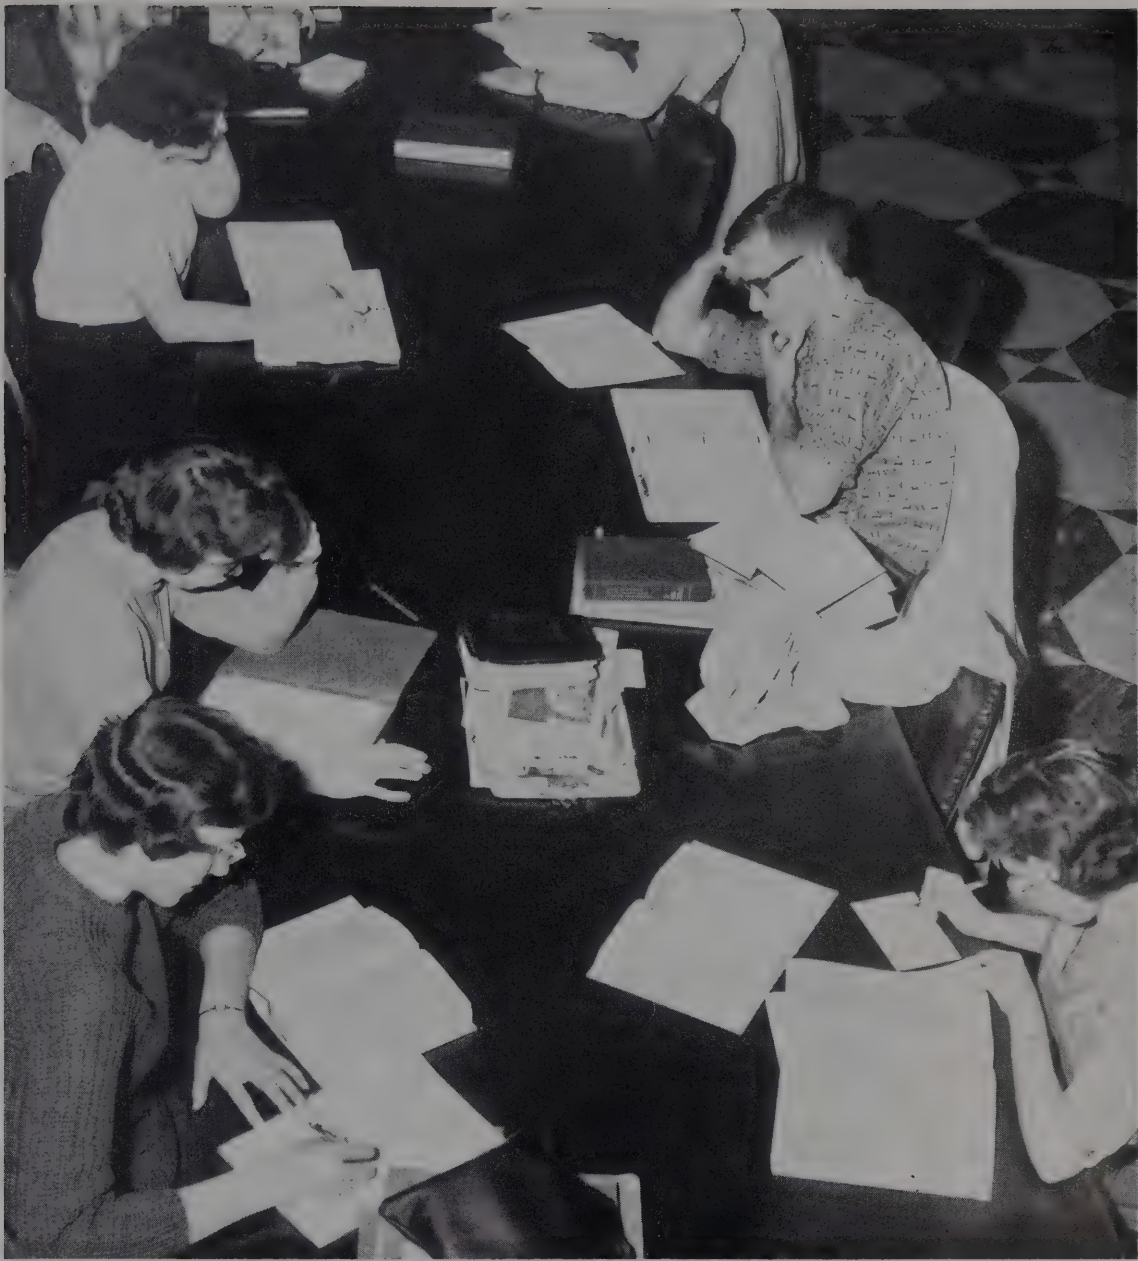

Ceaseless Search

Arrival, orientation, initiation . . . and we are placed on our own. Sackies burn in the bonfire that sparks transition from first year politics and procrastination to progress . . . suddenly we are students. From lecture to laboratory to library, we spend our hours searching for the answers. Often the answers are not there, only the provocation of more questions. We compile notes, conduct experiments, and concentrate. Always there is the realization to be faced . . . much more to be learned, discovered, and solved. Theories from teachers and textbooks are no longer swallowed without analysis and argumentation. Interpretation is difficult, translation is demanding, and memorization is tedious. We seek the answers in our study, but gain only understanding . . . truth is a ceaseless search.

The freshmen's favorite son . . . pictured in black and white print.

The ceaseless search goes on and on, but answers are not always found.

Papers and projects demand perseverance.

Alone in Alumni, a student finds solitude.

In 110 community congregations, Lipscomb couples find a "church home" in which to worship, and work.

In Favor With Man And Woman

Fascination, flirtation, first dates . . . the social situation demands dating. Lipscomb compatibly complies. Across the student center counter a campus male makes arrangements when the good-looking coed accepts. There are church services, concerts, plays, movies, ballgames, and banquets to be shared. Car keys borrowed from a roommate . . . phones buzzing . . . men in the lobbies of Fanning, Johnson, and Sewell beginning at six o'clock . . . lipstick, Chanel No. 5, and spray net . . . the Ivy League look hiding impatience with small talk . . . last-minute analysis in the mirror . . . a scribbled entry in the off-campus register . . . campus male opening door for coed . . . and the evenings were made for fun.

The question, the answer, the diamond . . . suddenly June brings more than graduation.

Two theatre tickets mean a concert, a movie, or a play for an off-campus evening of fun.

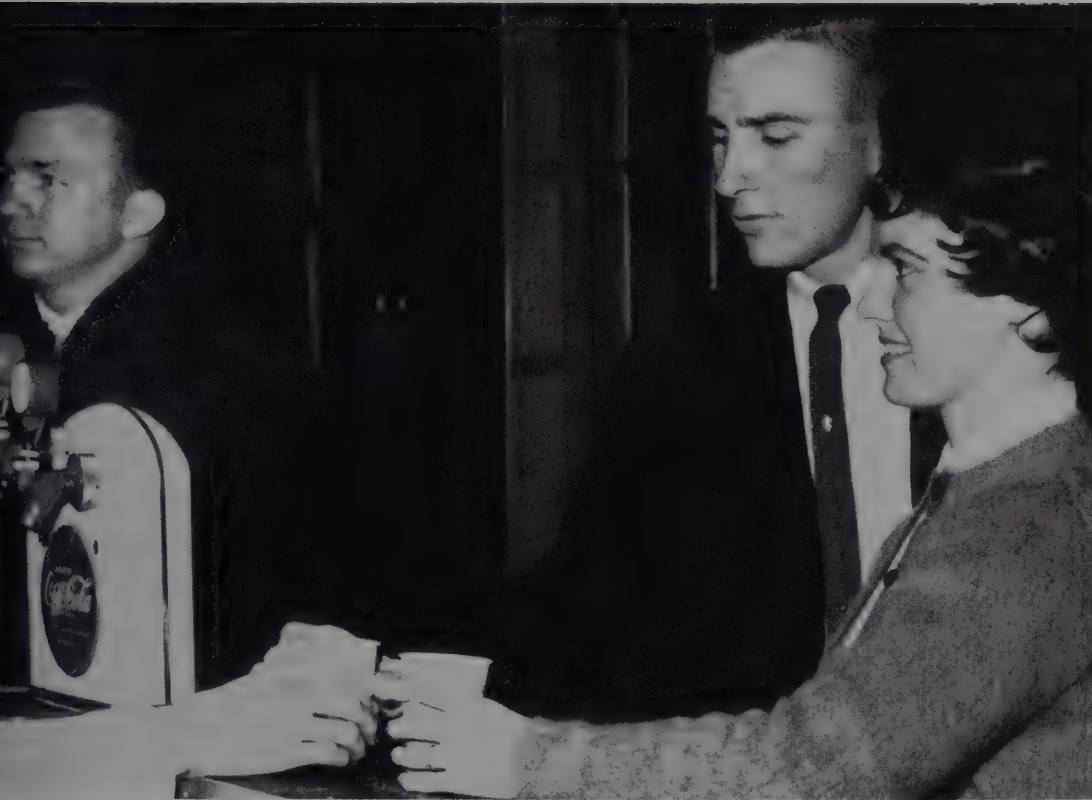

Casual tennis date on campus . . . the beginning of romance . . . for typical Lipscomb couple, Bud Stumbaugh and Carol Hollingsworth.

Bud and Carol learn together . . . sharing beauty and book . . . their class in art appreciation brings culture plus quality points.

Dates double and triple . . . then a diamond glitters as Bud orders for Carol a half-time coke.

Bowed heads before breakfast, lunch, and dinner . . . neither ritual nor routine . . . but reality in the religion shared in college by Bud and Carol.

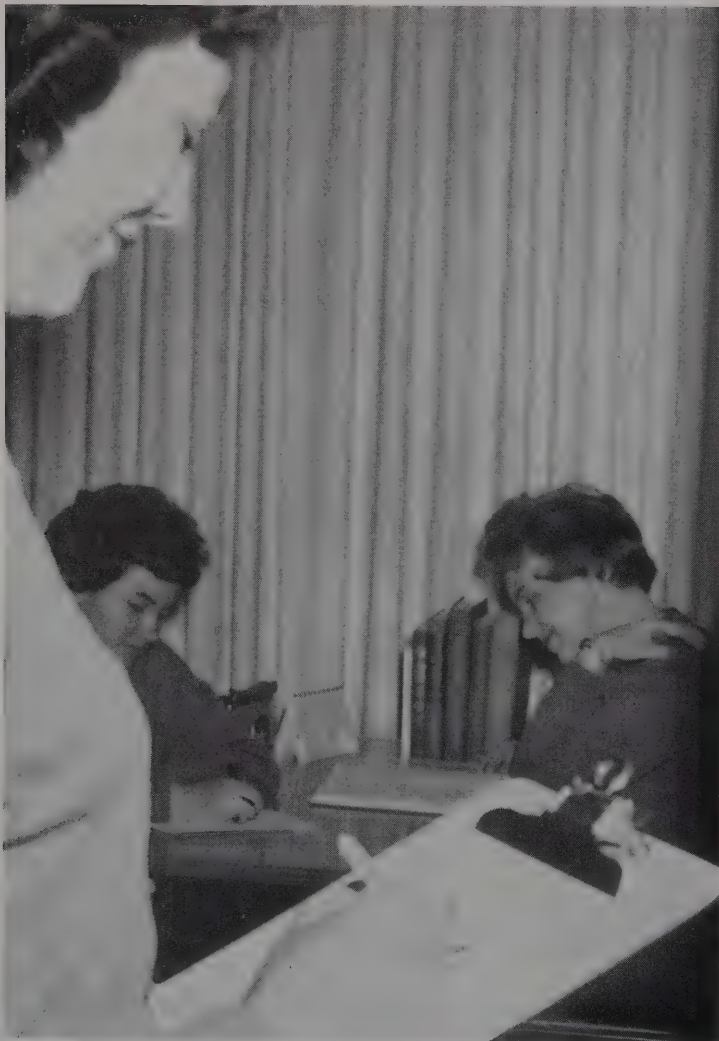

One-Room Luxury

From fur-lined coats to fingernail polish, the coed comes to college prepared. Her dorm room is a refuge from frustration and fatigue . . . a motley mosaic to meet every whim . . . in the corner a stack of records for a rainy night . . . cinnamon rolls and popcorn to add calories with cokes . . . in the closet a hairdryer beside mop and broom . . . paperbacked novels in the shelf above a desk . . . swimsuit and sunglasses for that special spring tan . . . programs and pictures on the desk and mirror . . . canned concentration in a syllabus . . . constant conversation from the girl across the room, next door, or down the hall . . . the compact multiplicity of dormitory life.

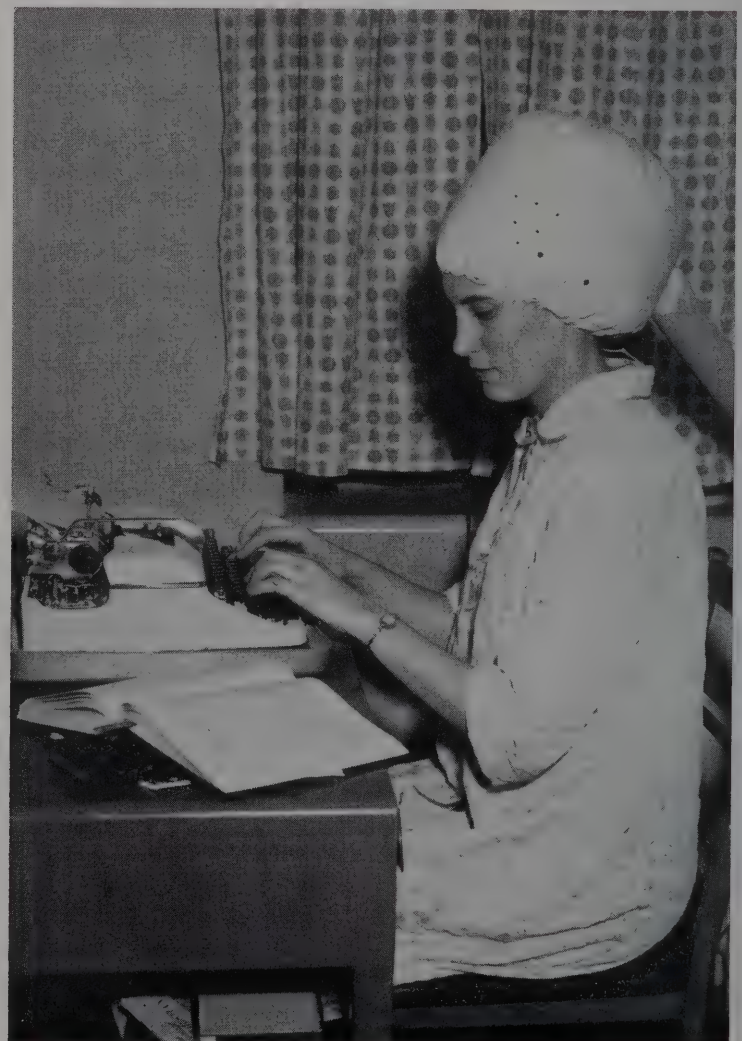

The complexity of college life combines dressing table with desk.

Routine of roomcheck . . . a nightly affair.

Simultaneous development of beauty and brain power . . . dormitory life for girls.

Upon Being An Elam Man

Jungle sounds on the stereo next door . . . slow breathing roommate asleep on the top bunk . . . laughter across the hall . . . somewhere somebody strums a ukulele . . . the shower almost drowns the sound . . . mind wanders from mathematical problem to coed's picture on the desk . . . door closes on good intentions and scholarly attempts.

In the lobby . . . all phones in use . . . walk across campus . . . end up at Shoney's with a "Big Boy" and coke . . . back to door of girls' dorm . . . short session with boys on second floor . . . midnight long past . . . blackout . . . suddenly the morning after an evening in Elam Hall.

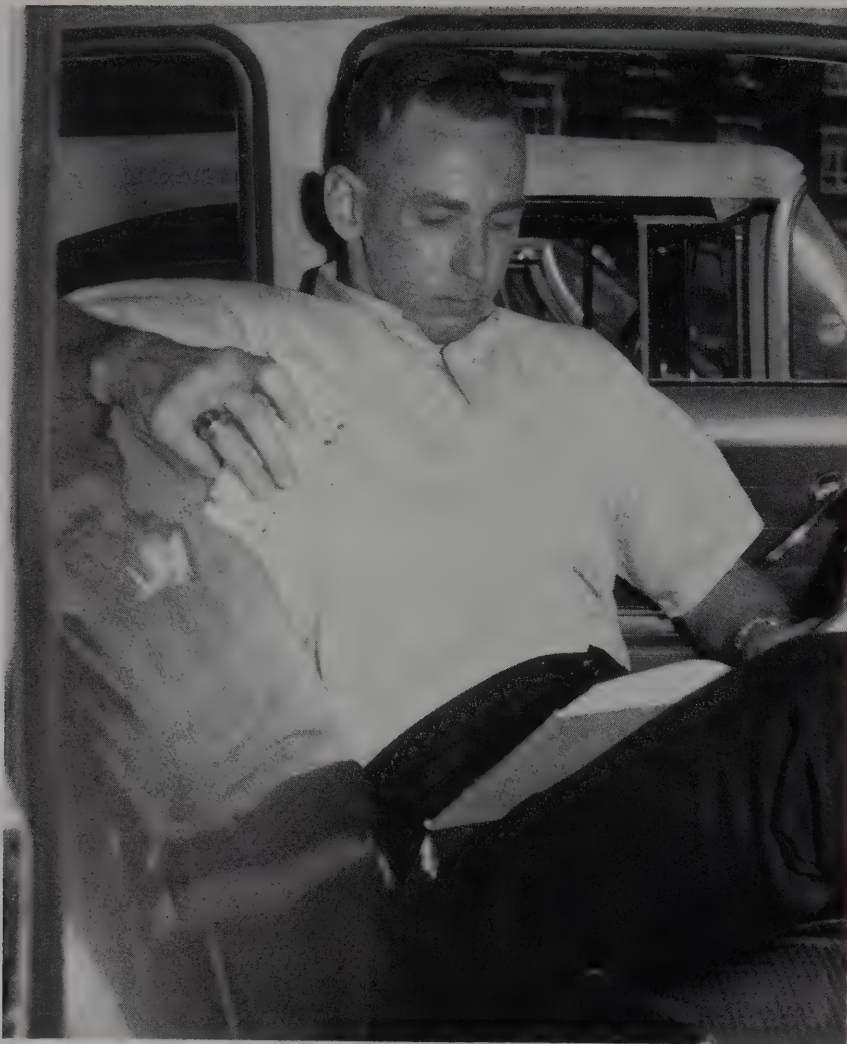

College life causes Lipscomb males to become an independent breed.

To sleep, study, or shine shoes . . . the decisions made in Elam late at night.

A dime and seven dials . . . to make Saturday night's date.

Hour between classes . . . lecture notes to be learned . . . Corky Buckley's car becomes a place for concentration.

Void of Conformity

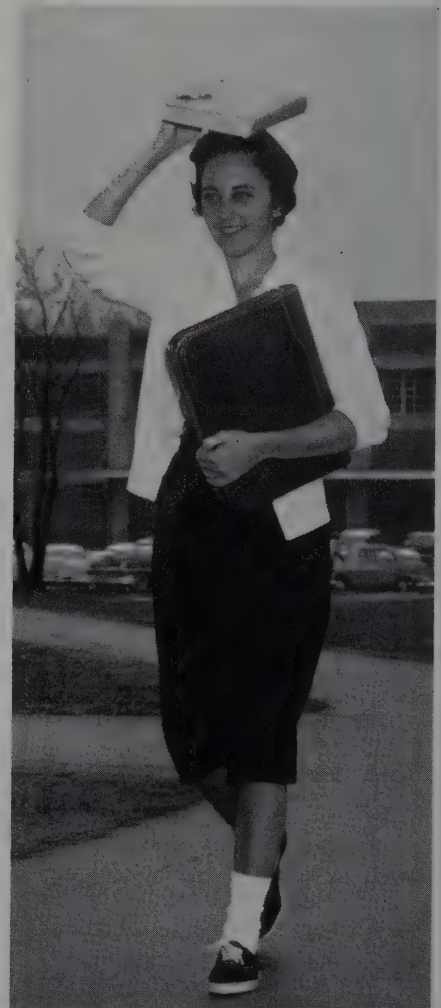

Sack lunches and the student center . . . traffic jams on the bridge . . . home cooked meals each night and on Sunday . . . late drives home after meetings and rehearsals . . . without umbrellas in unexpected rain . . . termed day students, staying after dark . . . those who commute to college.

Breakfast is home cooked, too, but it comes at six thirty . . . trips are timed to meet eight o'clock classes . . . a book forgotten must wait until tomorrow . . . car trouble is catastrophic . . . classes missed in the mornings require red tape.

Some have apartments, but most live at home. All have friends in the dorms . . . lockers in the corridor . . . activity cards of a different color . . . a representative on the Student Board . . . and a crowd all their own amid student center tables. They compose a special segment in the campus cross-section.

Caught on campus in an unexpected cloud-burst, Linda Sweeney dashes from car to College Hall.

Student Center table, coffee cup, and book . . . home away from home for the day student.

German assignments must wait until Fran and Tom Davis have developed dishwater hands.

Diapers and "Daddy" . . . denote new role for Charles Pigg.

Homework Without Texts

Maturity brings marriage and the married come to college. Mostly they are men. Sometimes the wife comes, too, but usually she works elsewhere toward the Ph.T. ("putting hubby through") degree.

Budgets and babies present extra responsibilities. Husbands help working wives with dishes and diapers. Wives type term papers and patiently listen to next Sunday's sermon. Meals are a cooperative effort, designed to be edible and economical. Together married students are working toward a goal.

Entertainment need not be expensive to be enjoyable the couples learn by means of television sets and chess boards. Sometimes it is difficult, always it is fun, but in the end a college diploma makes the effort worth the while.

Chess, cokes, and conversation get together as do the Floyd Merritts, and Richard Walkers on a winter night.

Seven hundred students attended seven o'clock services each morning of Willard Collins' fall meeting on campus.

Gaily-wrapped toys added color to the corridor and joy to the hearts of orphans at Christmas.

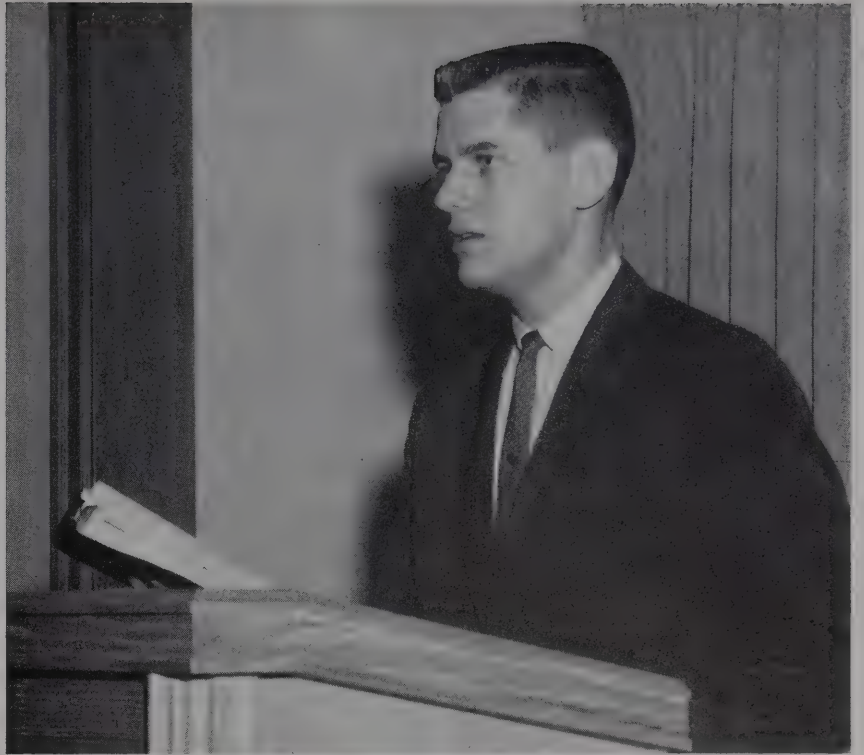

Tips and techniques for sermons are learned in a roundtable discussion led by Franklin Camp, guest lecturer for the Evangelistic Forum.

Religion—A Reality

One thousand people in prayer . . . one thousand voices in praise . . . one thousand hearts stirred . . . this is the reality of religion. Chapel comes at ten o'clock in the morning. Outdoor devotionals come at ten o'clock in the evening. College is college, but Lipscomb is different . . . from a pause comes progress; from devotion, dimension.

Vice-President Collins in the fall . . . Jim Bill McInteer in the spring . . . speaking and stirring . . . words leaving imprints on lives . . . sermons transcending one week's meeting.

Toys and children's clothes . . . gaily wrapped gifts of love . . . going from college classes to orphanages . . . Lipscomb sharing Christmas with children . . . pure religion in action.

Student minister Sam McFarland, speaker for the Berry's Chapel meeting, embodies the spiritual purpose of Lipscomb in training young Christian leaders.

Melodious and monotone voices of the young rise to a crescendo of heartfelt harmony as Dean Craig directs Tuesday evening singings on the steps of Alumni.

A cup of coffee is dropped, classes and cares are left behind . . . as each day we pause for prayer and praise to our God.

The perspective and personality of Jim Bill McInteer won our souls and warmed our hearts as he spoke during the annual spring meeting.

"Going for $12 to a balcony bidder" . . . words that made Archie Crenshaw a "Slave for a Day."

Friday means Babblers, quick glances at headlines, and the rush to beat lunch lines at eleven o'clock.

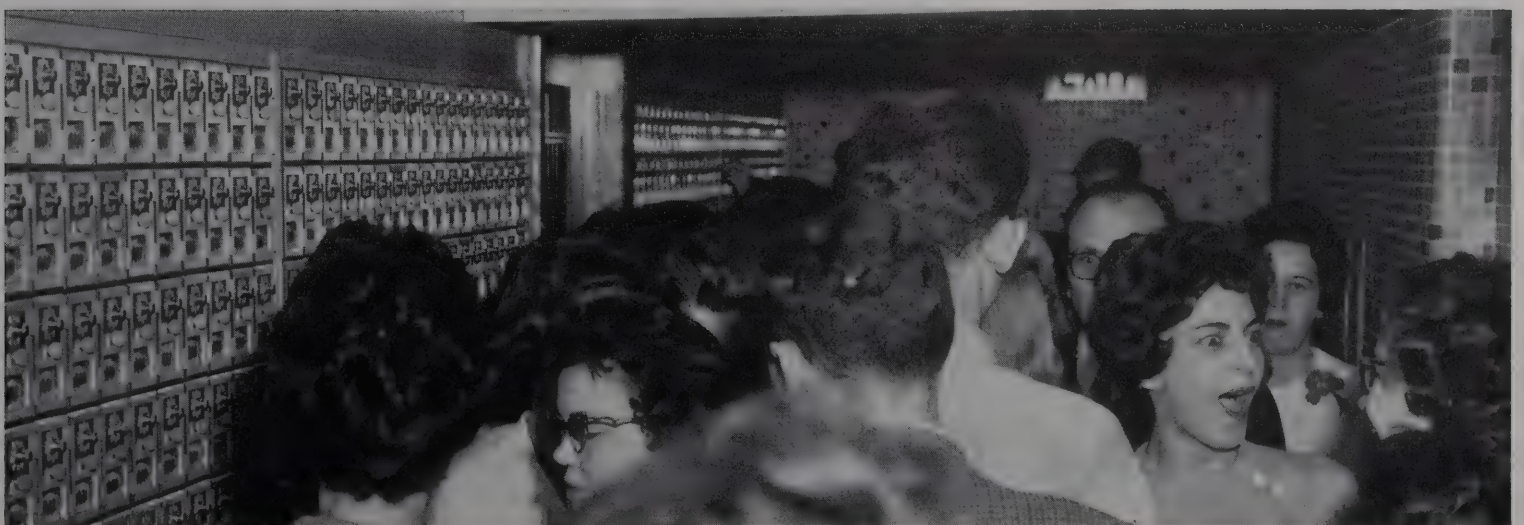

The Mass In Motion

Quickly scribbling on a ballot a colleague's name . . . presidential acceptance of awards . . . clever publicity stunts to promote class programs . . . clean-cut voices of a male chorus in concert . . . vice-presidential voice at the microphone . . . finality in the phrase, "That is all" . . . this is the post-chapel period.

Milling through the mob in the rush for mail . . . reservations to be made for parties and plays . . . meeting of minds over cokes and conversation . . . Lipscomb's student center filled with people, newspapers, and noise.

"It's almost unbelievable!" . . . June Phillips' news from home.

Spirit soars to the apex as the stone Bison stands unveiled.

The strain of the game shows in the last torturing seconds of the V.S.A.C. tournament.

Spirit Symbolism

Originator Dewayne Lanham cleared ground for the foundation. Hoosiers donated the durable base of marble. Puryear Mims was the sculptor. They stood among students in the gigantic post-chapel pep rally which surrounded the veiled structure.

Clear rich voices swept across the campus with the Alma Mater. Then varsity cheerleaders leaped high in the air, cheering and clapping as it was unveiled . . . the life-size stone Bison . . . school spirit in sculpture.

Unveiling ceremonies set the pace for a spirited season of success in intercollegiate basketball competition. The Bison was left standing on the sidewalk that leads to McQuiddy Gymnasium . . . to become a landmark, a tradition, a tribute to the athletic program of the college.

Composing the Court of coeds elected by classes to attend Queen Mary Jo Moore are Margie Richardson, Velma Herrera, Lynn-Muir Sanders, Pam Maynard, Wanda Cline, Celia Sayle, The Queen, Sandy Moss, and Sandra Thweatt.

Lipscomb Comes Home

Winter week-end of activity . . . Homecoming for Lipscomb today and Lipscomb of yesterday. From Atlanta, Washington, and Memphis alumni return to remember.

Anxious to encounter old friends and past professors, they tour the campus and attend class reunions. Special feature in 1961 festivities is the luncheon given on Homecoming Day in honor of those who graduated fifty years past. At noon the college cafeteria is crowded with Lipscomb students emeritus. A pageant of beauty awaits alumni in the final moments of the week-end as McQuiddy Gymnasium becomes the background for the coronation of the Homecoming Queen. Tired and happy, alumni leave as they came, remembering Lipscomb.

President Whitefield presents a gift from loyal subjects to their own lovely queen.

Saturday afternoon, snow, and a sled . . . wintertime date for Alan Kerns and Gwynn Blalock.

Acclimated Activity

Suddenly last November it snowed. We scraped windshields and stomped through carpets of instant mush. People from Florida stared and swallowed with relish their first snowball-in-the-face. Sleds and students tumbled down the hills of Percy Warner. Pizza, chili, and coffee suppers followed sledding dates. Even the courtyard of the new dorm for girls provided opportunity for a snow fight or the door-packing of a snowed-in-suite. Snow would come and go throughout winter, but only the first held special excitement in its crystal-coating action.

Some preferred indoor skating . . . a few preferred the floor.

A slip of the wrist meant a passer-by pelted with fistfuls of the instant mush.

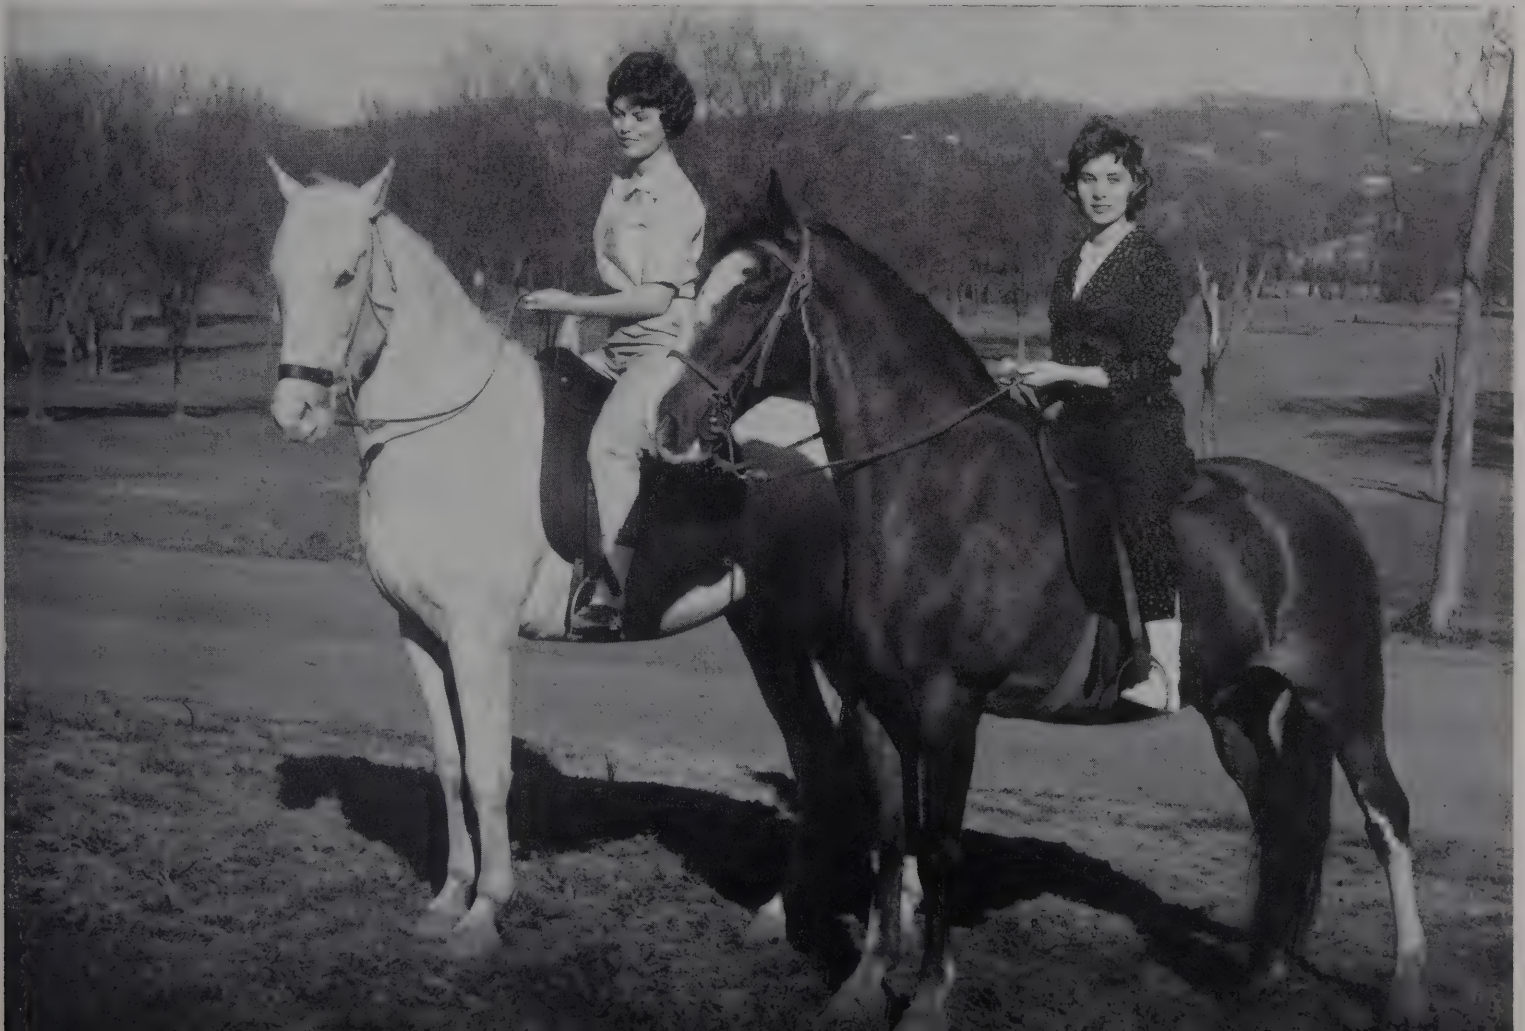

Stopping for the post-movie snack, Dalton and Amy Wright join David Walker and Bonnie Wilkes in food and fun.

Spring fever . . . couples lingered on the cafeteria wall after supper . . . the yo-yo fad came and went . . . Sunday afternoons were spent on picnics . . . indoor skating and bowling lost popularity for the season . . . warm air brought us outdoors. Some rode in convertibles, some on horseback. Many simply walked around the croquet court or played miniature golf. The energetic among us paced through sets on the tennis courts. All were striving for sun tans and an excuse for staying away from a dormitory desk piled high with textbooks.

The campus craze was the yo-yo and "Moby" Jones conformed.

Nearby academies offer Racheal Bramlett and Cindy Bailey an afternoon on horseback through Tennessee trails.

Educational Earning Power

The American way . . . hundreds of students are "working their way through college" . . . as employees of Lipscomb. Rising early to help keep cafeteria lines moving at breakfast . . . staying late to sell cokes and coffee behind student center counters . . . as secretaries to professors . . . warehouse assistants . . . lighting and audio-visual technicians . . . members of the library staff . . . registration clerks . . . bookstore salesmen . . . dormitory hostesses . . . switchboard operators . . . post office clerks . . . supervisors in the dormitories . . . members of the maintenance crew . . . student assistants to department heads . . . laboratory instructors . . . all are working toward the attainment of a goal. Paying part of their expenses by working for the college, students are enabled to help themselves. Efficient and conscientious are those not unwilling to expend effort for success.

Adept at the Dewey decimal system, Gayle Lane shelves books in Crisman's non-fiction section.

Selling cokes over the student center counter, Dan Johnson shares conversation with customers.

JoAnne Whitley, Judy Motley, and Joan Hecker share Saturday afternoons with underprivileged children of the Youth Hobby Shop.

Unto The Least of These

The unavoidable egocentrism of college life becomes avoidable . . . spending Saturdays with small children in South Nashville . . . beside the beds of patients, aged and afflicted, in the County Tuberculosis Hospital . . . in the middle of troubled youth who are serving time in a reformatory called Jordonia . . . with another group of boys at the Tennessee Preparatory School . . . listening and laughing with residents of the Lakeshore Home for the Aged. Lipscomb students empty their hearts in service to others. Sometimes service means singing or playing or preaching . . . always it means praying for other people. Success comes slowly . . . as smiles brighten the faces of the suffering, as the underprivileged discover their part in the game, and as delinquents decide to search the scriptures. Lipscomb students go to guide, to give . . . but more than anyone else, they receive.

Friday night's favorite, bedfast "Mom" King, inspires students who came to inspire.

Laughter . . . impromptu and spontaneous . . . last in the long line of Junior-Senior tradition.

Another Time, Another Tradition

White columns standing amid magnolia trees . . . people to match placecards . . . gold edged mirrors reflecting pink, blue, and white lace over net . . . liquid sparkle sprayed from a center fountain . . . mint, roses, and tomato juice . . . Old South atmosphere of the historic Maxwell House, scene of the 1961 Junior-Senior Banquet.

Stephen Foster songs done by the Sophotones . . . Dean Woodward of Austin-Peay at the speakers' table . . . laughter provoked by John Crowder's junior class prophecy . . . squirming seniors hearing Bob Fulmer's class will . . . climax coming with tradition in candlelighting . . . contentment from listening to the baritone voice of Clarence Jackson . . . and the end of the annual formal affair, last of its kind. The juniors gift to the seniors and themselves . . . an evening long to be remembered.

Decor of Old South, delightful speaker, delicious steaks . . . for a rare evening to be remembered.

Men against men until the unbreakable breaks . . . end of Beautiful Day's traditional tug-o-war.

Beauty Beneath Rain Clouds

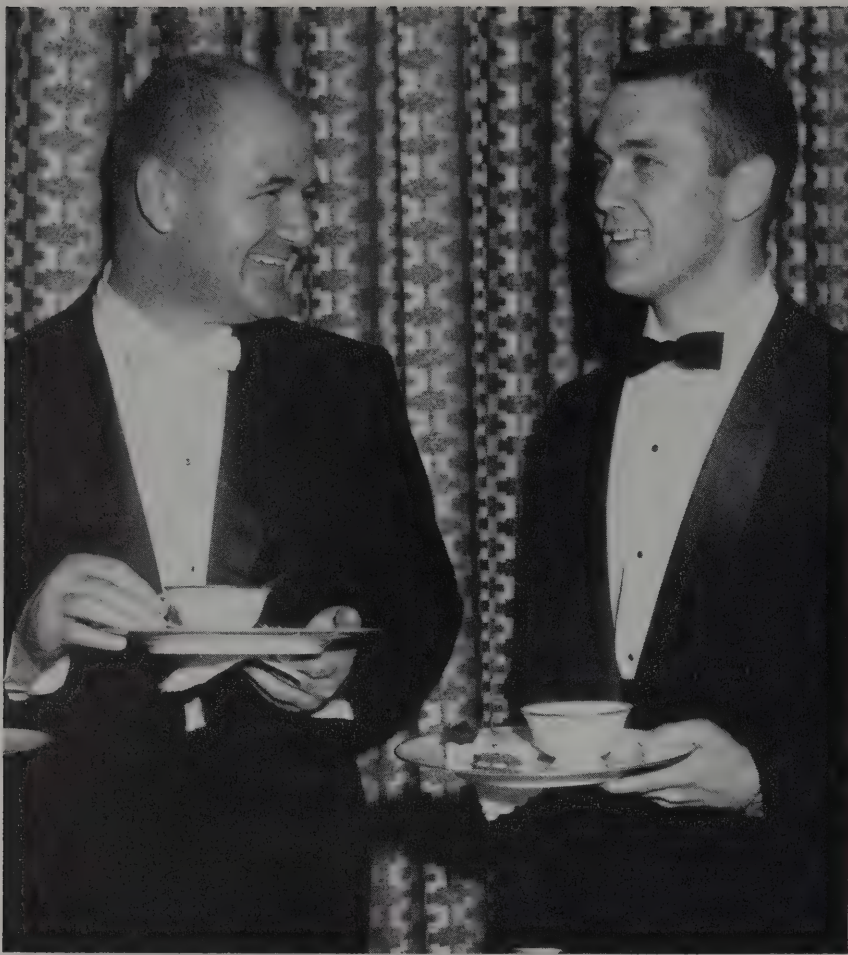

A belligerent voice in the balcony shouts rebellion as the dean finishes announcements in the post-chapel period. Students stare at each other, stunned. Dean Craig pauses only a moment, peers from behind his glasses, and speaks. Chaotic cheers break loose at his four words . . . IT'S A BEAUTIFUL DAY! No one had guessed this to be an introduction for the traditional holiday.

Outside Alumni the student body rushes to dormitory rooms for sportswear, tennis shoes, and car keys. Some go back for raincoats, for the sky promises a change. Undelivered lectures and class rolls are left in faculty offices for the classless day.

Buses and cars head for Percy Warner. Once there, everyone gets into the act . . . softball, volleyball, and football . . . a sudden, cold rain . . . hamburgers and cokes around an open fireplace . . . freshmen against upperclassmen in the annual tug-o-war and everyone lands in a heap . . . laughter, fun, and a day of college life to be remembered.

Cold rain, coldcuts, and cold drinks . . . and students huddle around an open fire.

Russian tea and a formal reception follow the concert of Charles Nelson.

Arts After Five

Classical and contemporary in Alumni Auditorium . . . renowned Brazilian pianist performing Chopin and six encores, Guimar Novaes in the fall . . . Bass-Baritone before a capacity crowd, the voice of Charles Nelson in concert . . . Spring Orchestral Concert combining students and symphony, behind the baton a violinist, Vernal Richardson . . . Lipscomb's Artist Series, aesthetically exciting in 1961.

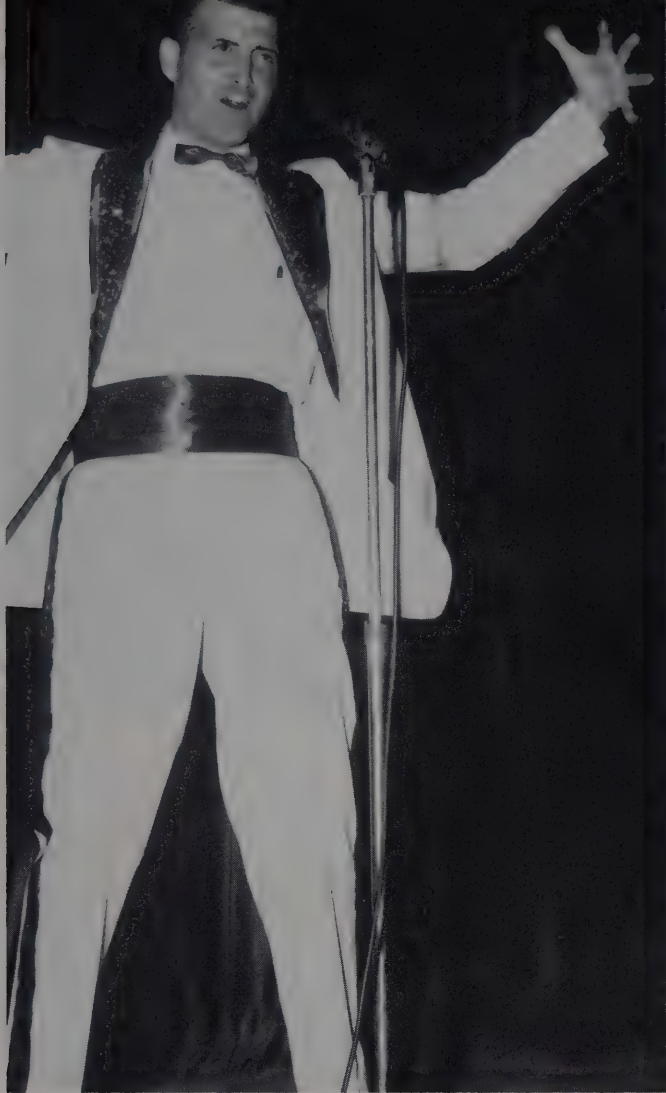

Evidence of entertainment, vernacular and varied . . . voices of the Varsity Quartet . . . Seniorama filled with talent, those on campus and off . . . seminar musicals . . . Buffaloettes in routine of comedy . . . Stardust in Stereo with swing band and chorus . . . Italian Opera in paradoxical presentation . . . George Hamilton, IV, singing ballads like blues . . . Lipscomb as an audience in the hours after five.

The Spring Orchestral Concert was conducted by versatile Vernal Richardson, violinist and jet pilot.

After her appearance on the Lipscomb Artist Series, Madame Novaes receives students introduced by President Pullias.

Amusing, expressive, and sarcastic . . . this is Bill Carpenter, Lipscomb's court jester.

Recording artist Robin Clark was the off-campus vocalist featured in Winter's Seniorama.

Personal appearances were numerous on campus and off for the voices of the Varsity Quartet.

Pre-ballgame parody of a Bisonette performance is enacted by male members of the "Buffaloettes."

Together Frank Walton and Carolyn Dixon create lights to match moods.

Season Under Spotlights

A moment of reality . . . mood from spotlight gels and an abstract set design, interpretation colored with make-up and a costume, lines digested outside rehearsal, the unreal becoming real through empathy . . . this is Theatre Lipscomb.

"Between Two Thieves" in its first off-Broadway run, the original American melodrama "Dirty Work at the Crossroads," Pulitzer Prize winning "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," seminar adaptations of "South Pacific," "Porgy and Bess," and "Macbeth" . . . this is the 1961 Season.

Music from current Broadway hits intermingled with annual awards, and "Spring Spotlights" closes the Season. In tux and semi-formals, drama patrons and participants fill Alumni for our answer to the academy awards. Announcing voices of Alpha Psi Omega, drowned by applause, as spotlights follow winners down the aisle for their awards . . . a Season ends with success.

Falling on his face in despair, Judas cries, "I never thought they would kill him!" as twentieth century Jews retry Jesus of Nazareth in the fall.

"Bali Hai will whisper on the wind of the sea" . . . and "South Pacific" comes to Lipscomb in scenery and sound.

Actors Joel Dobson and Jimmy Cawood receive cheers, jeers, and applause from the melodrama's audience.

Make-up marks the transition from coed to actress to melodramatic character.

Actress Linda Gould led a freshman cast toward the coveted title, Best Forensic Play.

A jubilant junior class gained victory after a spirited football season.

Collegiate red and white clad cheerleaders sparked seniors to second place in football.

An autograph Bison for homecoming alumni was the clever creation of sophomore artists.

Clash Among Classes

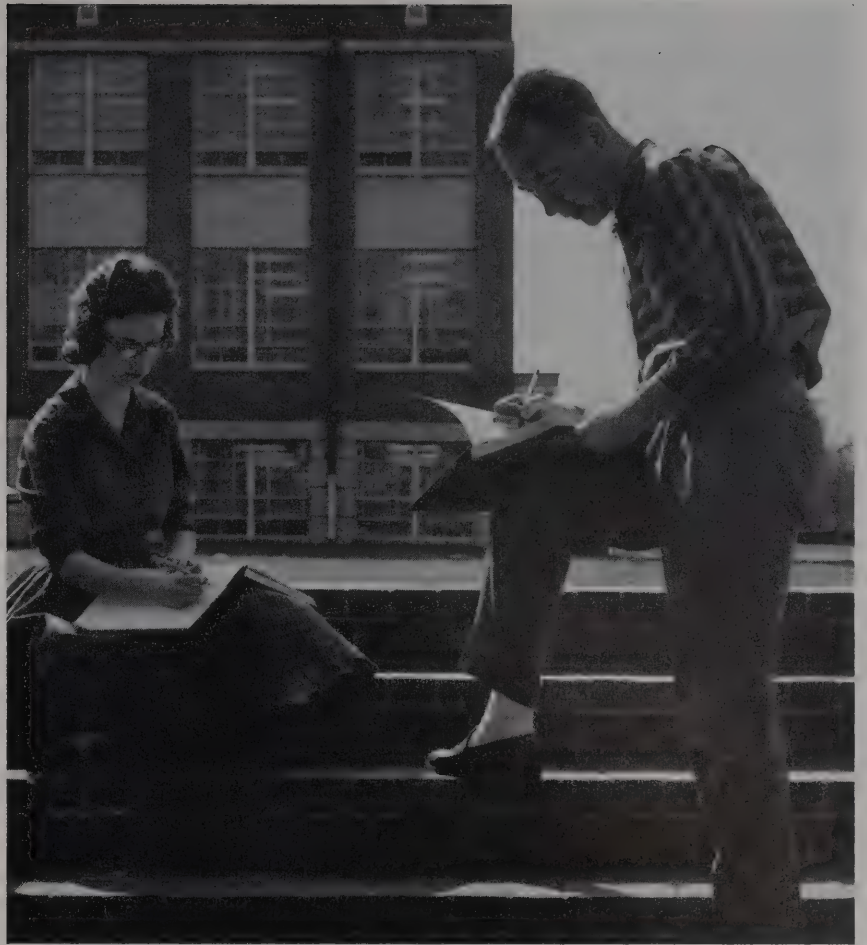

Football, forensics, basketball, and banquets . . . all promote strife and spirit among the classes. The strife is the incentive. The spirit is the goal. Classes, closely knit in effort, attain success even in defeat.

Cheerleaders and team captains spark the spirit in sports. For fall, a "touchdown"; for winter, a "basket"; for spring a "home run" . . . either is the cry of interclass competition. Freshmen in purple, sophomores in blue, juniors in green, seniors in red . . . color and class combining their cheers. Some games were won; others were lost. Success came and went, but the spirit stayed on.

Forensic Tournament, an annual event . . . debate demanding teamwork . . . after dinner speaking for the clever . . . speeches given on subjects received . . . four plays of one-act each, and it was all over. Saturday night's banquet meant awards for a few, but what had been learned remained.

The End — A Beginning

College is a way of life . . . with beginning, without end. Summer is not the end, even for the senior. June comes, we go . . . but the challenge of college is carried with us. Moments shared . . . friendship found . . . thoughts stimulated . . . ideas grasped . . . ideals strengthened . . . love learned . . . all are a part of us forever. Lipscomb is the place. Truth is the search. Graduation is the beginning.

Final words written at the end of the year make real the meaning of summer's separation for a campus couple, Sandra Ellis and Jerry Alderson.

Graduation opens the door, never to be closed.

Bidding farewell to the familiar, the graduate goes forth.

The preparation, the perseverance, the prize . . . symbols of the search for truth.

President Athens Clay Pullias

President

He Dares To Dream

"The Key to Happiness" has been presented the students of Lipscomb by President Athens Clay Pullias. Through a series of speeches delivered in chapel and through twenty-six years of service, President Pullias has emphasized the point that true happiness comes only from the giving of one's self to a worthy cause.

The man may be measured by his own words. Athens Clay Pullias has given himself to the building of an idea as well as of an institution. The David Lipscomb College for which he has planned, purposed, and prayed during a quarter of a century is more than a physical plant for professor and pupil. It is representative of the whole sphere of endeavor termed Christian education. For this Pullias has dreamed and striven to make his dreams transform into reality. The results of his efforts are impressive, progressive, and real. They have not ended with 1961. Blueprints have already been drawn for the next fifteen years of Lipscomb improvement, enlargement, and endeavor. President Pullias applies in his own life the principles he teaches.

Presidential secretaries are Mary Sherrill, Assistants Nora Jean Wallace and Anne Marie Robertson.

Members of the Board of Directors are: (first row) M. N. Young, Secretary-Treasurer; Harry R. Leathers, Chairman; A. M. Burton, Chairman Emeritus; J. E. Acuff; I. C. Finley; (second row) John W. High; Claude Bennett; Lee F. Powell; James R. Byers.

Proposition: Progress

Plans, policy, and progress to build, not a bigger, but a better Lipscomb—this is the role played without remuneration by nine businessmen who compose the Lipscomb Board of Directors. Aware of the problems peculiar to the institution, board members are planning today for the flourishing future of the college. Their long-range development plan includes the addition of nine new buildings. First on the list of the physical expansion program is a new science building to house the college departments of chemistry, physics, and biology.

Assisting in the achievement of goals set by the Board of Directors and striving to coordinate school activities are the functions served by the Executive Council. Members of the Council include the college president, vice-president, dean, business manager, a faculty representative (Dr. Carroll Ellis for 1961), and the principals of the demonstration schools.

Members of the Executive Council are: (first row) Athens Clay Pullias, President; Willard Collins, Vice-President; Miss Margaret Leonard, Principal of Elementary School and Supervisor of Instruction in High School; (second row) Carroll Ellis, Faculty Representative; Mack Wayne Craig, Dean; Edsel F. Holman, Business Manager; Damon Daniel, Principal of High School.

Vice-President

Success At Seven

Lipscomb students recognize the booming voice of their Vice-President as that of an efficient executive and concerned counsellor. As director of campus activity, Willard Collins correlates the administration and student association in purpose and progress.

Daily duties and responsibilities of the capable administrator demand versatility and vigor. He officiates the college programs of athletics, artist and lecture series, student welfare and behavior, dormitory life, and alumni "Friends of Lipscomb" meetings. Twenty-six Sundays of the year Vice-President Collins speaks in the interest of Christian education. He travelled throughout the country during the current school year to preach in thirteen gospel meetings. The Granny White congregation experienced an extremely successful fall meeting with more than seven hundred college students attending services at seven o'clock each morning and evening to hear his stimulating sermons. Chapel director Collins delivered his first series of chapel messages to an interested audience of students and faculty during the meeting. Lipscomb has been enabled during 1961 to appreciate their administrator as an excellent preacher and an exemplary personality.

Vice-President Willard Collins

"In the know" about the affairs of Lipscomb are the Vice-President, his secretary, Betty Knott, and News Bureau Director Eunice Bradley.

Dean

Academic And Active

Dean Mack Wayne Craig is much more than a mere academic administrator of David Lipscomb College. Students and faculty colleagues recognize his exceptional qualities as a scholar, speaker, and spiritual advisor. The Charlotte Avenue Church of Christ receives his services as an active minister and member of the congregation. More than five hundred freshman counselors regard him as their friend. Mack Craig is an encouraging friend and former teacher of popular singer-actor Pat Boone who invited the Craigs to spend Christmas holidays in his Los Angeles home. While there, Dean Craig preached in a gospel meeting for the Hollywood Church of Christ. Many students from other states enjoyed Saturday afternoon tours which he conducted through Nashville's historic Belle Meade Mansion, Hermitage, and Parthenon. Despite daily duties of his administrative schedule, Dean Craig spent his own time directing the outdoor singing of dormitory students each Tuesday evening.

Dictations of the Dean are followed through by secretary Anne Simmons.

Mary Hall and Marilyn Henry are kept busy with Business Office correspondence and computation.

Business Manager Edsel F. Holman

Business Manager

Friendly Financier

Lipscomb's official money manager is Edsel F. Holman. All in-coming or out-going money passes through his efficient supervision. This marks Holman's seventh year of balancing budgets for Lipscomb departments and publications. Official administrative duties for Business Manager Holman include the management of the college bookstore, postoffice, switchboard, and campus maintenance. He is chairman of the traffic committee, purchasing agent for the school, and director of the working students program.

His is a well-filled schedule, yet Edsel Holman always manages a few free moments for the consideration and counselling of any student with a financial question or problem. Holman's off-campus hours are filled with added activity. He preaches for rural congregations in Tullahoma, Tennessee, each Sunday, and keeps physically fit by frequently playing tennis.

A quick conference is called for the registrar and his secretaries Clara Richardson and Mae Rucker.

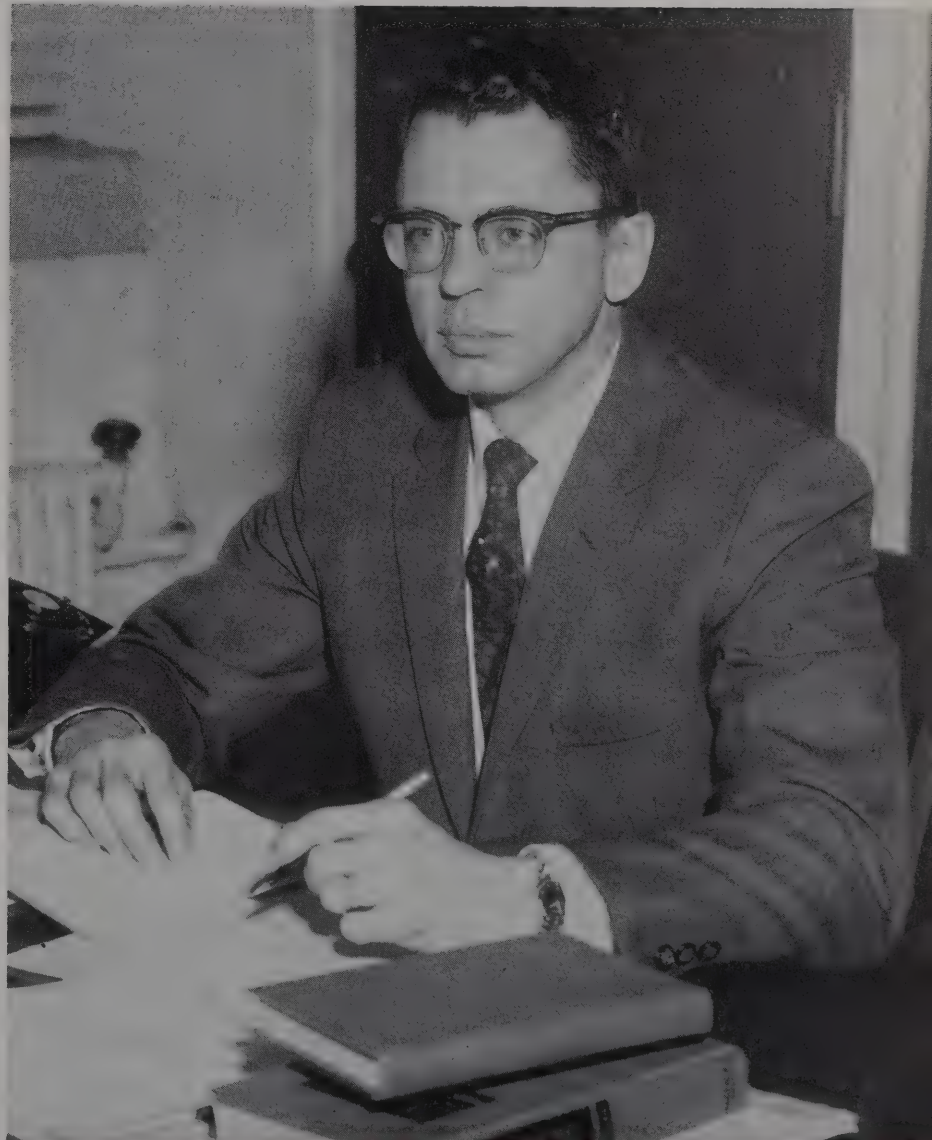

Registrar

A Well-Rounded Registrar

Mathematician and musician, Registrar Ralph Bryant has within his office files the vital statistics of student transcripts. Most popular man on campus during registration, examinations, and pregraduation, Bryant knows how "to keep his head" when all about him students are losing theirs and blaming it on him. Despite his position as unofficial complaint department for the student who failed a course or failed to register soon enough for admission to a certain class, Ralph Bryant maintains the quiet dignity of a considerate counsellor. He schedules classes and examinations, keeps records of grades, supervises admissions, and supplies transcripts upon request. Health club membership helps him keep physically fit, despite the limitations of his desk job.

Versatile in interests, the Registrar enjoys art in all forms. His piano and violin repertoire includes classical as well as popular selections. He often leads chapel and congregational singing. Mentally, physically, and spiritually, Ralph Bryant strives to improve himself through exercise.

Members of the Religious Education Faculty are: Joe E. Sanders, Department Chairman; Carl McKelvey, Instructor; Margaret Leonard, Instructor; Lewis Maiden, Instructor.

Know Thyself Know Thy God

Striving to exceed the function of secular education which says, "Know thyself," Lipscomb provides through its Bible department a fuller, richer education in which the student comes to know that which is above and beyond mere man. Shunning skepticism and speculation, the Bible faculty teaches the Bible as the inspired Word of God. Every secular subject is interpreted in light of revealed truth. Daily classes are designed to cover the entire Bible during four years of study.

Versatile instructors travel annually to churches and colleges across the country, speaking in gospel meetings and lecture-ships. Dr. Batsell Barrett Baxter, head of the department, completed during 1961 fifty-two films in a series for the nationwide "Herald of Truth" television program.

Thirty of Dr. Baxter's sermons were published in the first volume edition of Great Preachers of Today. Another faculty member, Dr. J. Ridley Stroop, published his fourth book, They Who Are Christ's. Dr. Russell Artist, John Willis, Fred Walker, and Harold Baker are among members of the faculty who will accompany Dr. Baxter and the Hillsboro Church of Christ mission team to England in the summer of 1961.

Dr. Baxter commends Goodpasture Medalist Hugh Trigg on his having attained the highest academic average in his major field Bible.

Eager anticipation of England is heightened, as tour director Baxter outlines stops for the summer travellers.

Members of the Biology Faculty are: Benjamin J. Wilson, Associate Professor; Russell C. Artist, Department Chairman; Willis C. Owens, Assistant Professor; Helen G. Pilkinton, Instructor.

Biology

Uncovering The Unknown

Biological science studies the known and strives to uncover the unknown. Under the direction of department head Russell Artist, biology instructors and students search for previously undiscovered answers through individual experimentation and research. Dr. Artist has supervised the botany research of senior Jean Enochs, while continuing his own ten-year plant survey. Miss Enochs read a research paper at a May meeting of the Tennessee Academy of Science. Newest addition to the biology staff, Dr. Willis Owens has directed the research of Cliff Balduf, Bill Cornell, and David Whitefield who are working in developmental embryology. Owens read a paper based upon his doctoral research at the American Institute of Biological Sciences. Seniors Sara Reed and Linda Felts have projects in mycology and bacteriology. Dr. Benjamin Wilson is currently conducting a study of microbial toxins.

In Lipscomb's new Biology lab Linda Felts transfers the colonies of a bacteria culture.

Roger Peck's problem is solved by future C.P.A. Freddie Holladay.

Business Administration

Money-Making Mechanics

Preparation for a work-a-day world are the results of an active department of business administration. Plans for progress are made after measuring the merit of the past. Dr. Axel Swang, head of the department and secretary of the Tennessee C.P.A.'s, has directed the compilation of the business success stories of department graduates since 1948. Their career achievement and critical comments will be considered in scheduling future courses in secretarial studies, accounting, and business law.

The business of making money may best be learned from those who have absorbed the essentials themselves. Dr. Swang spoke at a spring convention of the American Accounting Association and had a part in the writing of a recently published textbook. Business law instructor Robert Kendrick has published two articles in the 1960 Vanderbilt Law Review.

Actual Homework

Students of the Lipscomb home economics department study the domestic arts under skillful supervision. Through laboratory experimentation and instruction in cooking, designing, sewing, nutrition, and home management, they are trained for active careers as home economists, wives, and mothers.

Energetic participation in the various extracurricular activities offers home economics majors practical experience. Miss Betty Wells supervised the designing and sewing of a complete cast wardrobe for the winter quarter major dramatic production of an old fashioned melodrama. The elaborate and colorful costuming was a featured attraction of the play from the Gay Nineties era. Under the direction of Miss Margaret Carter, home economics majors prepared and served meals for many banquets and dinners on the Lipscomb campus.

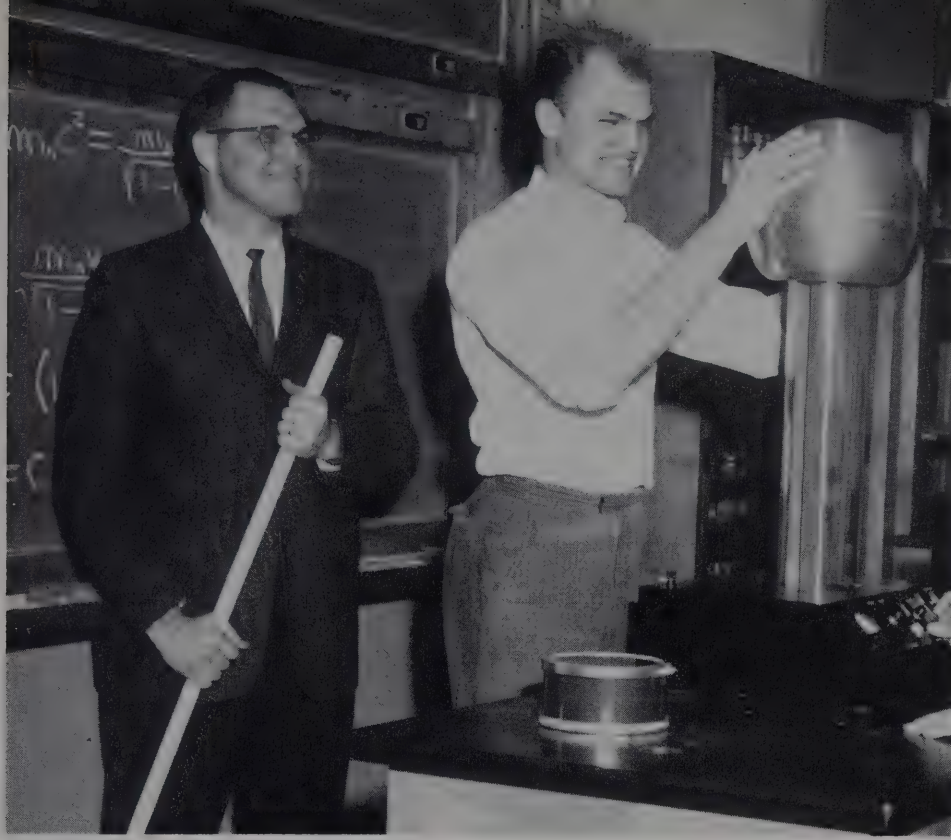

Climaxing the college training for girls who major in home economics is the quarter spent in residence at the Home Management House. Students assume responsibility for complete management of the home on a restricted budget.

Principles Of Precision

Developing deductive and inductive processes of thinking by the department of mathematics is of importance to those planning careers in engineering, pharmacy, science, and medicine. The precision and principles upon the bases of which mathematical problems are solved are not limited in application for mathematics majors. Progress in the systematic ordering of thought is impressed with words and chalk as the faculty introduces mathematics students to the practical applications of cold calculated formulas.

Fresh strength for the department was added for the 1960-61 school year as Rodney Cloud, Constance M. Fulmer, and C. Earl Dennis joined the mathematics faculty. Robert H. Kerce has been on leave of absence, completing work for his doctoral degree. The first in a series of new courses was initiated by Ralph Nance this year in the form of an accelerated mathematics course for pre-engineering students.

Members of the Mathematics Faculty are: Ralph R. Bryant, Professor; Clarence Earl Dennis, Instructor; Constance M. Fulmer, Instructor; Rodney E. Cloud, Instructor.

The amazing machine of Gladys Gooch speaks both French and Spanish fluently.

Languages

Work In Words

The foreign language faculty spends five days of each week introducing students to the spoken and written symbols of communication of the French, Spanish, German, Greek, and Hebrew cultures. Their purpose is to provide the fundamental pronunciation and comprehension of a foreign language. Students seeking the Bachelor of Arts degree and those planning to enter graduate school are required to have an adequate background in one language in addition to English.

Whether ancient or modern his choice, the student gains much by a fundamental mastery of a foreign language. Ministerial students use their study of Greek or Hebrew in exegetical study. A reasonable knowledge of German is of importance to science majors or minors. Students of the fine arts usually pursue one of the modern languages taught by Mademoiselle and Senorita Gooch, for French and Spanish are aids in the study and appreciation of world literature.

Members of the English Faculty are: (first row) Sue Berry, Instructor; Morris P. Landiss, Department Chairman; Aileen W. Bromley, Assistant Professor, (second row) Constance M. Fulmer, Instructor; J. E. Choate, Jr., Professor of Philosophy; Robert S. Usrey, Instructor; Eunice B. Bradley, Instructor in Journalism; Jennie Pittie Brown, Assistant Professor.

English

Philological Promotion

In an effort to extend interest in language and literature beyond the classroom, the department of English has provided programs designed to promote scholarly pursuit among students. Dr. Morris P. Landiss, chairman of the department and state chairman of the National Committee on College Composition, this year initiated a series of dinner meetings, at which faculty members read scholarly papers. Planned primarily for seniors in preparation for comprehensive examinations, the meetings were open to all students interested in literature.

After becoming a member of the Southern Literary Association in 1960, Lipscomb sent representative entries in the creative writing contest of the Southern Literary Festival of 1961. Senior Ann Bandy was recipient of the Festival's first place award for best column in college newspaper entries. Her prizewinning BABBLER article was entitled "I Take Thee to Roommate."

Literature lives in the artistic and aesthetic approach used by Robert Usrey for freshman English students.

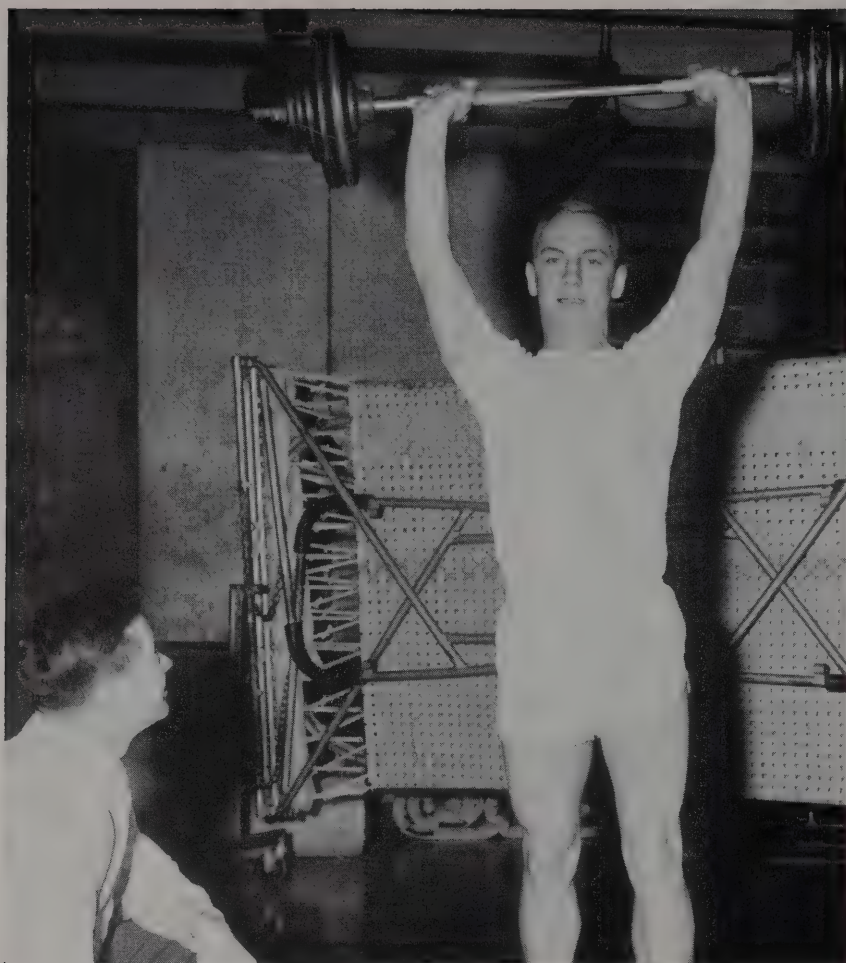

Physical Education

Exercise Among Colleagues

Lipscomb's department of physical education is concerned with both physical and social development of the individual student. Helping students expend energy while developing competitive spirit in sports, Bob Vanderwarker joined the staff as director of the interclass athletic program. Dr. O. Jennings Davis, head of the department, teaches a lecture course which deals with the contemporary status and role of sports, play, and recreation in American life.

For future teachers and athletic coaches, the department provides a thorough program of professional courses, supplemented by the college athletic program. In addition to varsity basketball, baseball, golf, tennis, and track, Lipscomb students participate in an extensive intramural program directed by Gene "Fessor" Boyce.

Physically fit Terry Basham flexes his muscles with a 150 pound barbell.

Chemistry

Search In Science

John T. Netterville, acting head of Lipscomb's chemistry, directs the minds of hundreds of freshmen in their first major attempt to understand the atom and its action. Lectures and required laboratory experimentation are supplemented by individual effort as the young chemists progress. Individual research plays an integral part in the academic program of both undergraduate and graduate students of chemistry. Robert T. Claunch, upper division instructor, recently had an article concerning his graduate research published in the Journal of the American Chemical Society. Seniors Ronnie Webb, Brent Snow, and Ken Hyche have been engaged in a research project seeking new information concerning hydrated ions in water solutions. Webb received an award from the Tennessee Academy of Science for a report on his work. Each of these students has been granted a graduate fellowship to further his scientific study. As a result of a meritorious undergraduate record, Junior Terry Smith has been invited to assist in summer research at the Atomic Energy Commission at Oak Ridge.

The unknown becomes apparent as research confirms the theories of young chemists Jerry Midyett and Terry Smith.

Members of the Chemistry Faculty are: John T. Netterville, Assistant Professor and Acting Department Chairman; Robert T. Claunch, Instructor.

Education

Classroom Competence

One of the most important phases of preparation offered by David Lipscomb College is that for those who plan to enter the teaching profession. A large percentage of Lipscomb graduates become competent Christian instructors in classrooms across the nation as a result of the sound training received in the department of education.

Strengthening its teacher training program, the department is developing a curriculum laboratory for student reference. Contents of the lab include text books covering elementary and secondary levels of instruction along with supplementary materials collected from school systems throughout the United States. Additions to the education faculty in 1960-61 were O. B. Stamper and Barlow Hill.

Musicians are made, not born.

Music

Quality

The Lipscomb music faculty promotes the participation, appreciation, and performance of the musical arts in the classrooms, on the campus, and in the community. Nashville audiences were again privileged to hear the bass-baritone voice of Charles Nelson in "The Messiah," December presentation at the War Memorial Auditorium. Alumni Auditorium held a capacity crowd for Nelson's fall concert in the Lipscomb Artist Series. String instructor Vernal Richardson, accomplished violinist, performed and directed Artist Series chamber music concerts. He is a member of the Nashville Symphony Orchestra.

Under the supervision of Department Chairman Irma Lee Batey, a new stereophonic sound system was installed in the listening room of Avalon Hall this year.

Placed by Ed Neely Cullom in a suggested situation, psychology students react for the benefit of an interested class.

Members of the Psychology faculty are: Vardaman Forrister, Assistant Professor; Ed Neely Cullom, Assistant Professor; J. Ridley Stroop, Department Chairman.

Psychology

Attitude And Affect

Placing emphasis upon mental hygiene for the individual, Lipscomb's psychology faculty trains teachers, social workers, psychologists, and counsellors to seek the causes, cures, and preventatives of mental imbalance.

Vardaman Forrister is writing a series of pamphlets designed to help individuals with mental problems. Ed Neely Cullom has conducted a study of selection and training of leaders. As Director of Testing, Cullom is constructing a series of tests to be used at Lipscomb to measure Bible knowledge and religious attitudes among students. He is also guiding student research on such problems as the effect of embarrassment upon learning. Department Head J. Ridley Stroop teaches mental hygiene. The effects of student attitude toward college life, study, and course selection is another problem under student research in the department of psychology.

Social Science

Man Views Man

Social science students acquire the basic understanding that man's natural, historical, political, and social environment is reflected in his life and in the life of his fellow man. Four areas of study prepare students for intelligent, useful citizenship.

Geography courses help the college student gain a more meaningful and accurate conception of our physical universe and its social implications.

The study of history is designed to develop an understanding of the varied and complex factors that have combined to produce the civilization of the present.

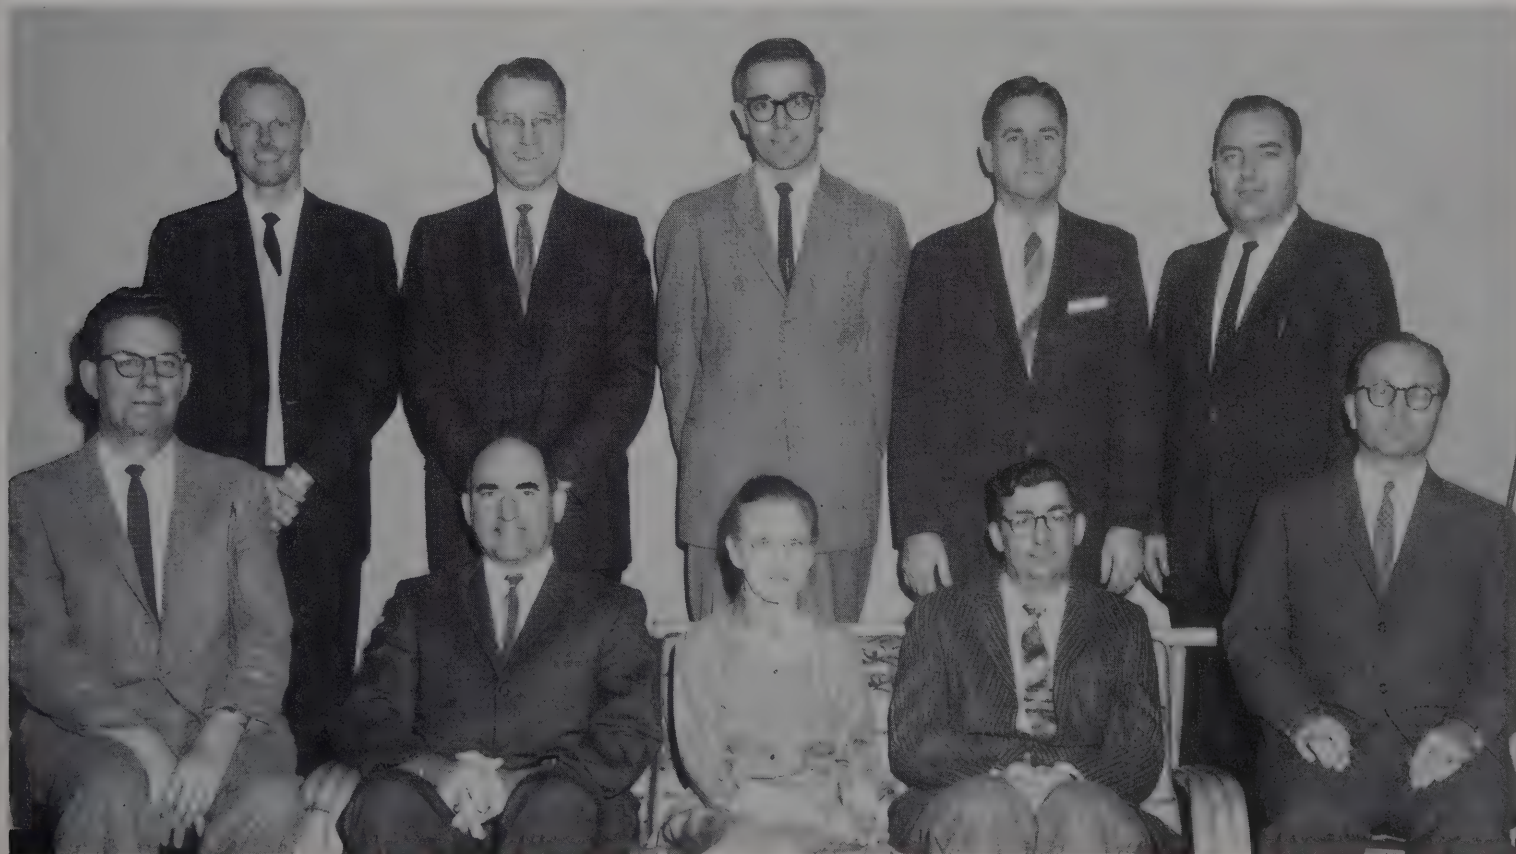

Through offerings in the area of political science, the college purposes to help prepare for intelligent citizenship and to provide a foundation for those students who have professional interests in government, law, and public service.

Sociology strives to acquaint the student with the nature of human relations through the application of the scientific method.

Nashville's Parthenon provides a natural setting for Freshman History students to study Greek culture.

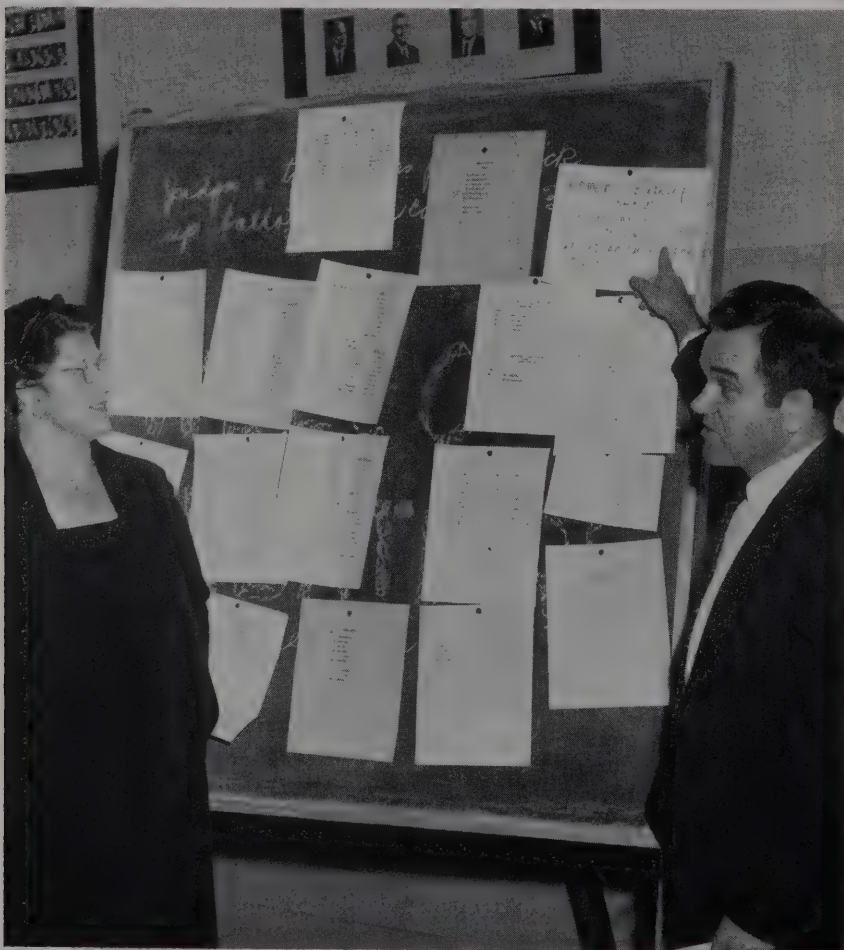

Members of the Social Sciences Faculty are: (first row) Vardaman Forrister, Assistant Professor of Sociology; James H. McBroom, Jr., Associate Professor and Acting Chairman of the Department; Mary M. Frizzell, Assistant Professor of Geography; Lewis S. Maiden, Associate Professor of History; Nathaniel T. Long, Jr., Assistant Professor of Sociology; (second row) Archie B. Crenshaw, Instructor in History; W. Ralph Nance, Instructor; Robert E. Hooper, Instructor; Robert E. Kendrick, Instructor; Thomas Barlow Hill, Jr., Associate Professor of Government and History.

"Big Man" at the Tennessee Tournament was Carroll Ellis, host and director.

Speech

Self-Expression In Sound

In a democratic society the ability to express ideas is as essential as the capacity to have ideas. Lipscomb places emphasis upon a well-developed department of speech. Training covers the areas of oratory, homiletics, and drama. Skill is acquired in research, analysis, quick thinking, and logical reasoning in addition to mastering the principles of proficient presentation.

Intercollegiate competition in debate and regular productions of the annual drama program provide practical experience and extracurricular activity. The department offers a week of intramural forensics in which classes compete in debate, one-act plays, extempore, radio speaking, oral interpretation, and Bible reading. Lipscomb's top speaker is chosen the third Friday of January in the Founder's Day Oratorical Contest.

Service In Design

As director of the Lipscomb art department, John Hutcheson is one of the busiest men on campus. Artistry and artistic advice are requested of him for most campus activities. He is artist and director of the two major events on the Lipscomb calendar—Homecoming and May Day. This year Hutcheson was responsible for the selection of furnishings in the renovation of Sewell Hall. The art work in the dormitory living room are his own. He served as sponsor of the 1961 BACKLOG. The Bison base was built by the Indiana Club under his supervision.

John Hutcheson and his students provided posters and decorations for programs and banquets. Several student art exhibits and the professional exhibit in the college cafeteria were products of the Lipscomb art department. During the Nashville Fine Arts Festival, the department presented a Ford Foundation Art Exhibit in the hall of Alumni Auditorium.

Library

Mental Gym

From the shelves of Crisman Memorial Library come the sources for several thousand student term papers, research projects, and reading reviews each quarter of the college year. Here pages of textbooks, class notes, and periodicals are perused by the conscientious, and student library assistants earn while they learn. Outlines for themes, sermons, and speeches take shape. Debate briefs are planned; formulas and theories are memorized; solutions for problems are found; couples share study dates; individuals concentrate or contemplate in silence.

Lipscomb's library stacks have a capacity of one hundred thousand volumes. In addition to reading and reference materials, the building houses the Audio-Visual Center, Babbler and BACKLOG offices, and offices for several faculty members. Organized for efficiency, attractive in atmosphere, and active in function, Crisman Memorial Library is a gymnasium for mental exercise.

Dormitory

Twenty-Four Hour Duty

The role of dormitory supervisor is complex. He is to the young men or women of his dormitory "all things" according to their needs. He has appreciation for their achievements, encouragement for their disappointments, patience for their problems, and discipline for their immaturity. He feels a sense of responsibility to the students, the school, and the parents.

At Lipscomb three Christian women and two dedicated men provide within four dormitories for the needs of all boarding students. They demand respect and give consideration. The results of their efforts are obvious and important. With them life on the Lipscomb campus becomes characteristically Christian.

Van Ingram and Ken Dugan supervise Elam Hall.

Admissions Office personnel are: Mary Ida Ralston, Card File Clerk; Norman Trevathan, Admissions Counsellor; Nancy Clark, File Clerk; Geraldine Carey, Secretary.

Business Office personnel are Shelby McClure, Supervisor; Allene Dillingham, Accounts Receivable Bookkeeper; Cathy Weddington, Pay Roll Clerk; Jackie Curtis, Cashier.

Efficiency Experts

The smooth operation of a school is directly proportional to the efficiency of its staff. Lipscomb leans heavily upon the skilled men and women who compose the college admissions and business office staffs. Norman Trevathan, admissions counsellor, travels extensively in student recruitment work, discussing "Why I Chose Lipscomb" with prospective students. He was director of the 1961 High School Day.

Keeping books and budgets for the financial activities of clubs, classes, and the college is the role filled by Edsel Holman's business office staff. Supervisor Shelby McClure and her clerical staff serve as the oil to keep the college machine in efficacious operation.

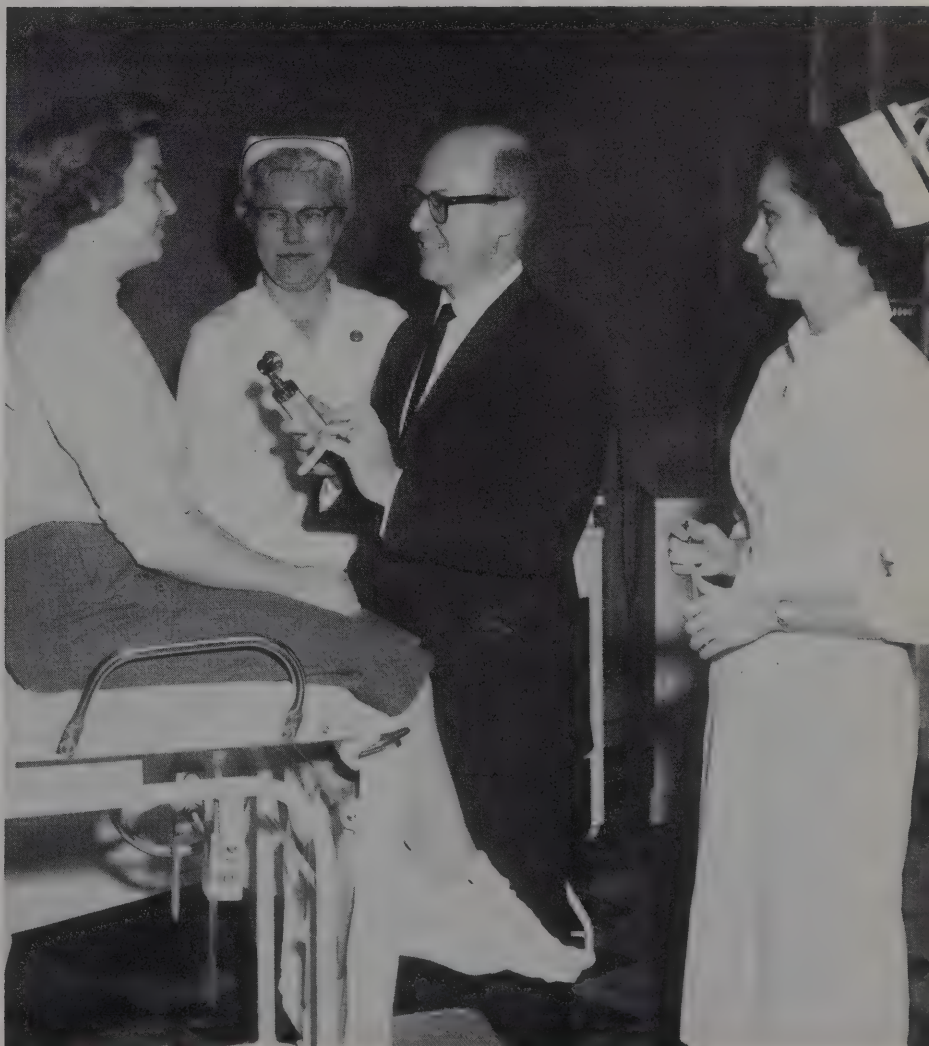

Food Services personnel taking time out for a coffee break are: Ruth West, Secretary; D. M. Hassey, Assistant—College Student Center; Frances Law, Assistant—High School Cafeteria; G. O. Traugher, Food Services Director; Kay Parkerson, Assistant—College Cafeteria; Marie Maxcy, Assistant—Elementary School lunchroom.

Serving Meals And Medicine

Essential to the contentment of eleven hundred college students are the efforts of Lipscomb's expert food and health staffs. Feeding the majority of campus mouths, food services director Gilliam Traugher and his staff serve three meals each day in the college cafeteria. Day students and faculty members eat student center lunches prepared by D. M. Hassey and his staff.

Influenza in the fall, head colds in the winter, and typhoid shots in the spring caused students to rely on the assistance and advice of Dr. Ralph Massie and his two staff nurses, Mrs. Willie Barron and Mrs. Martha Clendenin. Dr. Massie gives medical attention in his off-campus office upon the request of campus nurses from the student health center.

Behind-The-Scenes Team

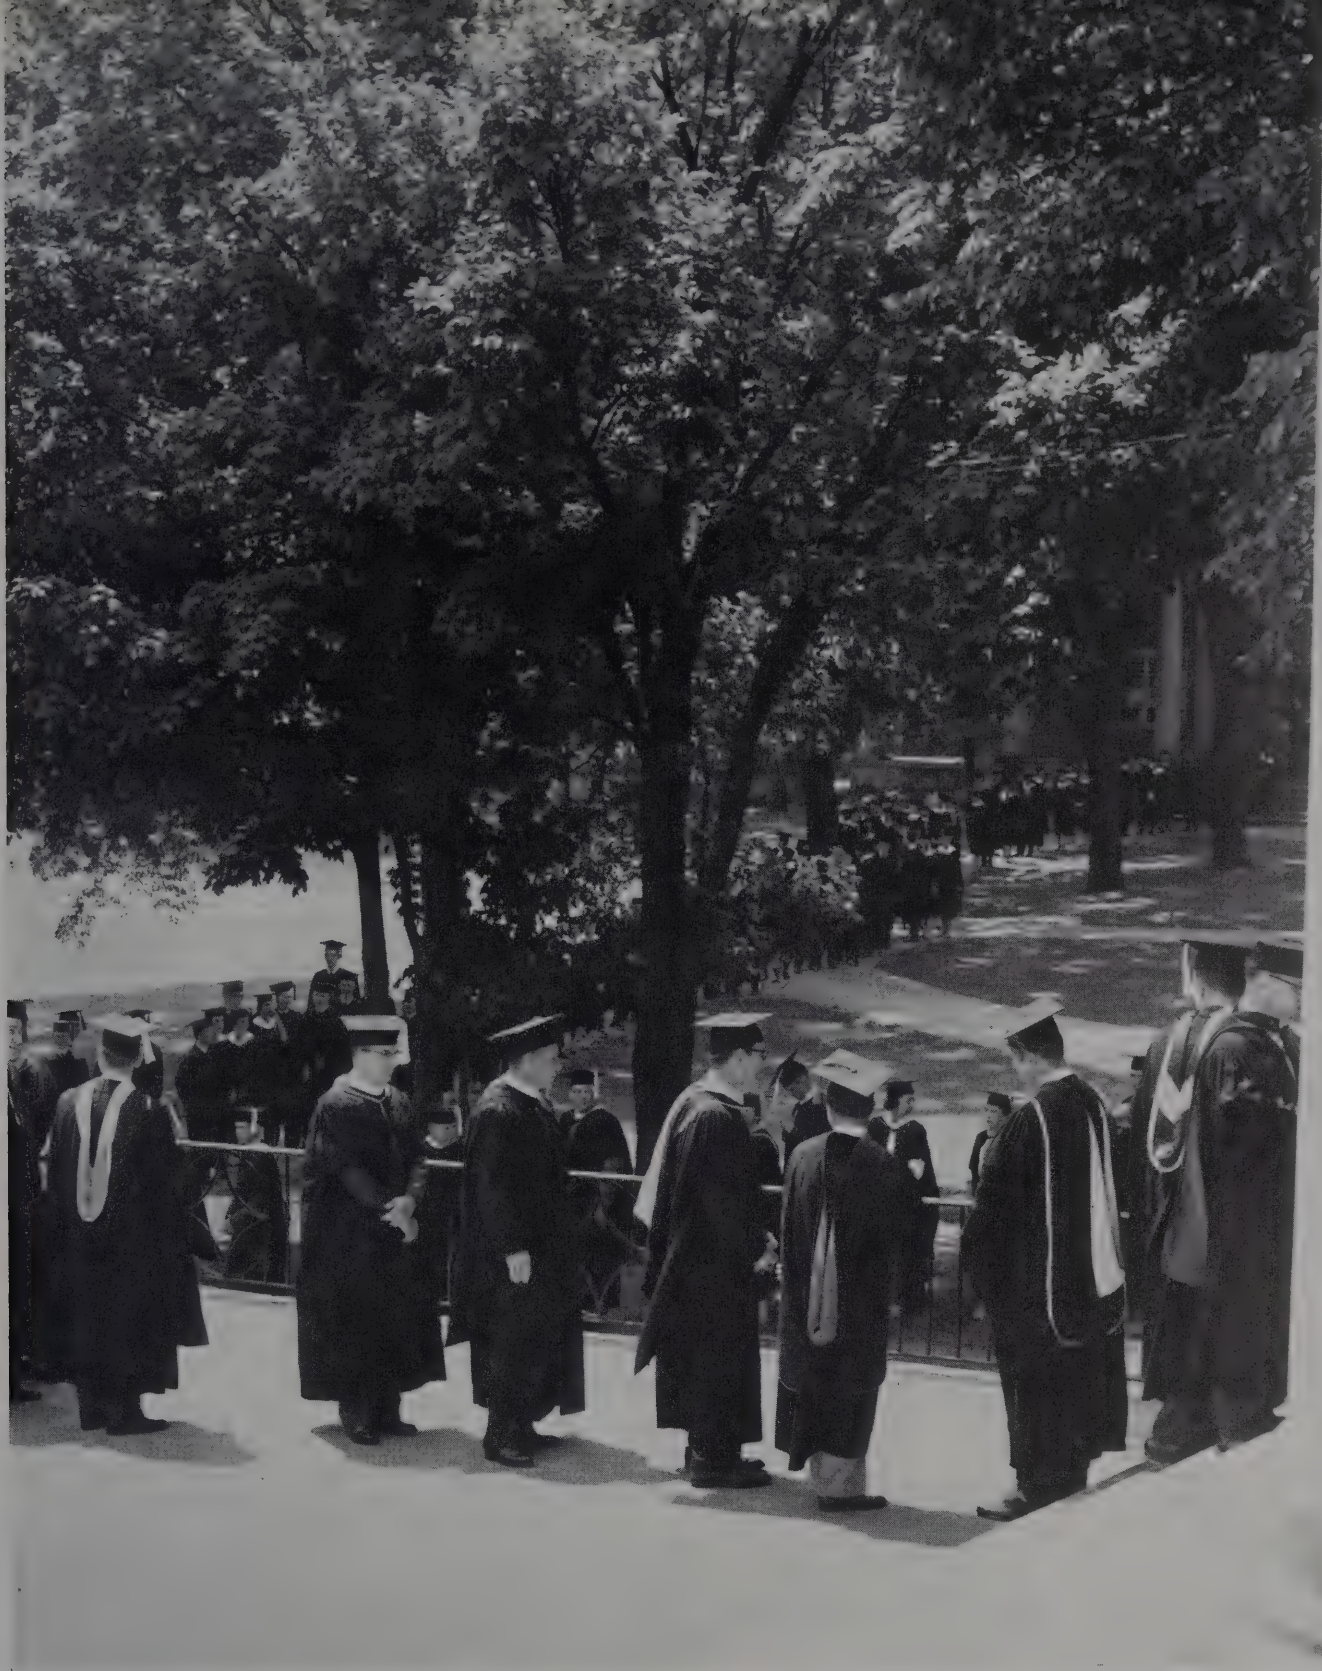

"Operation Lipscomb" is a large-scale undertaking, demanding much energy and effort from various individuals who work behind-the-scenes. Archie Crenshaw devotes time to day students as counsellor and director of placement. Mrs. Mary Taylor and her staff maintain accurate chapel attendance records. The campus book store and mailing room are efficiently managed by Kenneth Davis and Mrs. Gertrude Rhyan. Campus grounds are maintained by the staff and crew of Ronnie Brown. Heat plant engineer Claude Hayes and electrician Arnold Underwood service dormitory students. Each has his own particular duty; each does well his own particular duty; and the results prove "Operation Lipscomb" successful in 1961.

Grand Finale For Seniors

Spending their last year on the Lipscomb campus, the Senior Class of 1961 filled three quarters with academic, athletic, and extra-curricular activity. They started their final year of college with a class party at Old Hickory Lake. Despite crowded schedules, class members united efforts in the presentation of two sparkling variety shows, termed "Senior-amas." The winter quarter brought them a solid victory in the annual Intramural Forensic Tournament. Their Mary Jane Moore was crowned Queen of the 1961 Homecoming. Spring brought traditional activities. Queen Billy Jo Walker was presented in the processional of May Day. The Juniors entertained them at the Maxwell House with Lipscomb's last Junior-Senior Banquet. Finally they paced through the examinations and activities of a graduating class. The Class of 1961, as in Kipling's poem, filled each moment of their final year with "sixty seconds worth of distance run."

Enthusiastic Senior sponsors Archie Crenshaw, Axel Swang, and Ira North boost the spirit, as well as the projects, of the class.

High Finance For Juniors

Following a carefree year of fun, the spirited sophomores of '60 found themselves surrounded by new goals to be attained. Intramural football and basketball championships went to the third year class. Their Carrie Moran was crowned Football Sweetheart for 1961. A class talent show featured the ballads of popular George Hamilton, IV. Administrators Collins and Craig brought $10 each in the Junior-sponsored "Slave for a Day" faculty auction. A colorful Cumberland River Cruise on the showboat Avalon was a spring fund-raiser. "Starlight in Stereo" presented by the Juniors was a musical highlight of the spring season. Climaxing their year of fun and finance, Juniors staged the 1961 Junior-Senior banquet. The historic Maxwell House was the scene for the last in a long line of the traditional May banquets.

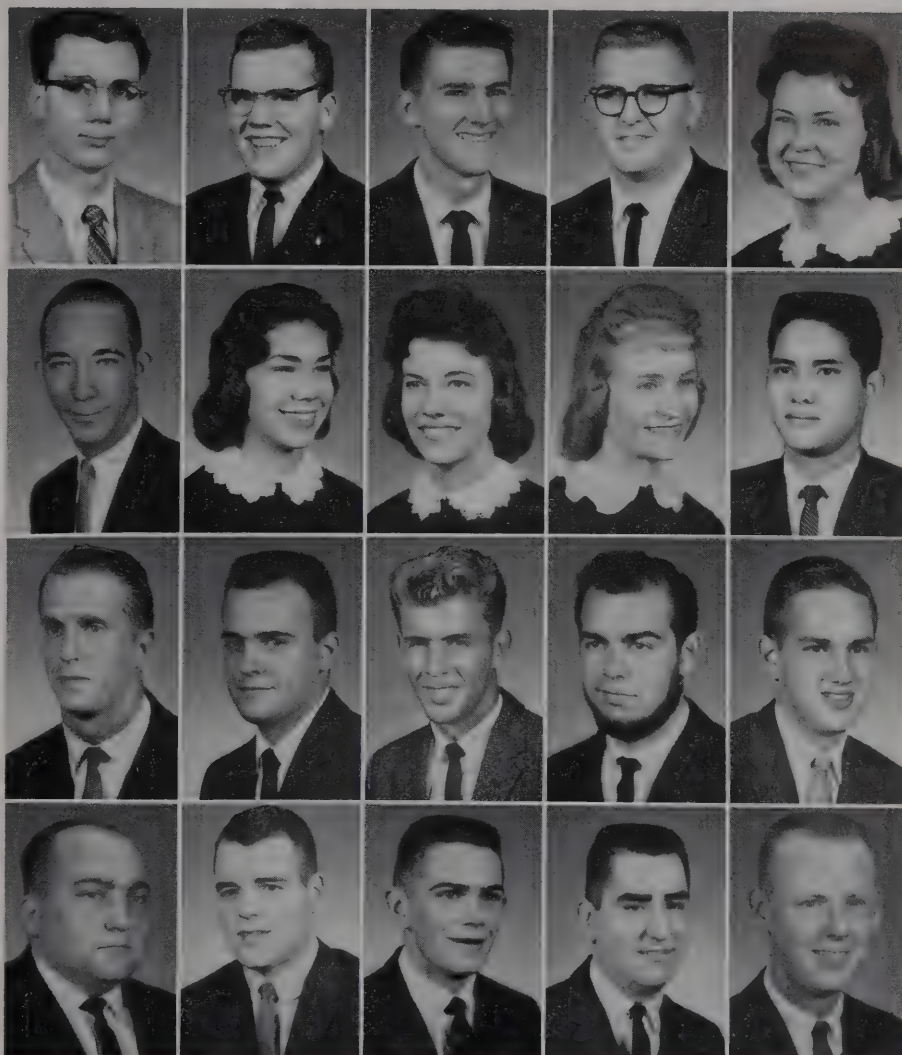

Auctioneer Sidney Hooper stops to plan strategy for the Juniors' "Slave for a Day" faculty auction with fellow sponsors Gene Boyce and Bob Vanderwarker.

Self-Confidence For Sophomores

Frustration was left behind as the neophytes grew through three months into sophomores. They returned in the fall with confidence, having found their niche in the Lipscomb life. Together they rode on the hay down past the Morrow farm, decorated boxes of toys for Tennessee orphans, threw a Ski Lodge party at Gossett's Barn and ate spaghetti, designed an autograph bison for alumni who came home, and travelled to Montgomery Bell for an oriental banquet. Again their class president was named Most Representative among them. Their wins on the softball diamond, near-wins on the football field, and plain losses in forensics were important. There was a reason for all their activity. This year they were care-free; tomorrow they must be conscientious.

Frenzied Activity For Freshmen

From the corners four came five hundred fifty-four Freshman with tanned faces, ivy wardrobes, and undisguised anticipation for their new collegiate careers. Lipscomb leaders were on hand to herd them through the chaos of tests, registration, regulations, and dormitory adjustment. First traditions pushed them together at the Freshman Mixer and Faculty Firesides. They strove to become a class, rather than a mass. As dark cottons and burnt leaves faded from autumn, the Freshmen eased their rush and were able to catch their breath before fall finals. During the winter they began experiencing the feeling of Lipscomb. Suddenly it was spring and banquet time. Never again would they be Lipscomb's largest, her newest, her Freshman class.

The Dean, the King, and Thornthwaite switch dates on the Freshman calendar.

Friends of Lipscomb In Action

The spirit of Lipscomb does not die in the hearts of students at graduation. Alumni across the nation are interested and active in the progress of their alma mater. More than any other group, they can appreciate the cause of the college and give of themselves toward its expansion.

Their interest in Lipscomb is not limited to returning to the campus for Homecoming reunions or sending a representative from their class for graduation exercises. Individual chapters strive to sell high school students on the school through "Friends of Lipscomb" dinners and programs. The Alumni Association furnishes food for the dinners, and the college provides the programs.

Organized through the central alumni office on the Lipscomb campus, each chapter elects local officers, votes in the annual election of national officers, and plans annual activities. Representatives from the college attend annual dinners of the local chapters. Dorris Billingsley of Nashville, Tennessee, was president of the National Alumni Association for the year 1960. Working with him were Richard Batey of Memphis, Tennessee, and Warren (Bud) Morris of Atlanta, Georgia.

The 1961 Homecoming reunited the Class of 1911 in Lipscomb's ultra-modern cafeteria.

Ability, achievement, award . . . searching in success for truth.

Captain Joe Welch and Sweetheart Carrie Moran share success in the 1961 football season, as the Juniors capture the coveted championship.

Juniors Seize Football Crown

When autumn and October ended, Lipscomb brought to a close the third traditional grid-iron season with the coronation of Carrie Moran as Football Sweetheart of 1961 during half-time of the Junior-All Star game.

Freshman, sophomore, junior, and senior teams had chosen a candidate from their class to the Court of Sweethearts. With the season's championship goes the season's crown, and the Juniors captured both in 1961. Their candidate Carrie Moran from Winter Haven, Florida, wore the coveted crown as a symbol of their victory.

Carrie and her court were escorted from convertibles to the field by team captains. The queen's royal blue was complimented by the beige, green, and black worn by class attendants: Sandra Thweatt, senior; Myrna Reynolds, sophomore; and Margie Coombs, freshman.

The football Court includes Sophomore Myrna Reynolds, Senior Sandra Thweatt, and Freshman Margie Coombs.

Homecoming In

Homecoming is Lipscomb, past and present. Together we fill McQuiddy, awaiting with anticipation the coming of our Queen. We are awed by the oriental design of her throne. Simple yet splendid the backdrop stands, an arrangement in red and black. Japanese lanterns hang from openings in the ebony walls. Their pastel glow forms shadows for an aura of the Orient.

Suddenly the eight couples of the Court begin walking the red carpet of presentation, pausing half-way under the beam of a Japanese lantern. Attendants wear red velvet sheaths accented by obis of satin and trailing sashes. Each carries an arrangement of red rosebuds on a tiny white fan.

Oriental Splendor

Silence overcomes us as the band announces Her entrance. Then thousands rise as one in ovation for our Queen Mary Jo Moore. The brown-eyed beauty in white on whom all eyes are focused represents our ideals, our spirit, our Lipscomb. President Pullias crowns her. She is honored by the student body and the basketball team. Spotlights, flashbulbs, and smiles glow in a previously-darkened gymnasium. The coronation is complete; the game is about to ensue. Queen Mary Jo and her Court are given seats of honor on the sidelines. All of us are happy. Homecoming for 1961 is ours.

Lipscomb's Coed Ideal

Sara Reed, Miss Lipscomb

Chosen most ideal among coeds, Sara Reed of Nashville was named "Miss Lipscomb" of 1961. Hers is the highest honor granted a Lipscomb woman. Climaxing a career on campus as an outstanding student, dedicated leader, and conscientious Christian, the title emphasizes the exemplary merit of Sara's college life.

Recognized by freshman as a favorite biology lab instructor and by upperclassmen as BACKLOG editor-in-chief, Sara's senior year was filled with duties and demanding deadlines. She served on the Student Board, President's Council, and Publications Board. Her undergraduate activity in journalism as Babbler news editor, Tower associate editor, and Press Club vice president merited membership in Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities.

Student leader, spiritual service, and intellectual endeavor . . . these mark Sara Reed as the coed ideal.

The Man Among Lipscomb Men

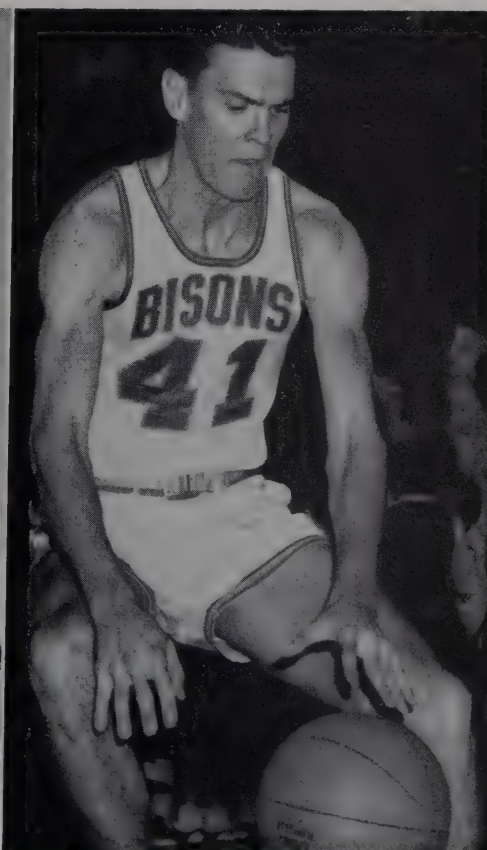

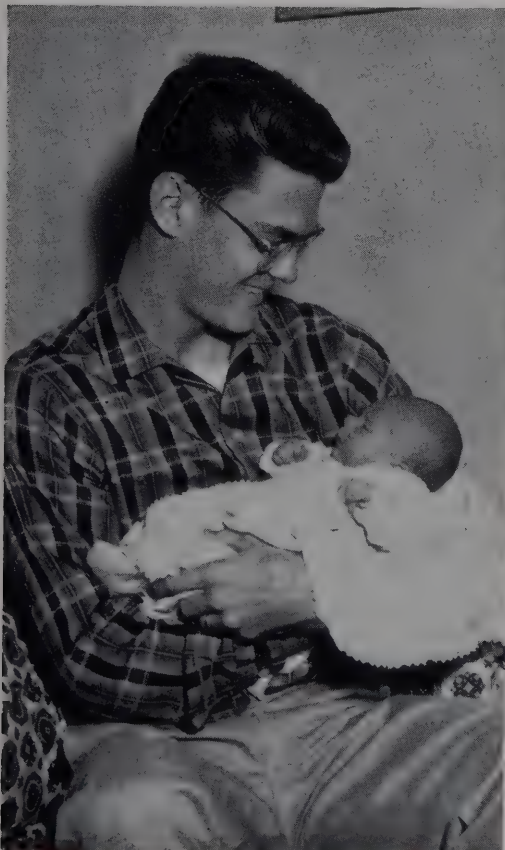

Chosen the outstanding man among Lipscomb men, Gary Waller was named the 1961 Bachelor of Ugliness. For Bison captain Waller, the title outshaded all others attained as an athlete and campus leader. It was a tribute granted to one admired and appreciated by Lipscomb for his values and versatility as a Christian leader of men.

Listed in Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities, Waller's athletic record was one of distinction. Pi Epsilon awarded him a trophy as Most Outstanding Athlete of 1960. Nashville Civitans presented to Gary an award for sportsmanship in the 1959-60 basketball season. He led the Lipscomb chapter of national Alpha Kappa Psi business fraternity as a senior.

Gary Waller, Bachelor of Ugliness

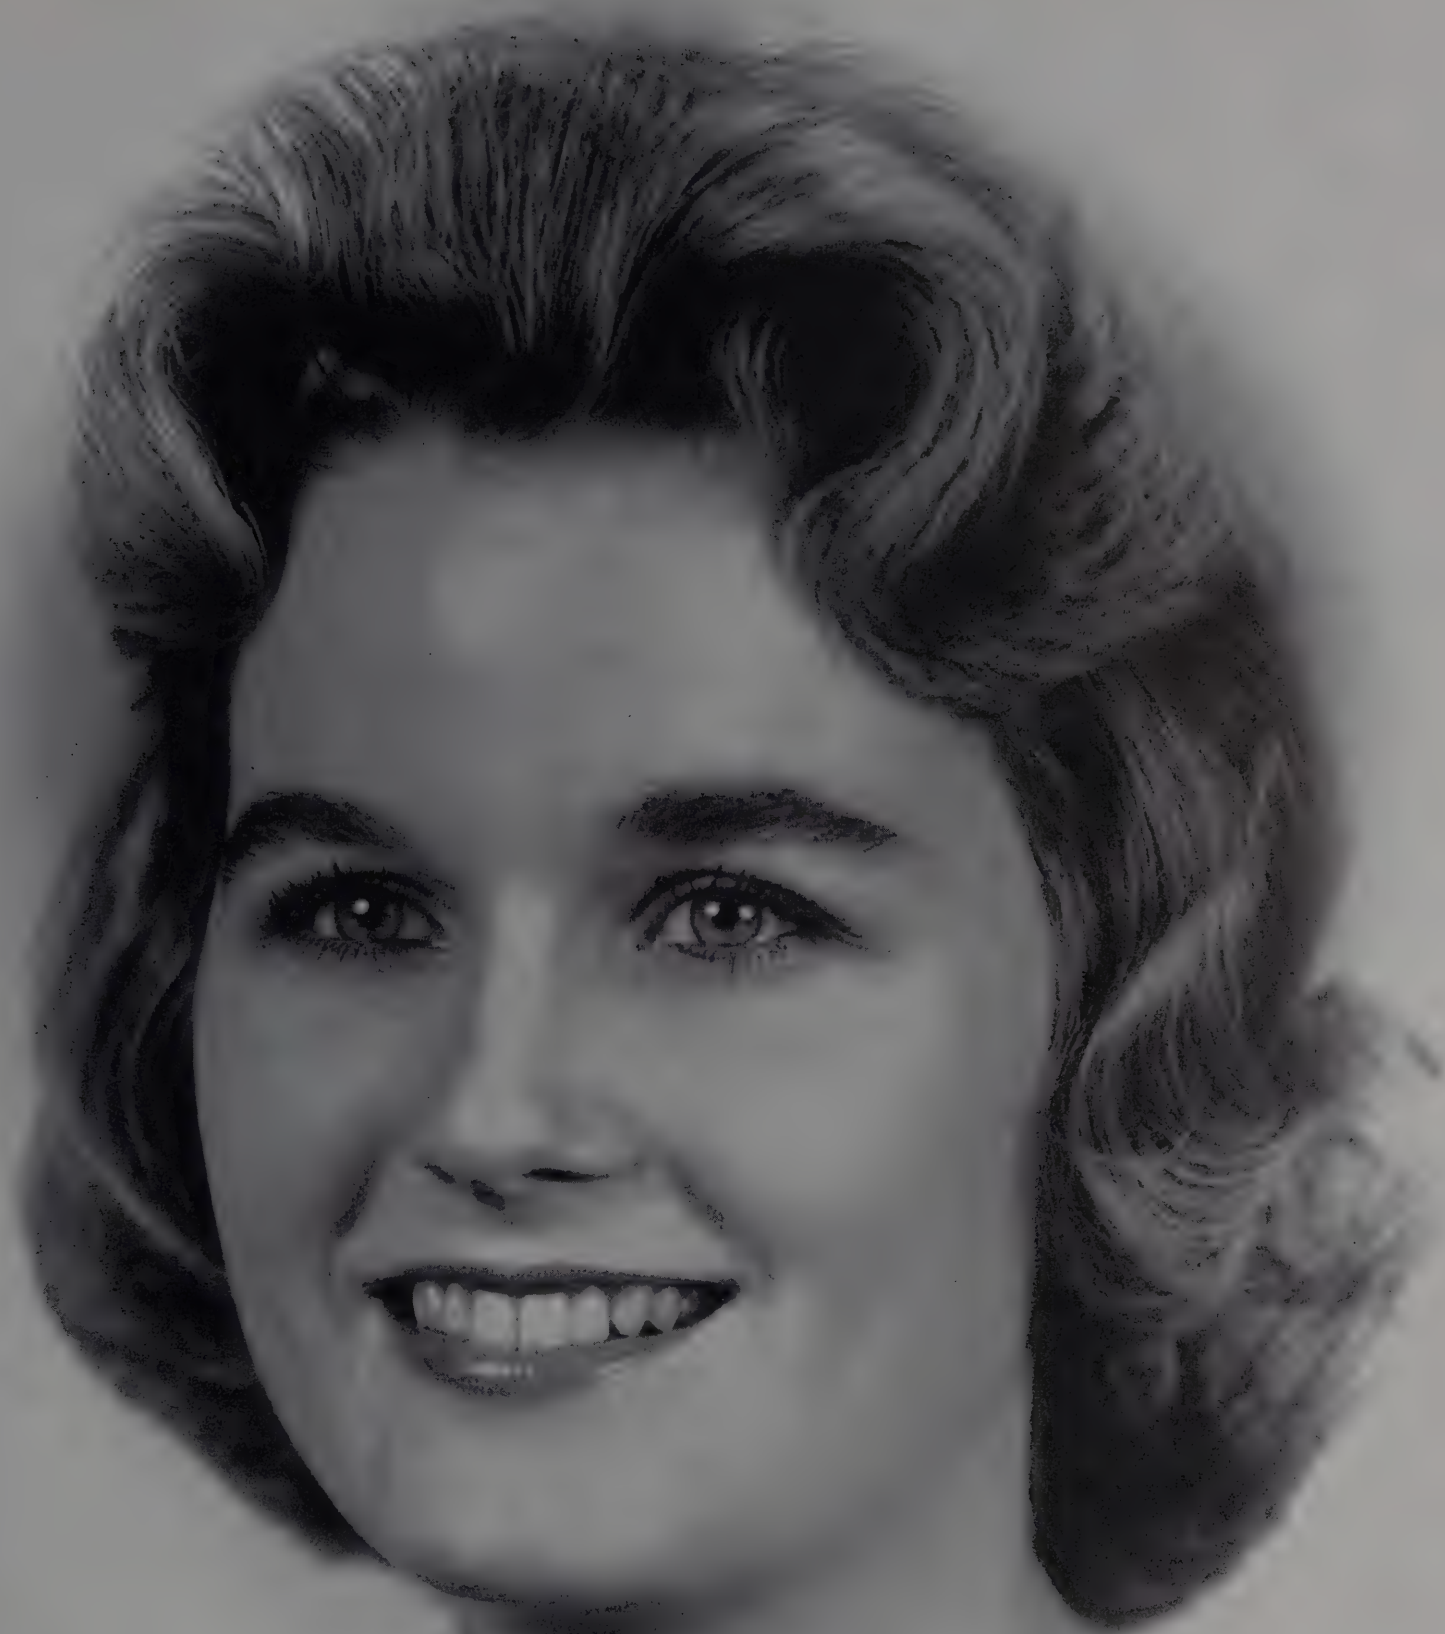

Behind the baby, a husband and father; behind the ball, athlete; behind the gavel, a leader . . . these are the roles of Gary Waller, outstanding Lipscomb male.

Most Representative Students

Athlete Larry Casbon was named Most Representative Senior. Termed a "great guy" by those who know him, Larry was alternate captain of the Bisons and captain of the baseball team during his senior year.

For two years the Juniors have elected as their Most Representative Student Ken Joyner of Orlando, Florida. He has served as vice president of his class, Elam Hall representative to the Student Board, and was a member of the 1961 Homecoming Court.

Sophomores selected their class president Bobby Demonbreun as their Most Representative Student. Native Nashvillian Bobby began his career as president of the Lipscomb high school student body. A capable speaker, Bobby is active in college debate and dramatics.

A freshman from Detroit, Michigan, Linda Gould was the only coed chosen by a class as their Most Representative Student. Linda captured the Best Actress award in the intramural forensic tournament and the feminine lead in the production of "Abe Lincoln in Illinois."

Freshman, Linda Gould

Senior, Larry Casbon.

Tradition On A Day In May

The spirit of springtime stirs Lipscomb . . . tradition in pastel shades, festivity for Saturday afternoon, pageantry on the steps of Alumni. This is May 6, 1961. At two o'clock the impressive processional approaches masses of wistful undergraduates, proud parents, and prospective students. They come from Elam and Johnson . . . senior girls with yellow dresses swaying beside the men of their class . . . maids of the May Court in green on the arms of honor guards . . . Miss Lipscomb in pink with her escort, the Bachelor of Ugliness. The backdrop is set for Her colorful coronation. Sunlight catches the white of Her gown and the glow of Her smile. She is Billie Jo Walker, Queen of the May for 1961, walking toward her throne. Crowned, she begins to reign over Lipscomb's day of days.

Kay Narey, escorted by Jim Camp.

Ann Bandy, escorted by Bob Fuller.

Carolyn Robertson, Valedictorian

Valedictorian Of Versatility

Senior par excellence is the intellectual and well-informed class valedictorian for 1961, Carolyn Pierce Robertson. She is a history major from Macon, Georgia, who has maintained a grade point average of 2.87 during four years of study.

Combining scholastic achievement with extracurricular activity, Carolyn has excelled in journalism. A talented Press Club member, she has served as news editor for the Babbler. Lipscomb recognized her capability as a leader in her appointment as an assistant supervisor in Fanning Hall. Phi Alpha Theta, history fraternity, and S.N.E.A. offered preparation for her chosen profession of teaching. In the fall, Carolyn will begin her career in the public school system of central Florida.

From the switchboard of Fanning Hall to the paths of a local riding academy, Carolyn's college life is one of varied activity.

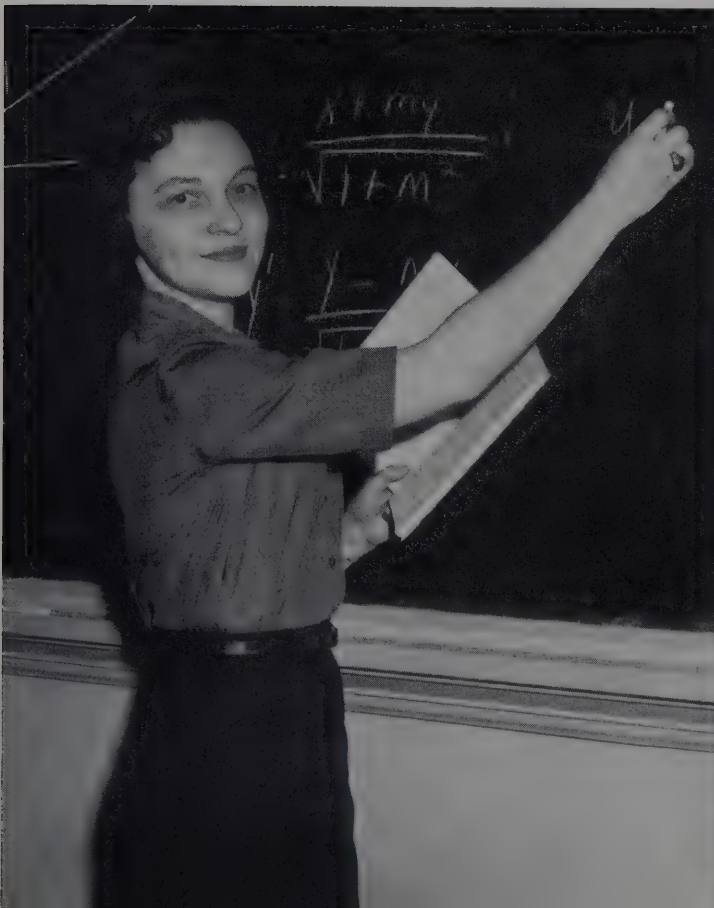

Recognition For Superior Record

Salutarian of 1961, Dayse Overstreet is the senior with the second highest academic average. Placing major emphasis in mathematics and mission study, Dayse's college career has been outlined as preparation for service to others as a teacher and missionary. During summer vacations, she travelled to Canada, Alaska, and twenty-eight other states in preparatory mission work. Lipscomb's Mission Emphasis class enabled Dayse to do extensive personal work in Nashville. She will work with Hillsboro Church of Christ missionaries this summer in London, England. After returning from England, Dayse will begin graduate study at Abilene Christian College in Texas.

Dayse Overstreet, Salutarian

Dayse Overstreet plans today for her future career in mathematics and missionary work.

Ann Bandy

ANN BANDY of Jacksonville ended her sophomore year as Miss Florida Christian College and came to Lipscomb. Her record here is one of enthusiastic effort. Ann majored in English, served as Student Board representative, senior class cheerleader, Babbler feature writer, President's Council member, May Court attendant, and Bisonette.

EMILY BEAUCHAMP of Nashville merited responsibility and recognition for her twelve years at Lipscomb. Academically Emily attained honor as a Fanning Scholarship student with a biology major. She was named by her associates to the Student Board, Publications Board, President's Council, May Court, and class cheering squad. She filled the position of Press Club president and Babbler Editor-in-Chief for 1961.

Emily Beauchamp

Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities

A born businessman, JIM CAMP's college career has centered around success in academic and athletic activity. He was president of the Pirates and captain of the Senior and All-Star football teams. As Babbler business manager, Jim was a delegate to the Associated College Press Convention in Chicago. He will marry former Lipscomb student Gayle Compton in June.

Jim Camp

Varsity athlete of versatility, LARRY CASBON was named the Senior Most Representative. Earning four letters for basketball, the physical education major was alternate team captain and president of the "L" Club. Larry served as captain of the 1961 baseball team. Indiana Club members selected the boy from Boone Grove for their first "Most Valuable Athlete" award.

Larry Casbon

Pi Epsilon president BOB DIXON's extra-curricular interests have been a circle of sports and spiritual activity. In addition to participation on the Pirates intramural athletic team, he worked with other students planning for missionary work and elected their class president. Bob and his wife Joan Snell Dixon, Lipscomb's 1960 Homecoming Queen, live in Nashville.

Bob Dixon

Linda Felts

"In the know" about affairs on the Lipscomb campus, vivacious LINDA FELTS was Day-by-Day and Campus Echoes columnist for the 1960 and 1961 Babbler. Despite an academic major in biology, Linda's major campus activities have been rooted in journalism. This year she was Press Club treasurer, Babbler feature writer, and staff secretary for the BACKLOG. She was elected a Bisonette from the senior class.

Quick wit and a steady smile have made DONNA GARDNER Lipscomb's leading lady. As capable as she is charming, this elementary education major from McConnellsville, Ohio, held the highest office for a coed as Student Association Secretary. Donna's versatile talents ranged from feature editor for the Babbler, award-winning actress in class competition, dynamic after-dinner speaker and debater, to the academic merit of a McQuire Scholarship winner.

Donna Gardner

Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities

In the middle of most campus crowds is found "Lacy," known formally as LOUISE LACY, a girl with personality-plus. Enthusiastic about anything she endeavors to do, she was an active Bisonette, vice president and president of the Secretarial Science Club, and member of the President's Council, Press Club, and Student Education Association. "Lacy" spent much energy on the various four-year projects of her class.

Louise Lacy

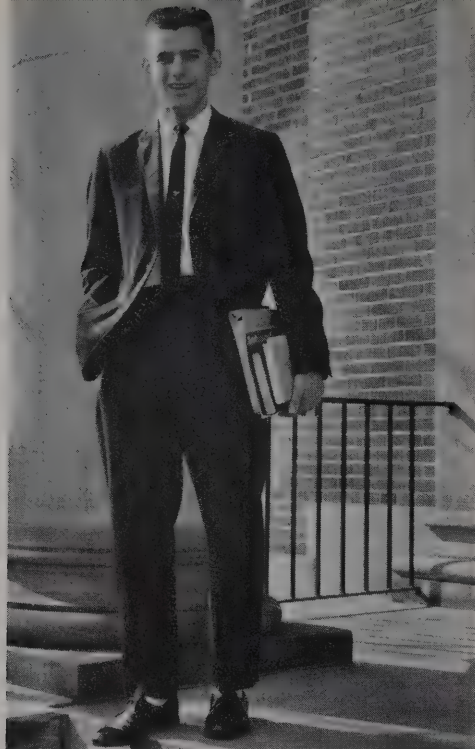

Red hair and rich bass voice combine to mark DEWAYNE LANHAM a striking figure. Students recognize him as a soloist in A Cappella and the Varsity Quartet. Songleaders' Contest winner as a sophomore, Dewayne has led singing at the Granny White Church. His leadership has been evident as two-year president of A Cappella, vice president of AKPsi and the Senior class, day student representative to the Student Board, and Business manager of the BACKLOG.

Dewayne Lanham

Since that clever young artist BILLY LEAVELL appeared on campus, he has been featured cartoonist for the Babbler. Also an artist and writer for the Silent Advocate religious periodical for the deaf, Billy teaches the deaf at the Central Church of Christ. After graduation he plans to preach for the deaf. His friends appreciate tremendously Billy's artistic talent and selfless attitude.

Billy Leavell

Sam McFarland

A Castle Heights Military Academy graduate, SAM McFARLAND majored in mathematics at Lipscomb. Presiding over Mission Emphasis this year, Sam preached in the organization's Berry's Chapel and Russell Street "Campaigns for Christ." Champion debater of the Intramural Forensic Tournament, Sam was invited to join the intercollegiate debate squad. He was a Gladiator in intramural athletics and treasurer of the senior class.

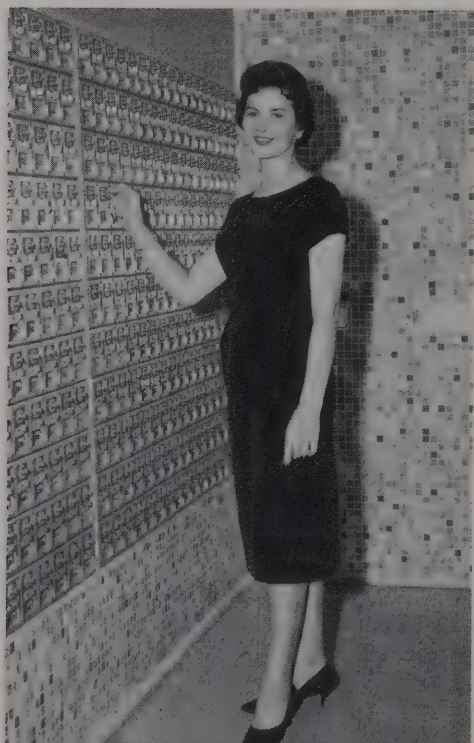

David Martin

Lipscomb's most original and dynamic speaker according to the results of the 1961 Founder's Day Oratorical Contest is DAVID MARTIN of Dunbar, West Virginia. Psychology Seminar president, track letterman, varsity debater, and young minister, the boy in black-rims known as "Ollie" has gained respect from his fellow students as an intellectual with a likable personality.

Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities

Poise and personality captured many honors for home economics major MARY JO MOORE. She came to Lipscomb as a junior and was elected Campus Beauty finalist, attendant to the Homecoming Queen, and a Bisonette. As a successful senior, Mary Jo won elections for the Homecoming crown and the coveted Campus Beauty title. In spite of duties demanded of the Home Economics president, she found time for President's Council, Mission Emphasis, SEA, and Bisonettes.

Mary Jo Moore

The 1961 Bisonettes were polished performers and enthusiastic sports promoters under the leadership of talented KAY NAREY. In her own class, Kay served as a senior cheerleader. Active in Mission Emphasis and Alpha Rho Tau, this art major from Silver Springs, Maryland, has a reputation for hard work and enthusiasm. She was an attendant to the May Queen.

Kay Narey

JIM POUNDERS epitomizes the successful speech major. An actor, orator, debater, and student preacher, Jim utilized his ability as a student leader. Senior class persident, Student Board member, Men's Glee Club president, and Alpha Psi Omega vice president were a few of the offices he filled in four years. He was selected Most Representative, Homecoming escort, and May Day guard of honor by his class.

Jim Pounders

Sara Reed

From biology lab to BACKLOG office, SARA REED'S has been a challenging schedule of campus activity. She advanced from "Most Promising Sophomore" of the Press Club to editor-in-chief of the BACKLOG as a Senior. Along the way she served as Babbler news editor, Tower associate editor, and Press Club vice president. The student body chose the biology lab instructor as a Bisonette, Student Board representative, and "Miss Lipscomb" of 1961.

"Mr. Lipscomb" is the reputation gained by GARY WALLER during his four-year college career. Climaxing honors came for the active business major as he was chosen captain of the V.S.A.C. championship basketball team, president of America's top AKPsi chapter, and 1961 Bachelor of Ugliness. A four-year letterman, was presented a sportsmanship award by the Nashville Civitans. In June he will enter his father's business firm.

Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities

The beauty with big blue eyes whose friendly personality won for her the honor of May Queen for 1961 is BILLIE JO WALKER from McMinnville, Tennessee. Recognizing the representative qualities of Billie Jo, the Seniors chose her secretary of their class, Homecoming attendant, Bisonette, and class cheerleader. She was president of the Secretarial Science Club and served on the Student Board.

Billie Jo Walker

With a knack for self-expression native Nashvillian RICHARD WALKER has distinguished himself as a speaker and journalist. Majoring in ministerial speech, he devoted hours outside the classroom to journalism. After serving as sports editor, Richard edited the campus life section of the All-American BACKLOG of 1960. As a freshman and sophomore he was elected vice-president of his class.

"At your service" first as freshman, sophomore, and junior class president; this year's president of the student body, Student Board, and President's Council—DAVID WHITEFIELD's leadership record merits applause. On or off-campus, David goes quietly about his demanding duties. Married to sophomore Ann Crouch Whitefield, he is minister of the Church of Christ in Cross Plains, Tennessee.

David and Donna Are No Novices

Student Association President David Whitefield and Secretary Donna Gardner approached their positions with the experience of veteran leaders. This was the eighth consecutive presidency filled by David, whose career as a student leader began at Donelson High School in Nashville. Versatile Donna, elementary education major from McConnelsville, Ohio, has been active in drama, debate, journalism, and Bisonettes.

Their experience and energy have served the 1960-61 student body in the planning of activities, the elimination of problems, and the presentation of student views to the administration. David and Donna have been diligent in performing duties placed upon them by an appreciative association of students.

Student Board:

Representation And Responsibility

Representing the voice of the Student Association of Lipscomb are the eighteen members of the Student Board. Make-up of the Board includes the president and secretary of the Student Association, presidents and secretaries of the four classes, a boarding student representative from each dormitory, two day student representatives, and editors of the official school publications. Vice-President Willard Collins meets with the student leaders each week to receive suggestions and recommendations.

Promoting the Lipscomb spirit, the 1961 Student Board sponsored the purchase of a sculptured Bison, Bison Day, post-game parties in the college student center, and several skating parties.

MEMBERS are: first row, E. Hyche, P. Small, M. Davis, S. Fisher, C. Hollingsworth, J. Stamps, C. Cymek, J. Holladay, B. Melton; second row, B. Stumbaugh, G. Ballard, L. Gould, M. Boyd, J. President's Council:

They Voice Student Views

The President's Council serves as a sounding board for student views. After hearing monthly messages from President Athens Clay Pullias, Council members are able to express their feelings and questions concerning administrative policies and plans. Student Association officers, presidents and secretaries of campus clubs and fraternities, intramural team captains, and Student Board representatives compose the President's Council. This student leaders organization strives to correlate the policies and purposes of the school administration and the student association. David Whitefield, president of the Lipscomb student body, and Athens Clay Pullias, president of David Lipscomb College, combined efforts in planning programs of import for monthly meeting of the 1961 Council.

Publication Board:

Policy For The Press

Faced with the making of plans, budgets, and decisions, Lipscomb's Publication Board meets periodically in the vice-president's office. The seven board members are the editors, business managers, and faculty sponsors of the two official campus publications. Willard Collins, director of campus publications, presides at meetings of the board. Delegates were named by the board to represent Lipscomb at the annual Associated Collegiate Press Conference in Chicago. Expenses for the delegates were financed by the Press Club. During the spring quarter, the Publication Board determined editors and business managers for the 1962 BABBLER and BACKLOG.

It's take off time at the Nashville Municipal Airport for the A.C.P.C. delegates.

Seated: Willard Collins, Director of the Publications; Eunice Bradley, Director of the news Bureau; standing, John Hutcheson, Sponsor for the BACKLOG; Dewayne Lanham, Business Manager for the BACKLOG; Sara Reed, BACKLOG Editor-in-Chief; Emily Beauchamp, BABBLER Editor-in-Chief; absent, Jim Camp, Business Manager for the BABBLER.

The Backlog:

In Retrospect

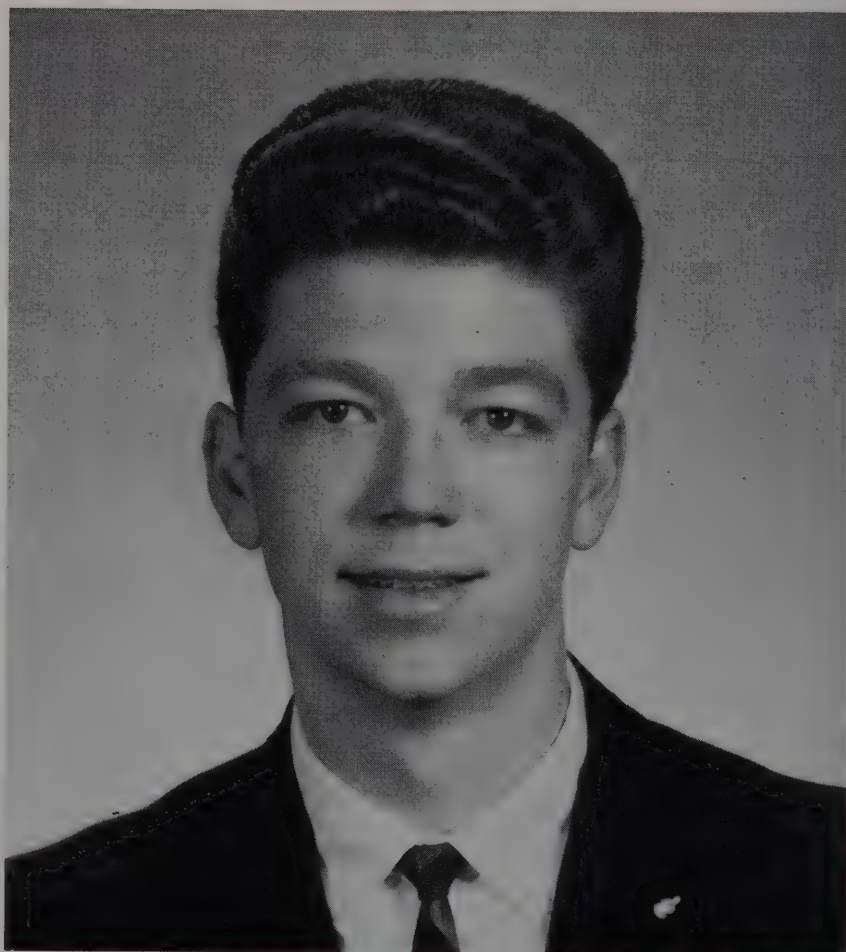

A fall, a winter, and a spring are spent by the staff striving to incorporate into one book the action, color, and meaning of a single college year. Results of their efforts must serve as a mirror reflecting the lives of a thousand students. Plans become progress. Deadlines are yesterdays. A juxtaposition of cut-lines, copy, pictures, and advertisements is published and distributed. THE BACKLOG is ours. One of us edited it; a few of us contributed to it; all of us lived it. Each time we wade into its stream of contents the year which the book represents returns and lives again for a transient moment. At that time, THE BACKLOG proves successful.

*The Babbl*er:

Expression In Print

Forty years ago the official student news publication was termed BABBLER. Following the pace set by the original "babbler" who brought astonishing news to the ears of Athenian scholars, the Lipscomb version brings issues of import to the eyes of the Student Association. The post-chapel rush of each Friday occurs as students pick up their copies in the college student center and read through the pages and pictures of campus and alumni activity. Issues demand seven days of energetic preparation by staff and editor. Lay-out, copy, ads, cuts, and heads involve the efforts of a diligent crew of journalists. Time, expense, and energy are forgotten as the published product is distributed to an appreciative student association. The BABBLER is the voice of Lipscomb, expressed in print.

Alpha Psi Omega:

The Actors Circle

The first honorary fraternity chapter organized on the Lipscomb campus was that of Alpha Psi Omega national drama fraternity. Membership in the organization is granted in recognition of meritorious participation in the acting, directing, and play writing areas of college theatre. The primary function of the fraternity is the promotion of interest in the dramatic arts in college and community theatres everywhere.

Lipscomb's Pi Kappa Cast each year presents awards for the best actor and actress, best supporting actor and actress, and best student director in both major and minor proscenium productions. Allen Peltier, Grand Director, Larry Nicks, Grand Stage Manager, and Jim Pounders, Grand Business Manager were leaders of the Cast for the 1960-61 season.

Alpha Rho Tau:

Activity For Art's Sake

The colorful and challenging art exhibits in our college cafeteria are part of the over-all plan of Alpha Rho Tau to create interest and appreciation for the artistic. One of Lipscomb's youngest clubs, Alpha Rho Tau staged their second spectacular Home Coming setting this year under the excellent supervision of John Hutcheson. After months of planning, building, painting, and polishing their major project of the year, club members watched the lovely set disappear after a brief fifteen minutes under the gymnasium spotlights. The annual spring trip to Falls Creek Falls, Tennessee and several local cook-outs provided hours of recreation and material for scenic sketches. Serving with president Larry Walker, were Paul Bunting, vice-president; Linda Allmon, secretary; and Pat Hilliard, treasurer.

Alpha Kappa Psi:

The Nation's Best

America's number one chapter of Alpha Kappa Psi professional business fraternity is the Delta Kappa chapter on our campus. Also the nation's smallest chapter, Alpha Kappa Psi has only thirty-five members. The major activity of the chapter was the compiling, publishing, and record sales of a complete student directory during the fall quarter. An evening of financial planning was presented for the married or engaged students on campus. An annual A K Psi Scholarship is awarded to the senior business administration student attaining the highest scholastic average. Cynthia Bailey, a freshman business student, was crowned Sweetheart of the fraternity at the winter banquet. Heading tomorrow's businessmen were President Gary Waller, Vice-President Dewayne Lanham, Secretary Freddie Holladay, and Treasurer Gary Lloyd.

MEMBERS are: first row, Toy Martin, Bert Harvey, Fred Holladay, David Fowlkes, Ebern Watson, Jr., Gary Loyd, Granville Graves, Larry Marshall; second row, David Parker, John Acuff, Jim Alderdice, Ken Baker, Harold Simmons, James Buckley, Don Johnson, Dan Denny, Roger Peck; third row: Joel Dobson, Sherrell McConnell, Sidney Hooper (sponsor), Michael Collins, Dr. Swang (sponsor), Ronnie Ferguson, David Bunner, Larry Morrow, Paul Cooke; fourth row, Dewayne Lanham, David Walker, Jim Welch, Bob Fulmer, Winston Biggs, Robert Kendrick, Donald Danner, LaRue Bennett, Buddy Bills, Gary Waller, Clyde Jarvis.

Beta Mu:

Esthetic Experience

Striving to enrich the cultural aspect of campus life, the Beta Mu music fraternity stimulates interest in classical music by the presentation of various instrumental, vocal, and orchestral concerts. The organization published a handbook for music enthusiasts during the fall quarter. Students and members of the Lipscomb faculty were entertained by the club at Beta Mu receptions following concerts and Artist Series presentations throughout the year. Judy Covington served as club president. Other officers were vice-president Dixie Harvey, secretary-treasurer Linda Allmon, and historian Barbara Sunderland. Members of the music faculty sponsor the organization.

Initiate and Officer share fraternal ritual.

James Miller and Hugh Price amuse Carolyn Robertson and Frances Bailey with Civil War anecdotes during the Confederacy's 100th Anniversary.

Phi Alpha Theta:

Historic Interest

In its sixth year at Lipscomb the Epsilon Chi Chapter of national Phi Alpha Theta, Honorary history fraternity has a restricted membership of students interested in the social sciences, with a major or minor in the field, and of meritorious academic standing. All members are classified as juniors or seniors. At several meetings during the year the fraternity had interesting and informative panel and group discussions revolving around current and historical events. New members were initiated and formally installed during the winter quarter. Sponsored by Dr. Lewis Maiden, Phi Alpha Theta was headed by James Miller, president, Frances Bailey, vice-president, and Carolyn Robertson, secretary.

Dr. Morris P. Landiss counsels future English teachers concerning their careers.

Sigma Tau Delta:

The Campus Bards

Eligibility for the Sigma Tau Delta national honorary English fraternity extends only to upperclass students majoring in English. Dinner meetings were held twice each month during the past year. Celebrated author and Tennessee historian Dr. Leland Crabb was the featured speaker at the fraternity's winter banquet.

Members attended the Southern Literary Festival which was held in Nashville for the first time in twenty-five years early this spring. Representative poems, essays, short stories, and plays were submitted by the Lipscomb chapter in the creative composition contest sponsored by the festival. John Murphy presided over the campus chapter which was sponsored by Dr. Morris P. Landiss. Larry Gentry was vice-president, and Barbara Melton, secretary-treasurer.

MEMBERS are: first row, Joan Meyer, Catherine Weddington, Deanna McEwen, Barbara Melton, Connie Fulmer; second row, Frances Sams, Frances Bailey, Charlotte Meadows, Crisler Gonce, Marie Potter, Charmaine Allmon, Eunice Bradley (sponsor); third row, Dr. Choate (sponsor), John Murphree, Jr., Gerald Burkett, Hucston Marshall, Jack Welch, Samuel Gant, Larry Gentry, Gordon Van Steenberg, Morris P. Landiss (sponsor).

Pi Kappa Delta: Intercollegiate Competition

Lipscomb speakers whose intercollegiate forensic records have been of superior merit compose the Tennessee Theta chapter of national Pi Kappa Delta speech fraternity. During the current season, members have travelled around the nation to compete with several hundred other college debaters and orators in such tournaments as the Christian Colleges, Agnes Scott College, Western Kentucky, State of Tennessee, Harvard University, and National Pi Kappa Delta tournaments.

In February Pi Kappa Delta was host to the 1960 State of Tennessee Tournament and its sixty-five debate teams. The forensic year has been filled with activity and awards for the Lipscomb chapter. Larry Nicks was President of Pi Kappa Delta, assisted by Bob Fulmer, vice-president; Donna Gardner, secretary; and Jim Pounders, treasurer.

Physical education for females is directed by Bob Dixon.

Pi Epsilon:

The Field Of Sports

Student membership in the national Pi Epsilon fraternity is granted to majors and minors of physical education. The Lipscomb chapter met frequently to hear guest speakers discuss career opportunities offered graduates of the field. Social interest was added by the annual "Banana Split Party" last fall and an all-day social activity of the spring. Members honor Lipscomb's outstanding sports participant annually with the presentation of a Pi Epsilon "Athlete of the Year" award. Officers were Bob Dixon, president; Ken Head, vice-president; Jo Holliday, secretary; and Cecelia Cymek, treasurer.

Footlighters switch from stars to stagehands when the action demands it.

Footlighters:

Theatre Lipscomb

Assisting in the campus drama program Lipscomb Footlighters work under the general supervision of the department of speech. Eligibility for the organization is determined by interest and active participation in Lipscomb stage productions. Cast parties and quarterly cookouts added social interest to the club activity this year. After the speech department presented "Between Two Thieves," "Dirty Work at the Crossroads," and "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," the Footlighters presented awards to the most outstanding participants. The three seminar plays of the '60-'61 season were "Macbeth," "Porgy and Bess," and "South Pacific," adapted and directed by Alma Sneed and George Grindley. Larry Nicks was president; Gene Hendon, vice-president; Carolyn Dixon, secretary; and Alma Sneed, treasurer. Faculty sponsor was Jerry Henderson.

Debate Squad:

Development Through Debate

From their travels to distant or local tournaments, the debate squad has brought many honors and widespread recognition to Lipscomb. The awards for outstanding performance which they have brought home represent much more than a mere mounting collection of trophies in the speech department. They point to the value of debate to the individual speech student, to the skill he attains in organization, presentation, and argumentation.

Those participating in intercollegiate forensic activity debated in Kentucky, Georgia, Alabama, Tennessee, Mississippi, Indiana, and Massachusetts during twelve major tournaments. Equally active on campus, our debaters were host to the 1961 Tennessee State Intercollegiate Speech Tournament.

Returning from the Harvard Invitational Tourney, Bill Srygley and Bob Fulmer entertained colleagues Charmaine Allmon and Alma Sneed.

The hot lights and rolling cameras of local television focus on the 1961 A Capella Singers.

A Cappella:

The Sound Of Music

The voices of Lipscomb's thirty-six A Cappella Singers were heard from Atlanta to Detroit this spring as the chorus made a twelve-day good will tour for the college. More than 6,000 people appreciate the emphasis Lipscomb places upon good music as a result of the fourteen concerts presented under the direction of Charles Nelson in churches, schools, and television studios. Important stops on the A Cappella map were Atlanta, Athens, Greenville, Winston-Salem, Washington, Arlington, Clarksburg, St. Albans, Parkersburg, St. Mary's, Warren, Detroit, Toledo, Dayton, and Cincinnati. Local concerts and television also frequently featured the group. Officers for the group were president Dewayne Lanham, vice-president Louis Cottrell, and secretary-treasurer Judy Covington.

Band:

Crescendo At Half-time

Adding to the enthusiasm and excitement of the intramural football season were the sideline and halftime performances of Lipscomb's marching band. Featured with the band during colorful half-time activities were baton twirlers Nan Hooper, Martha Sanders, Clara Skaggs, Susie Brown, and Joy Bryson. Under the direction of Terry Johnson, the 1961 band played for all home basketball games and made a trip to Clarksville, Tennessee to support the Bisons in the traditional Game of the Torch against Austin-Peay State College.

The college band was organized for the first time last year. Sparking school spirit and class competition as well as providing opportunities for musical skill development, the band has proved a worthy and welcome addition to the Lipscomb program.

Jim Alderdice, David Ralston, Vernon Bohanan, and Dixie Harvey represented the musicians at the state convention in Murfreesboro, Tennessee. Jim Meador served as chairman for the band's major project of enlarging and revising their musical library. Elected officers included Jim Alderdice, president; Dalton Wright, vice-president; and Sandra Dennis, secretary.

Smiles of success come as coeds conclude auditions and are accepted.

Women's Glee Club:

Voices United

The twenty-three girls of the Women's Glee Club appear each year in programs during the second portion of chapel, in Beta Mu music fraternity's informal recitals, and with the Collegents and A Cappella Singers in a joint concert during the spring quarter. The vocal group makes an annual one-day trip to another state.

Miss Irma Lee Batey is director of the chorus, in which membership is granted by audition. The choral work offers opportunities for personal improvement, cooperative effort, and the enjoyment of good music.

Choral accompanist is Kathy Lawson. President Linda Gould, Vice-President Kim Mason, and Secretary Joyce Cornett were elected officers.

Collegents:

Music For Coeds

A change in name and attire has added "the forward look" to an old and popular campus organization. The 1961 men's glee club became The Collegents, and their white sports coats were discarded in favor of the full tuxedo. The sounds produced by the twenty-eight male voices continued to include the old as well as the new. Their repertoire consisted of spirituals, ballads, anthems, hymns, and currently popular songs.

The student body heard them perform in several post-chapel programs throughout the year. Trips for the group included an overnight stay in Memphis, Tennessee, during the fall, and a week's spring tour into the southern states. The Collegents were directed by Charles Nelson. Robert Walker was club president, assisted by Frank Walton and Gene Hendon.

Jack Faris seems to have passed the Nelson scrutiny test.

I. R. C.:

Campus Diplomats

The International Relations Club is designed for the college student interested in current events and issues of international significance. It is an affiliate of the Collegiate Council for the United Nations and strives to promote understanding of the important functions of the United Nations. Jenny Lind Cawood was a summer delegate to the 1960 C.C.U.N. Leadership Institute in New York City.

Under the sponsorship of James McBroom, organization meetings featured films and lectures on the Far East, Russia, the Holy Land, and Red China. Representatives attended Peabody College conferences concerning the work of the United Nations. Bob Fulmer was I.R.C. president. Vice-president and secretary were Gerald Burchett and Jenny Lind Cawood.

M. E. N. C.:

Tomorrow They Teach

Monthly meetings of Music Educators National Conference provide Lipscomb's future music teachers with the opportunity to discuss and discover professional approaches in instruction. These philosophies will prove valuable as members leave college to begin teaching music on the elementary or secondary levels. Miss Irma Batey sponsors the organization. The state convention was attended by representatives of the Lipscomb chapter during winter quarter. Leading M.E.N.C. during 1960-61 were President Charlie Burkes, Vice-President Barbara Sunderland, and Secretary Kathy Lawson.

Photography Club:

Flashbulbs For Fun

Promoting interest in "photography for fun" is the primary function of the Lipscomb Photography Club. The club has heightened interest in picture-taking on campus through various photography contests. Members also have given vent to their photography enthusiasm on numerous field trips. Hours of capturing on film extraordinary nature shots were enjoyed at local parks and camps. During the winter quarter a trip was made to a Nashville news printing company. The major activity of the year for the Photography Club, guided by President David Huddleston and Secretary Danye Sue Broadway, was a trip to the Smoky Mountains.

"L" Club:

The Spirit Of Lipscomb

"L" Club eligibility is limited to those varsity athletes and cheerleaders who have merited letters for intercollegiate sports participation. Under the leadership of president Larry Casbon the current year was filled with activities and projects designed to promote participation in the college athletic program for the spectator and the athlete. After a successful season of basketball program sales, the "L" Club celebrated at a wiener-roast at Gossett's Barn. A highlight of the annual spring banquet at Montgomery Bell is the presentation of "L" Club trophies to the athletes chosen Most Valuable. David Martin was club treasurer; John Acuff, secretary; Larry Petersen, sergeant-at-arms; and John Crowder, publicity director.

Mission Emphasis:

Campaigns For Christ

One of the most active organizations on campus, Lipscomb's Mission Emphasis increased in size and service during 1961. Members publicized, preached, and prayed for gospel meetings at the Berry's Chapel and Nashville Russell Street congregations. A month of personal work preceded each of these "Campaigns for Christ." Their effort and energy was replaced by rewarding experience in Christian living.

Clyde Paden of Denmark, Don Daughtery of France, and other returning missionaries brought before the class their vivid reports from foreign fields. Mission Emphasis elected Sam McFarland, president; Bob Dixon, vice-president; Judy Motley, secretary; and Dick Karnoski, treasurer.

Girl's Religious Training Class:

Stress On The Spiritual

Women working for Christ is the goal of the Girls' Religious Training Class. Twice each month members met to listen and learn from Harold Baker, Dr. Joe Sanders, Dr. Batsell Baxter, Dr. Carroll Ellis, Dr. Mack Craig, and other speakers. Devotionals and development marked the program of meetings. For the second consecutive year G.R.T.C. sponsored a campaign to clothe children of the Youth Hobby Shop. They launched plans to finance for two underprivileged children a summer at church camp. Each summer another child will be added to the plan. Miss Caroline Meadows served as faculty sponsor. Joan Hecker was elected president. The secretary was Jo Ann Whitley. Peggy Pitney, Dorothy Crowe, and Beverly Gillespie were dormitory representatives.

Press Club:

Publicity And Promotion

Students who possess interest and talent in journalism compose the Press Club. During the fall quarter a full-scale talent show proved a financial success for the club. Profits from the production, were used to send BABBLER and BACKLOG editors to the National Collegiate Press Convention in Chicago.

An elaborate decor and an array of lovely girls were features of the winter quarter Festival of Hearts. This Press Club show presented twelve finalists in competition for the title of Campus Beauty and financed the annual club scholarships to the most outstanding freshman and sophomore journalists. Molly Boyd guided this year's club with the assistance of vice-president Linda Felts, secretary Carol Hollingsworth and treasurer Judy Covington.

Geographical Council:

Senate For The States

Presidents and secretaries of the nine regional clubs on campus make up the Geographical Council. States represented include Indiana, Florida, West Virginia, Alabama, Tennessee, Ohio, Michigan, Illinois, and the Carolinas. Members of the geographical clubs render service to the school by recruiting prospective students from their home regions. The Council encourages social activities among the individual organizations. All-Geographical social functions were provided each quarter by the Council. Among these activities were a spaghetti supper, wiener roast, and retreat to Montgomey Bell State Park. Enthusiastic supporter and sponsor of the regional clubs was Archie Crenshaw.

Planning For The Profession

Three times each quarter Lipscomb students who plan to teach meet as members of the Student National Education Association. They are part of a national professional organization. On the agenda of S.N.E.A. meetings were guest speakers from Indian reservations, panel discussions, and debates on such issues as the advisability of federal aid to education. Becky McAllister, Jacky Davis, and Dr. Whitfield attended the Chicago convention as delegates from the Lipscomb club. Other delegates attended a convention in Murfreesboro, Tennessee. John Croft presided at club meetings. Other officers were vice-president Rennith Capps, secretary Sharon Fisher, and treasurer Inez Webb.

Psychology Club:

The Mentally Concerned

The Psychology Club had as its original purpose to serve as an advisory council to the department of psychology. When the organization was begun by sponsor Ed Cul-lum three years ago, only majors and minors in psychology were admitted.

This year the club broadened its scope to promote interest and provide knowledge of the practical areas of the mental science on the college campus. Members observed human behavior in its disturbed states on field trips to the State Mental Hospital, the local divorce court, and Cloverbottom Home for the Mentally Retarded. Professional psychologists gave lectures at club meetings. David Martin has been president for two years. Evelyn Edwards was vice-president. Molly Boyd was secretary.

They Serve Others

Girls academically preparing for home-making participate as active members of the Home Economics Club. Under the capable supervision of Miss Margaret Carter, president of Lipscomb's first Home Economics Club, the organization plans, prepares, and serves at major banquets, dinners, teas, and receptions. Over a period of years the proceeds from these services have purchased more than two thousand dollars worth of equipment for the Home Economics department and the Home Management House.

In keeping with a club objective of developing thoughtfulness for others, monthly visits are made to the Lakeshore Home for the Aged. Officiating at bi-monthly meetings were President Mary Jo Moore, Vice-President Carolyn Burkett, Secretary Patsy Small, and Treasurer Beverly Gillespie.

Secretarial Science Club:

Efficiency In Action

The secretaries of tomorrow's executives are often found typing for today's college students and are making money for their campus organization, the Secretarial Science Club. This is one of the money-making projects of the group sponsored by Miss Patty Landon.

Rapidly becoming one of Lipscomb's largest organizations, the Secretarial Science Club helps members develop a knowledge of the business world, while gaining the poise and personality essential to secretarial success. Club social activity is climaxed each spring with a week-end camping trip to Fall Creek Falls. Louise Lacy, president; Danye Sue Broadway, vice-president; Auline Nix, secretary; and Sylvia Hobbs, treasurer; have been leaders in the club which is in the process of becoming affiliated with a national professional sorority.

The goal, the glory, the defeat . . . to love the game beyond the prize is truth.

Coach Charles Morris views the prospects with which he hopes to win a VSAC crown.

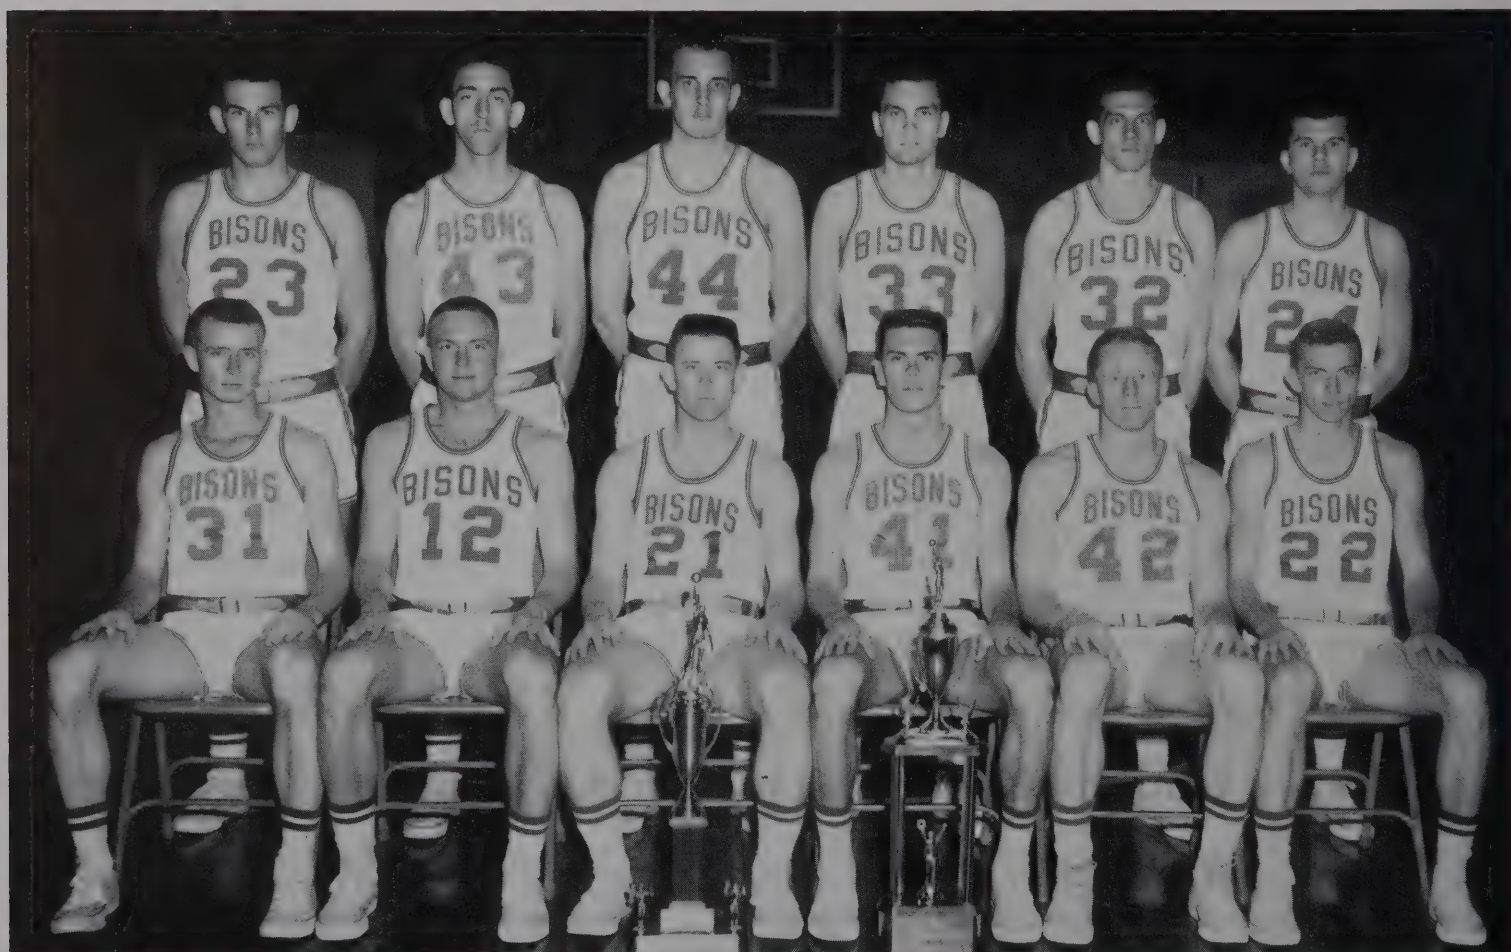

Bisons' Record Best In Decade

Finishing their most successful hardwood campaign in ten years were Coach Charles Morris and his 12-man crew who earned two team trophies and two individual trophies before bowing out in the NAIA District playoff.

In compiling a 16-10 record, the school's best since the 1951-52 season, the Bisons took top honors in the Queen City Invitational and the VSAC Tournaments.

The individual spotlight shone brightly on

Larry Petersen who, in addition to leading the team in nearly every department, was chosen on the All-Conference team, the All-Tournament team and as Most Valuable Player of the Western Division.

Richard Martin was chosen the VSAC Tournament's MVP while he and Max Mayes were voted on the NAIA All-District 27 team. Gary Waller, the squad's number two scorer, was selected to the VSAC All-Tournament team.

Gary Waller seems suspended in mid-air after having delivered another vital basket.

All hands are upward as rebounds are vital in the nip-and-tuck game with Georgetown.

CBC Falls 56-53 In Opening Game

"Victory" seemed to be the Bison's password from the beginning when they took victories from stubborn Christian Brothers, Milligan, and Campbellsville and put up a strong fight in an effort to upset Tennessee Tech, Georgetown, and Transylvania in their pre-Christmas outings. The win over CBC was sweet revenge for the defensive minded Bisons, for this was the same CBC club that knocked the Bisons out of the NAIA District Playoff last winter.

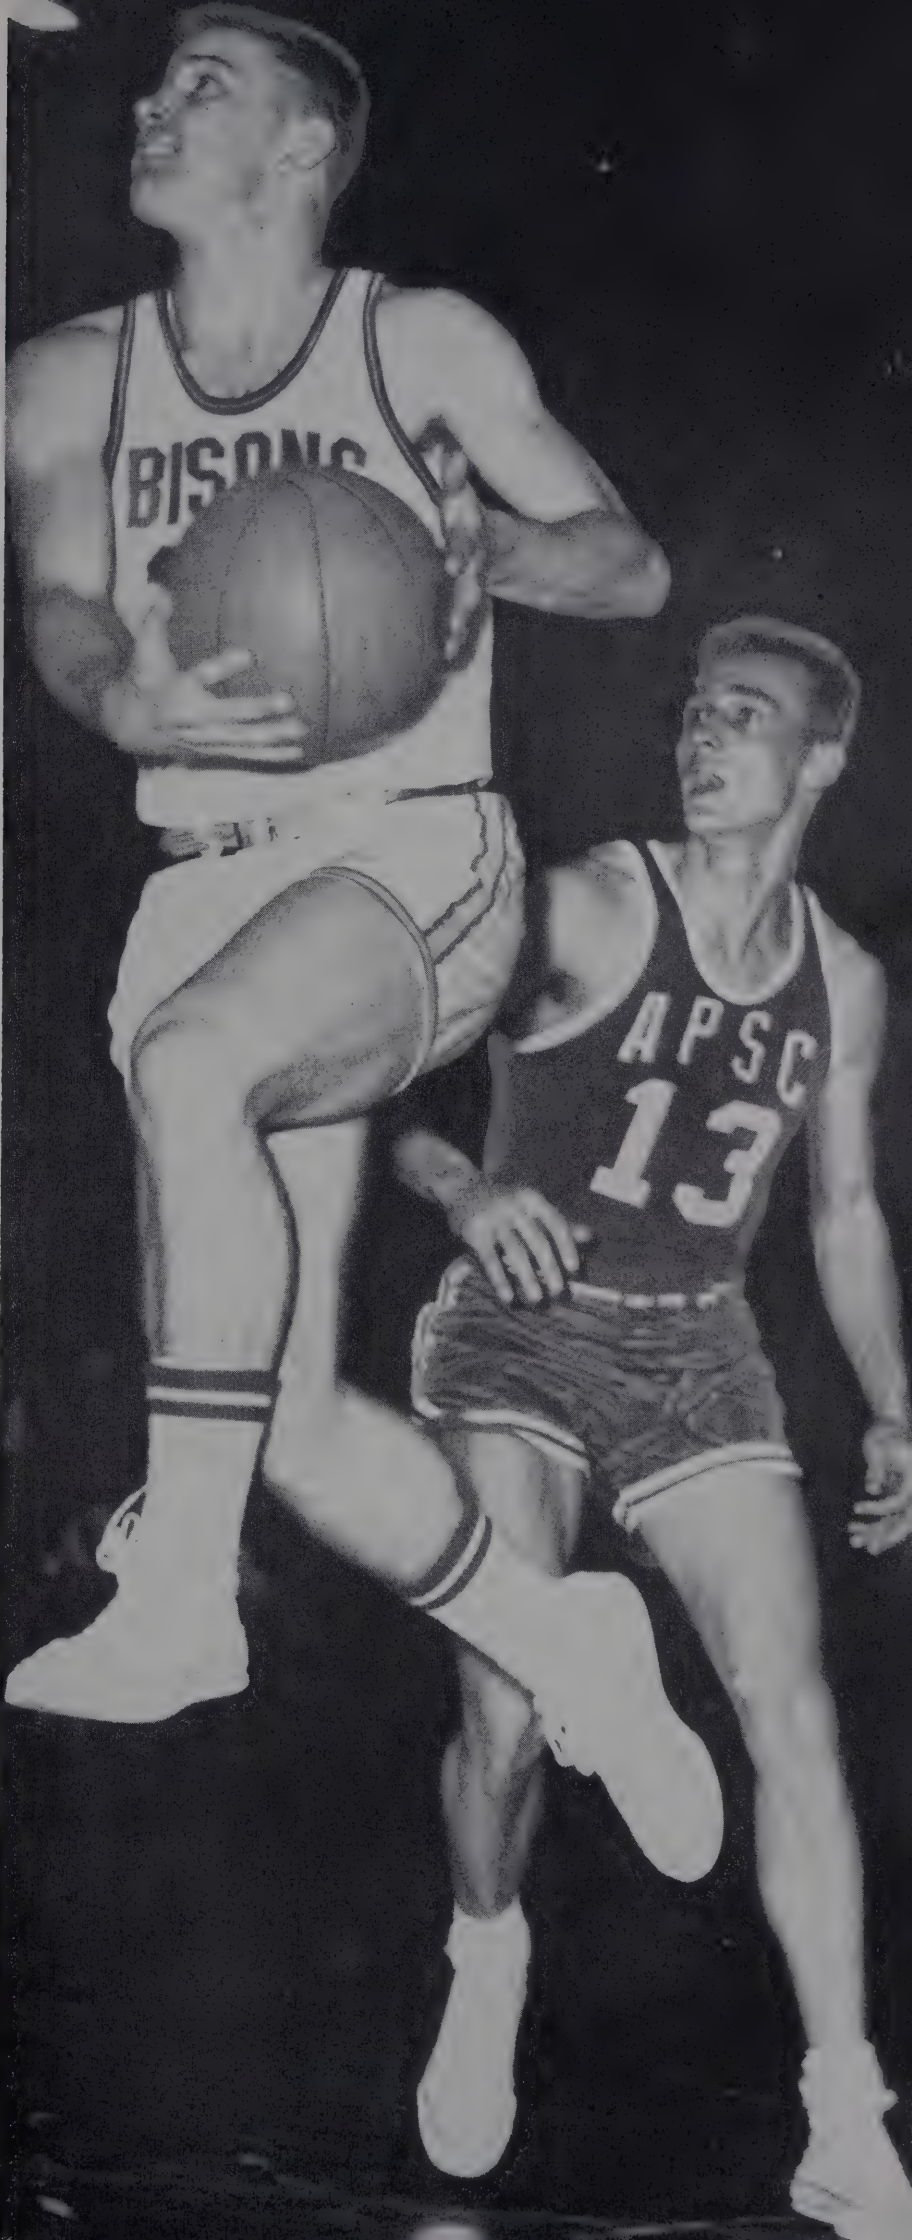

After sharing a 41-41 point score with Milligan, the Bisons, led in the second half by Petersen's 15 points and Tracy Ramsey's 10, were able to outscore their opponents 50-19 to register their most decisive victory of the season, 91-60.

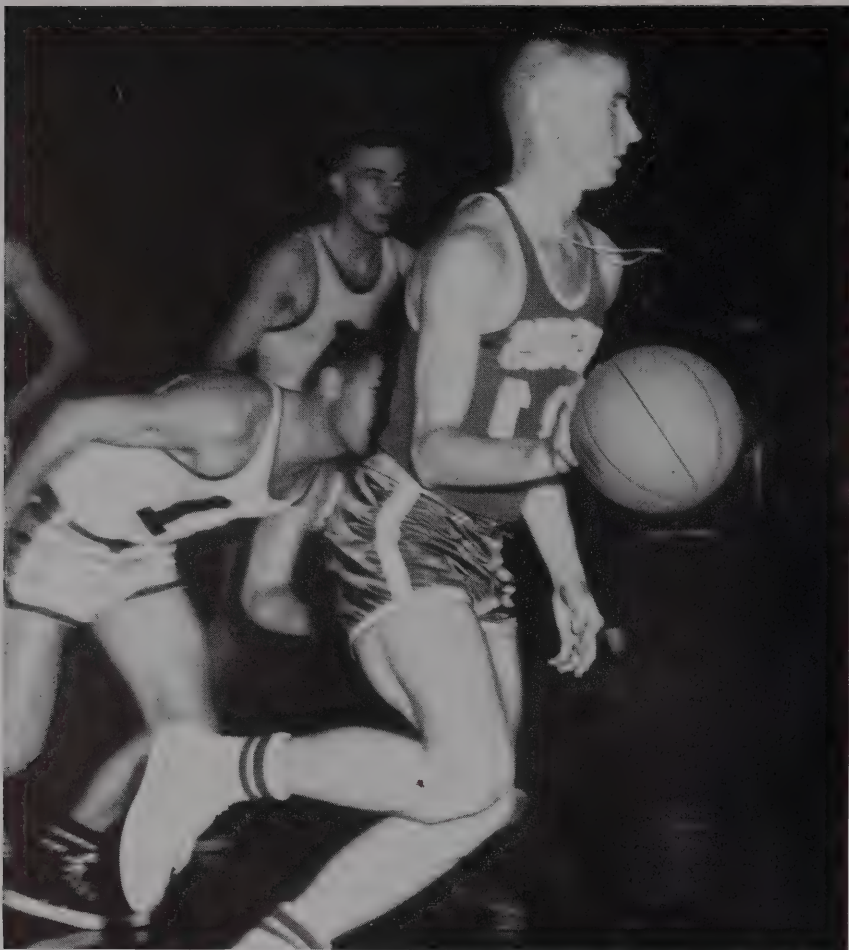

In one of the better played games of the season, the Bisons came within five points, 62-57, of beating Georgetown College. Although the games had no bearing on the conference race, Coach Morris found a winning combination of Dowdy, Martin, Petersen, Waller and Mayes that went on to win the VSAC tournament.

Sports Publicity Director David Fowlkes and Mike Clark, statistician, discuss the situation at half-time of a game.

APSC Spells Bison Doom

After a few days of rest and a couple of Christmas chicken legs had been put away the Bisons returned to action taking victories from Delta State and Florence State to capture first place in the Queen City Invitational Tournament.

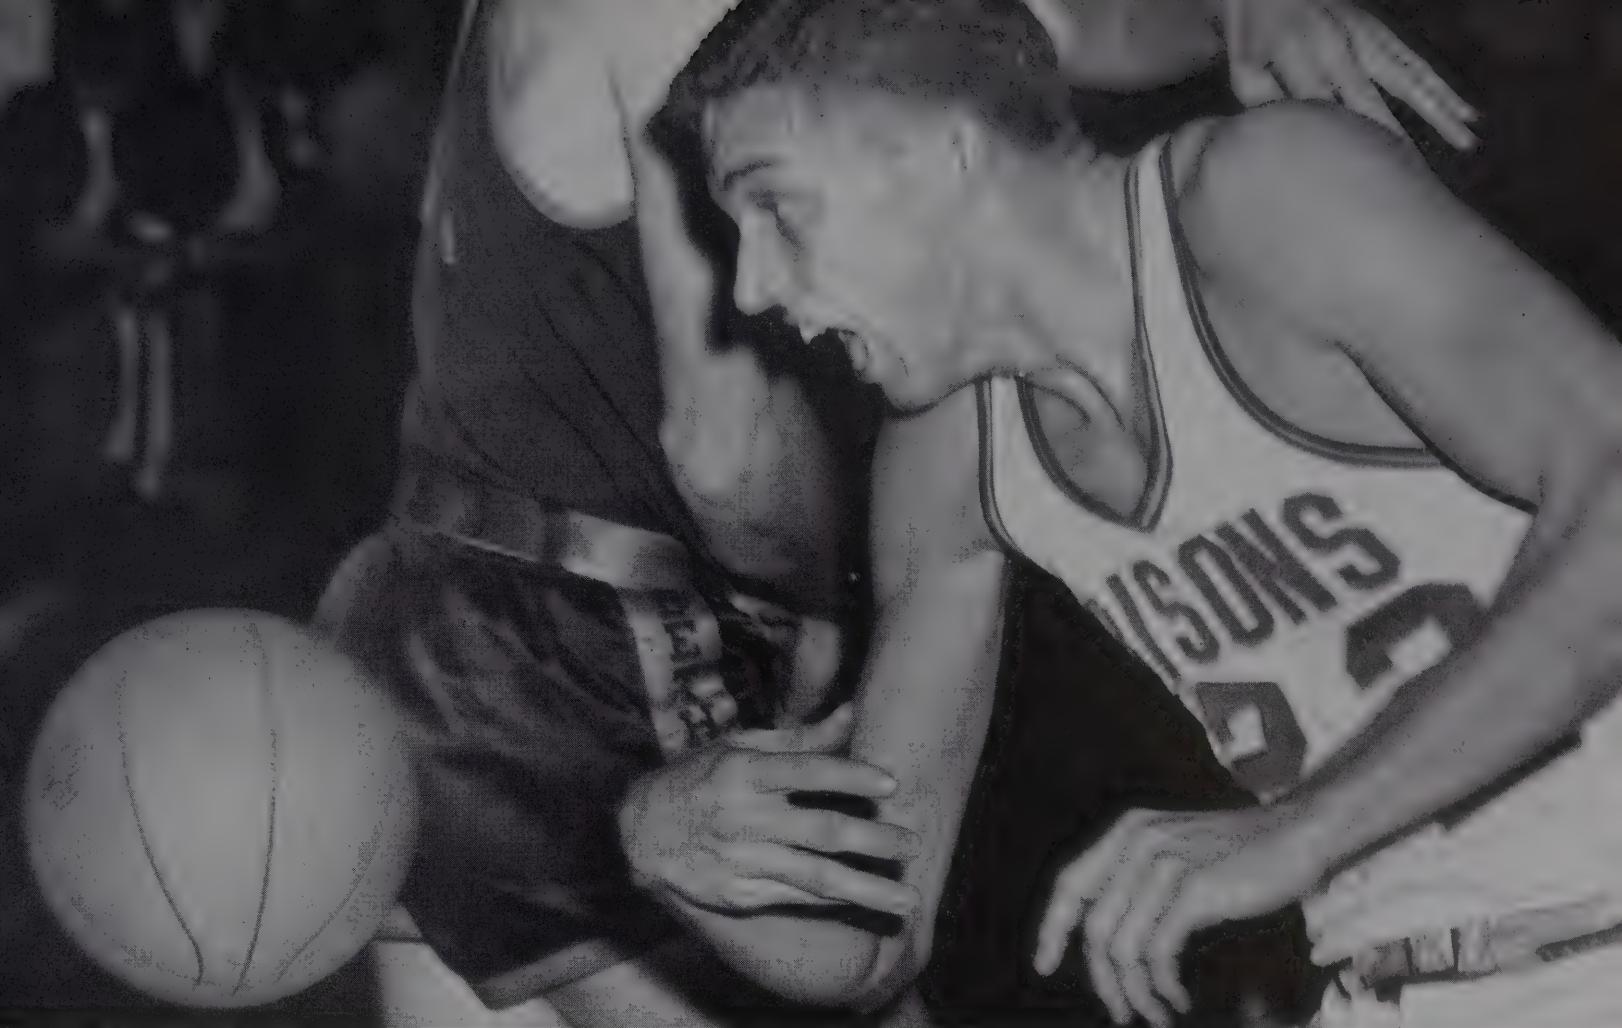

A conference victory over Belmont, in which Petersen netted a season's high of 32 points, preceded a disastrous two-week period in which the herd dropped three out of four close contests to Austin Peay, CBC, and UTMB, all on the road, to virtually eliminate them from regular season conference honors.

In the lone victory of the stretch, the Bisons took an overtime decision from MTSC, 68-66. Charles Dowdy was the offensive gun for the herd as he scored 18 points including the basket that sent the game into overtime and the tie breaking basket which put the Bisons ahead to stay.

For the remaining seven conference

O pity the lot of the poor coach! Lipscomb's Charles Morris finds the going rough for his Bisons in the first half against the visiting UTMB squad.

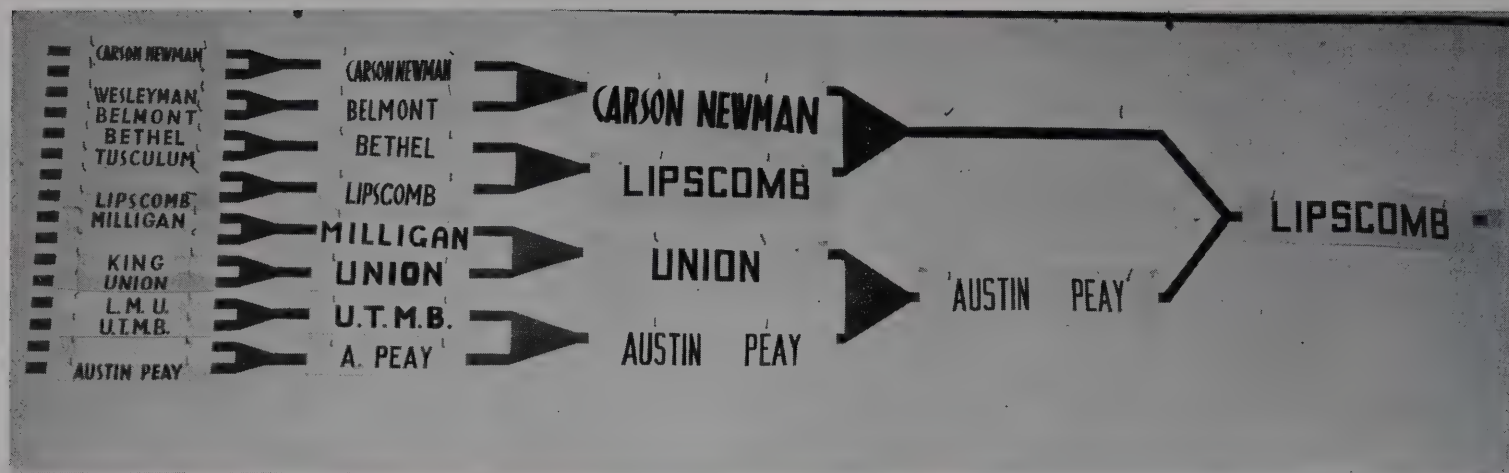

Guard Max Mayes appears to be trying to take a bite out of the elusive basketball. On the other hand, perhaps he is merely yelling, "Come'ere, ball!"

games, only Austin Peay, behind the 27 point efforts of All-Conference Jim Be-shears, could solve the Bisons defense well enough to score a victory. This victory skein enabled the Bisons to finish in second place and with a first round tournament bye.

Highlights of the post Christmas action include Larry Casbon's 18 point outburst against Austin Peay which resulted in a starting position for the remaining games, the Bisons 54 point second half rally over Belmont to produce the season's most productive outing, 96-77, the squad's 16 point comeback try against Austin Peay before losing by two points as a last minute shot fell off the rim, a torrid 55.3 per cent shooting exhibition against UTMB, a 60-53 victory over Union without the playing services of Petersen; Petersen's 55.7 shooting percentage for the year which sets a school record, and a tremendous hero's welcome given by over half of the student body to the Bisons after losing the first game of the NAIA Playoffs.

Managers Bobby Roberts and Kermit Tounette and trainer John Acuff were vital men.

"We Won The VSAC, We Won The VSAC"

The Bisons reached their season's peak in the VSAC tournament when they downed Bethel 77-49, Carson Newman 70-67, and Austin Peay 72-66 to take their first tournament crown in ten years.

Bethel's upset-minded Wildcats were more than trouble in the first half, leading the Bisons 32-27. However, the Petersen and Waller led Bisons came to life to tame the Wildcats in the second half to set a tournament record of the most decisive victory margin. Lipscomb outscored Bethel 50-17 in the closing stanza. Petersen and Waller headed the scores with 22 and 18 points respectively.

Coach "Tiger" Morris is the hero of the hour as everyone goes wild after the Bisons won the VSAC championship game from an old enemy, Austin Peay.

Carson Newman posed a greater problem to the win-conscious Bisons as they went ahead for a brief span 61-60 with only 4:30 minutes left to play. Petersen's fielder with 1:40 minutes left on the clock put the Bisons ahead to stay. Top individual efforts from the front line, Petersen (19), Dowdy (18), and Martin (16) led the revenge victory over Carson Newman.

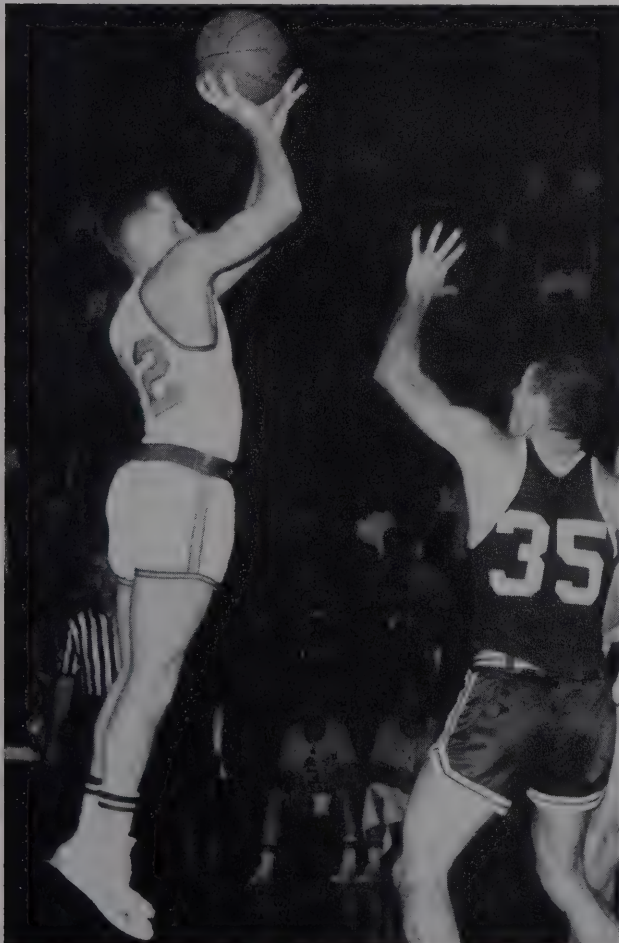

In the tourney finale, a 22 point effort from Max Mayes, 14 from the foul line, and 20 points from Martin led the assault of Austin Peay. The Bisons went ahead early, holding a slim 38-30 lead at half time, and never relinquished it.

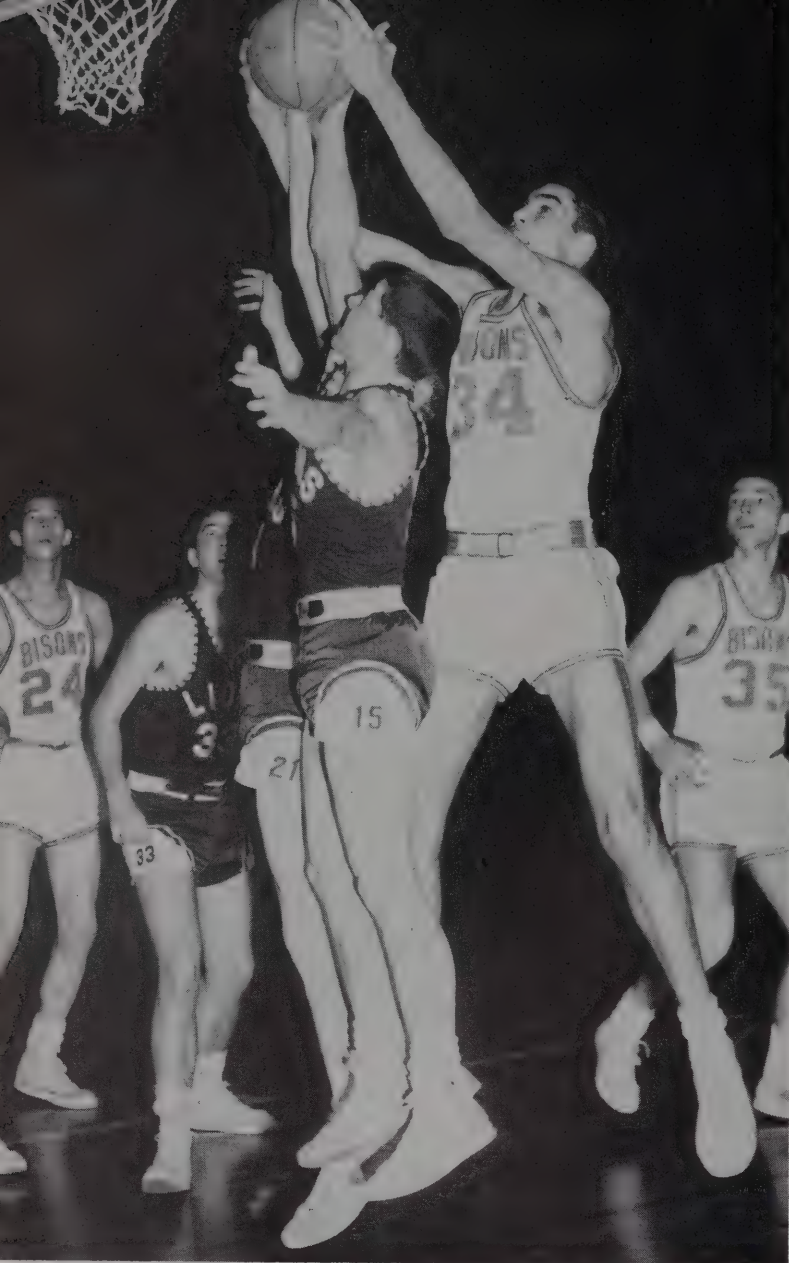

This game was costly to the Bisons, however, as they lost Waller for the season via sprained ankle. A few days later in a practice session, Petersen sustained a split finger on his right hand to handicap him almost completely for the NAIA playoff in Jefferson City. In the first round of the tourney, the Bisons courageously fought to a 20-17 half time lead over CBC, but fell to a torrid shooting exhibition in which they were outscored 52-22 in the second half.

Captain Gary Waller accepts the VSAC championship trophy as tired Bisons look on.

Because of great shooting, rebounding, and—above all—hustle and hard work, a happy Rich Martin was named the tournament's Most Valuable Player.

All eyes are turned forward as 6'8" Eddie Trimm grapples for the rebound.

Scoring leader Bobby Roberts gets inside and lays in another two points.

Ron Sink tosses in two as the baby Bisons romp Freed-Hardeman College.

J. V. Sets Record

The 1960-61 David Lipscomb College Junior Varsity Basketball team enjoyed the finest J. V. record in the college's history. This feat was accomplished by team effort and hustle which are characteristics of an outstanding team. Coach Ken Dugan, in his first basketball coaching assignment at Lipscomb, was greatly responsible for the team's success. Throughout the year the team improved, losing only two of its last ten games. In the season's top effort, the Baby Bisons defeated T.P.I. in Cookeville, Tennessee, an achievement never mastered before by a Lipscomb Junior Varsity. The J. V. also defeated Freed-Hardeman College twice, who in previous years had been a varsity opponent. Statisticly, the team outscored their opponents by a comfortable margin 79.4 to 72.1. With these stars of the Junior Varsity advancing to the varsity, Lipscomb's basketball future should be bright.

The Enthusiastic Six

Lipscomb's loudest cheers came from the lungs of six select students, elected varsity cheerleaders by the student body. Two boys and four girls supported the Bison basketball team in tense, exciting moments as well as in silent, disappointing moments of their games. Outdoor rallies were arranged before the torch was run to Clarksville for the "Game of the Torch" and to welcome V.S.A.C. champs home from defeat in Jefferson City. Pre-game pep rallies and post-game parties in the student center were sponsored by the enthusiastic six before and after all important games. Leading the cheer-leaders in the 1961 season was captain Barbara Melton, a senior. The other five were Carrie Moran, junior; Roger Peck, junior; Suanne Henderson, sophomore; Jeanne Smith, sophomore; and Steve Smith, sophomore. Two alternates, Trudy Walker and Bobbie Burkhalter, were selected.

Bisonettes Stimulate Spirit

Stimulation for school spirit in collegiate black and white, the 1961 Bisonettes entered basketball games in synchronized step to the beat of drums, performed polished precision drills, and marched to a special section in the stands. Fifteen girls chosen from each class, Lipscomb's official pep initiators support the Bisons in spontaneous and practiced cheers.

Seven o'clock drills two mornings each week deserved the relaxation the Bisonettes found in a fall quarter hay-ride and wiener roast, winter quarter trip to Memphis for the C.B.C.-Bison clash, and spring quarter picnic at sponsor Ira North's Old Hickory lakeside home.

Officers were Kay Narey, president; Velma Herrera, vice-president; Sandra Thweatt, secretary; Ann Bandy, treasurer; and sgt.-at-arms Rosemary Cureton.

Coach Ken Dugan faces the task of trying to improve on the 1960 record-setting team.

Baseballers Start Fast

The Bisons, defending VSAC Western Division baseball champions, found the going a little tougher this year as they split even in their first eight games including two losses to VSAC foes. The 17-man squad has a host of new faces with four newcomers: Jack Jacobs, catcher, Bill Riley, third base, and Larry Lafferty, centerfield, who have received repeated starting assignments. John McCord once again was the single outstanding performer as he not only compiled a winning record from the mound but also batted in the cleanup position to provide the much-needed power. Jacobs stole the spotlight on several occasions as his line drives went for extra bases.

While McCord and Jacobs were playing outstanding ball, the freshman laden Bisons were not without their troubles. The pitching staff which included McCord, Bob

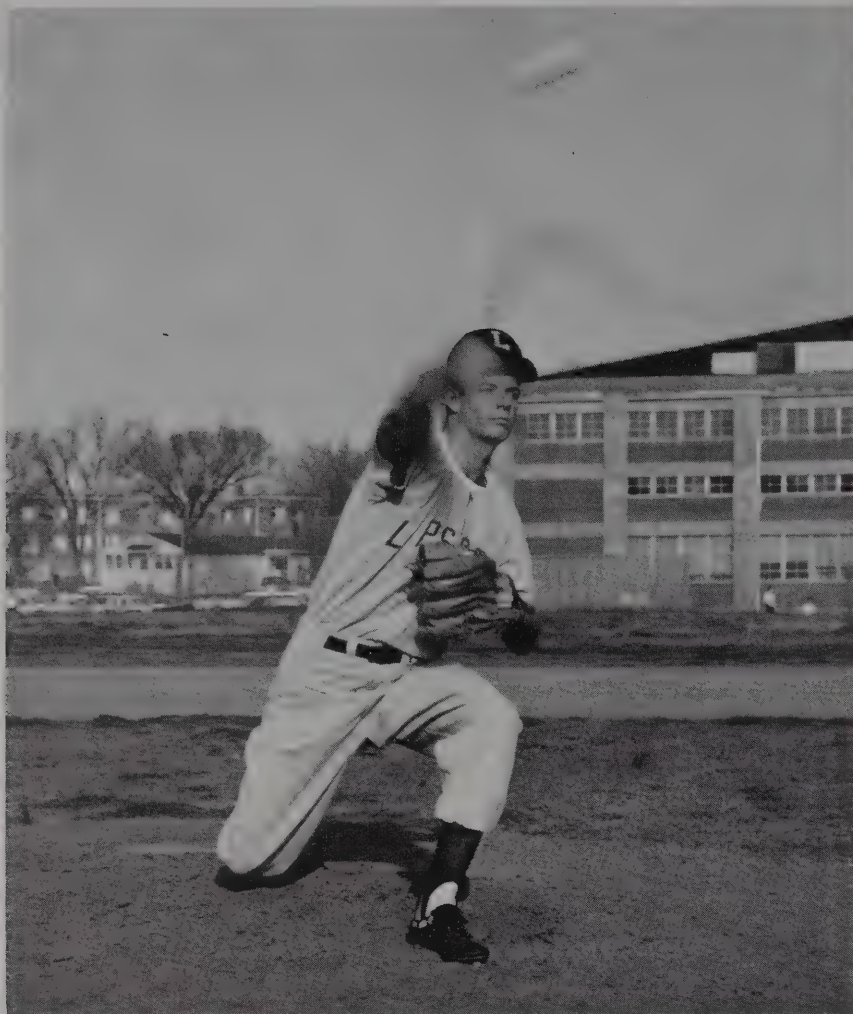

David Laine grabs a short fly ball which attempted to fall in for a "Texas leaguer."

Sayle, Chris Nichols, Larry Hasty, Fred Bunner and reliefer Larry Casbon had their occasional weak moments. This matched the problems caused by the lack of clutch hitting and an early season seige of rain and bad weather.

On the whole, however, Coach Ken Dugan, in his second year as varsity coach, had more to "hurrah" about than to cry about.

The Bisons got off to a rousing start with victories over Florence State, 11-4, and Middle Tennessee 3-2 as Sayle and McCord going the route in each game to post the victories. The University of the South provided the first stumbling block to the winhappy Bisons. Hasty was bombarded in the first inning, giving up 5 runs, to put the squad behind to stay. The final score was 11-5.

The ball is nothing but a blur of white as John McCord fires in the high hard one.

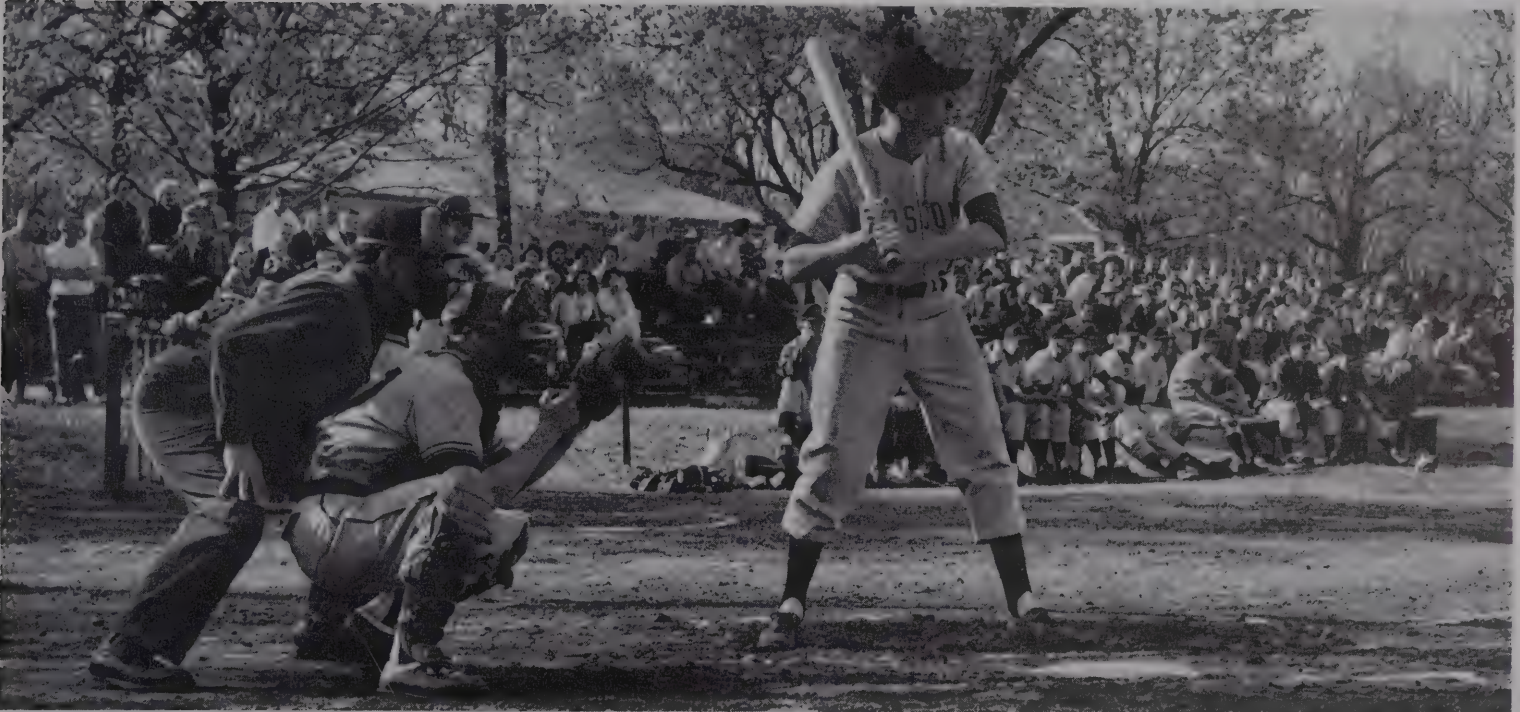

McCord, feasting on a 7-run margin, whipped Florence State once again by an identical 11-4 score. In this game John ran up his strike-out total to 17 and his earned-run average to 2.0. Conference foes Austin Peay and Union handed the Bisons two defeats, 4-3 and 7-2, sandwiched between a 4-1 win over Sewanee.

Although Coach Dugan lost only four players via graduation last year, many have felt all along that this year would be a preview of next year's squad which should be the most balanced ever assembled at Lipscomb. From this year's squad only Larry Casbon and Bob Sayle will graduate leaving a nucleus of 15 players for the start of next season.

Managers Roger Black and Gary Benmark work hard to aid the team and keep the field in good condition.

Third baseman Bill Riley waits for the first pitch as a large crowd gathers to watch the contest against Middle Tennessee State College.

Inexperience Dooms Netters

The 1961 edition of the Lipscomb tennis team got off to a slow start by losing its first two contests to Kalamazoo College and the University of the South. Their first victory came at the expense of Austin Peay, a conference foe. The team had only two returning lettermen, juniors John Crowder and Ron Dixon. Crowder, captain of the team, was a veteran of three years action while Dixon returned for his second year. Rounding out the team were juniors Dudley Oliver, Larry Bryant, and Tommy Davis and freshmen, Larry Napier and James Wood. Danny Collier and Johnny Huddleston, also freshmen, were called upon from time to time for their service. Although the 1961 team was young and inexperienced, they made a creditable showing on every occasion.

John Crowder, alternating in the numbers one and two positions, sets up his one-two punch which has been an asset in his three years of varsity tennis.

Teamwork is the key to success in doubles play, as Larry Bryant moves back into defensive position after Larry Napier successfully returns a volley.

Newcomers Boost Golfers

The golf team was given a "new look" this year as four freshmen and only two returning lettermen were called upon to compete in scheduled matches. Returning from last year's squad were Juniors, Ronnie Ferguson and Jim Perry who filled the numbers one and two positions. Following close behind in game scores and giving the squad the best over-all balance in several years, were newcomers Lynn Wilson, John Haury, Danny Cline, and Tom Kilpatrick. Competing against some of the best golfers in the area in the first few matches, the Bisons suffered four straight setbacks before meeting VSAC foes. The Bisons faced their stiffest competition with Middle Tennessee State College when three of their top men shot under 70. The outlook for the future seems bright as all six members will return for more action next year.

Frosh Runners Show Promise

Although lacking the depth which has characterized the Lipscomb track teams of the past, the 1961 squad made themselves noticed wherever they performed. Leading the under-rated cindermen were lettermen Mike Clark, one of the leading point getters and record holder in the shot put and discus field events; Max Mays, tops in the dashes and broadjump; Kermit Toungette, running the dashes and middle distance; and David Martin, a quartermiler. Showing promise for future stardom were first year men Howard Alred, 440, Russ Combs, distance events; David Anderson, polevault and quarter mile; Bailey Heflin, high jump; Bud Stumbaugh, half mile; Houston Bowman, hurdles; Jim Hooper, dashes and broad jump; Jon Hassey, quarter mile; and Joe D'Auria and Lewis Green in weight events.

Shot-putter Mike Clark shows the form which made him a steady point-getter.

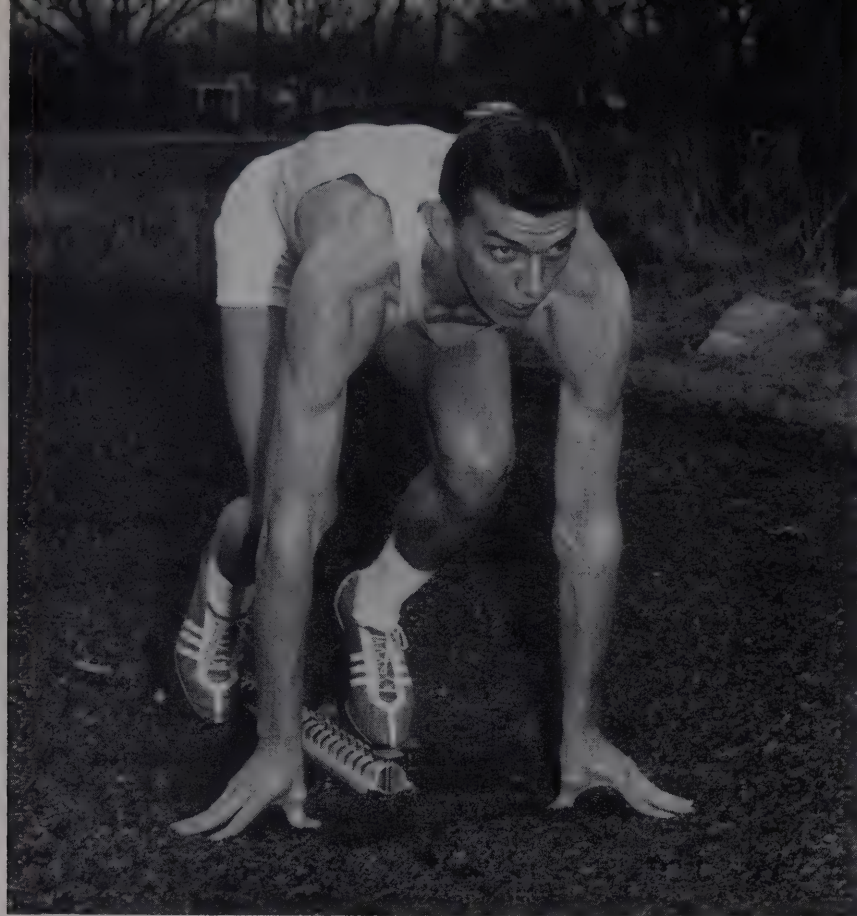

Coach Charles Morris, completing his third year at the helm of the tracksters, was disappointed at the lack of experience and depth but was very encouraged with the prospects for the future. In early season meets with Middle Tennessee and Vanderbilt freshmen, Mayes, Alred, Toungette, Combs, D'Auria, and Clark led the way in challenging the proven powers. Vanderbilt's track field was the Bisons' practice site as the home field was out of shape.

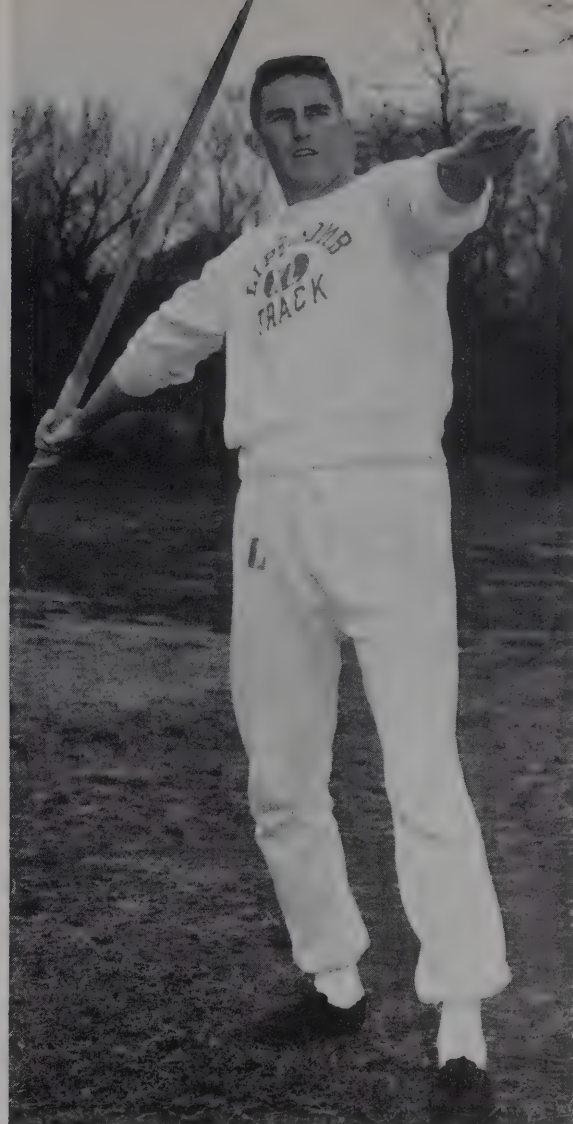

Freshman Bailey Heflin clears the bar in preparation for a meet.

A bright future prospect is freshman distance man Russell Combs.

Waiting for the gun, Max Mayes sets his sights on victory one hundred yards away.

Joe D'Auria gets set to throw the javelin for Lipscomb.

Coach Morris and Jon Hassey make the best of a rainy day by working inside.

Sprinter Kermit Toungette also tries his hand at the low hurdles.

All-Stars Halt Juniors Streak

All-Star Bert Harvey finds the going rough as he attempts to sweep around left end.

Balance was the key word in explaining the action of the 1960 Interclass football season. No team emerged undefeated as the All-Stars whipped the juniors in the champions' last start of the season, while only the freshmen class failed to score a victory.

In defeating a beefy bunch of juniors 7-0, the All-Stars had to call on a tremendous catch in the end-zone by Ken Rasbury who leaped high to grab Terry Bassham's pass from two defenders just minutes away from the final whistle.

Although the All-Stars held the juniors scoreless, they had a big job on their hands stopping hard-running Joe Snodgrass and Bryant Matthews.

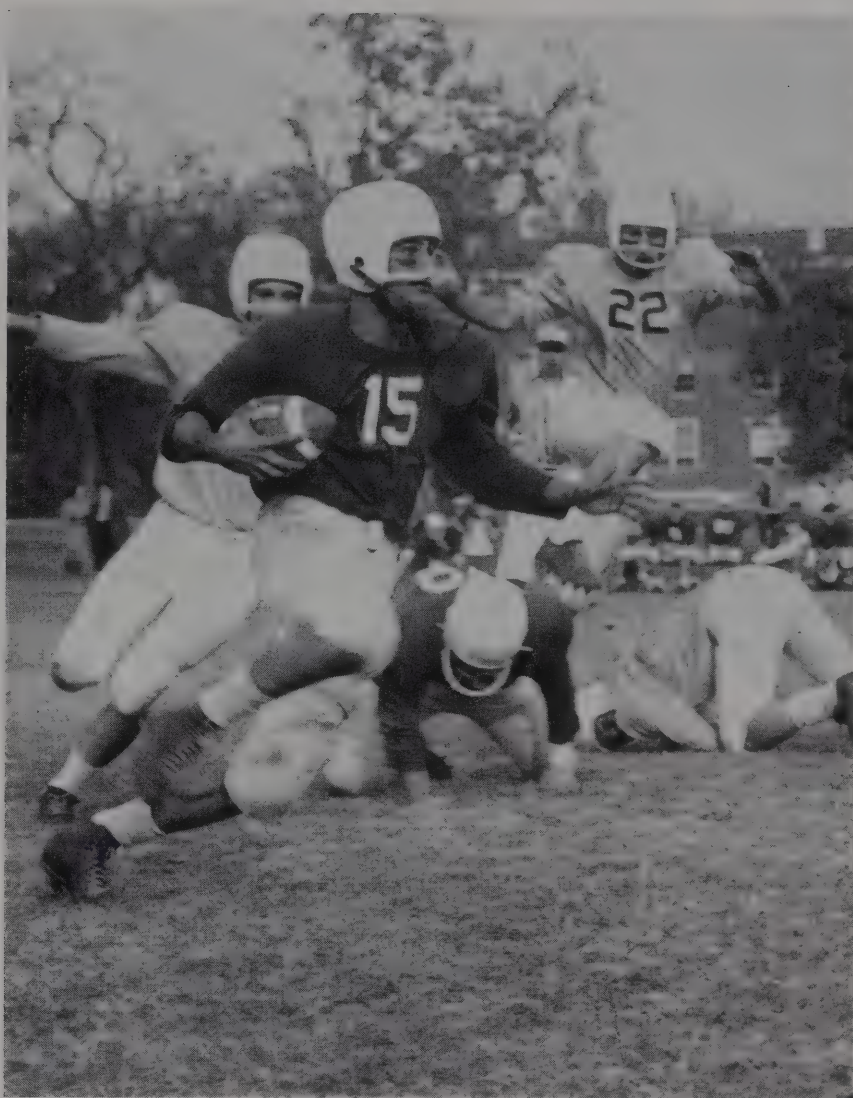

Defensively, the season's Most Valuable Player Terry Bassham proved his worth covering the whole field stopping any and every ball carrier. He, along with Bruce Sullivan and an air tight defensive line, held the juniors intact for the first time in four outings.

The All-Stars ran hard against a stout junior defensive wall with Jim Camp, Stan Allen, Bassham, and Sullivan gaining most of the yardage.

The Interclass All-Sports Champions of 1959-60 got off to an even better start in the 1960-61 season with three straight victories and their first football championship.

Their path to the championship was strictly a team effort as everyone got into the act. Offensively Bryant Matthews stole the show in the final two games with a stellar performance. Against the seniors, in the final game, Matthews led the Rams back into the game with a long series of short runs and passes scoring in the third period to deadlock the game at 6-6. He cinched his "hero" role in the wanning minutes with a fifty yard run for the deciding score of the game. Bryant was only one of the number of offensive threats as Joe Snodgrass, C. L. Kennon, and Bob Brady gained a lot of ground for the fired-up juniors.

The Ram's defense, considered by many as their strongest point, posed a big problem for their opponents. A front line of Joe Welch, Mike Clark, Jess Teater, Ken Poag, Freddie Holliday, and Danny Cottrell left little to be desired as the juniors let only one touchdown slip through before the All-Star tilt.

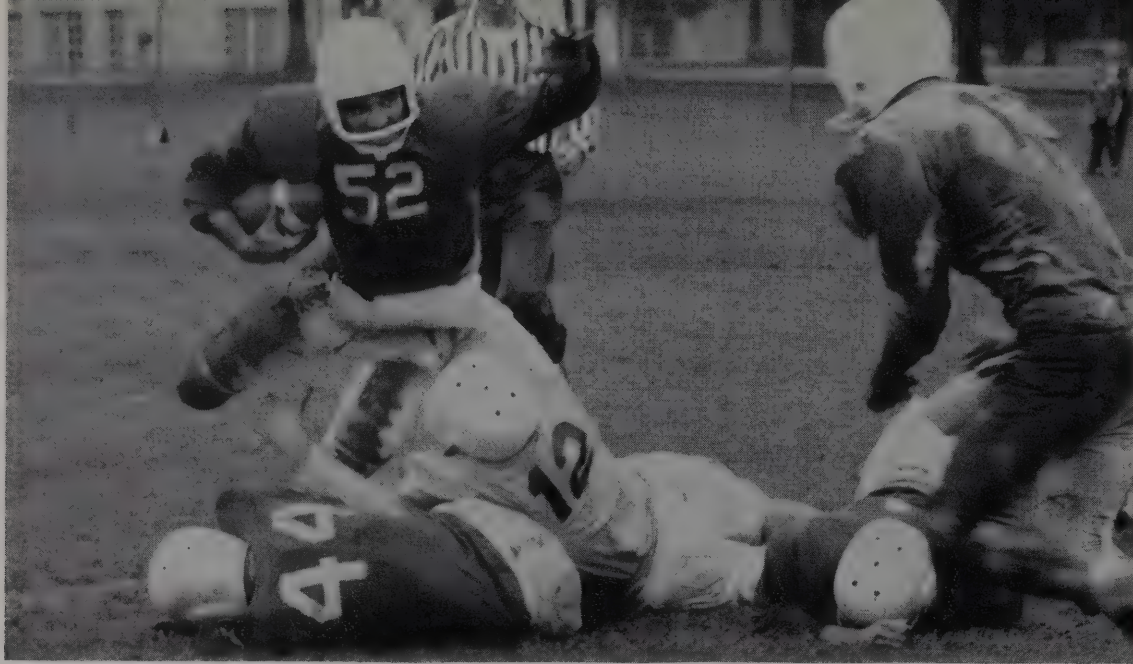

Bryant Matthews travels for yardage as seniors Ken Rasbury and Jim Kistler pursue.

The Junior "Rams" championship team is composed of: first row, Bud Stumbaugh, Larry Walker, Wayne Smith, Bob Brady, Eddie Hyche, C. L. Kennon, Joe Welch, Bryant Matthews, Carl Woosley, Coach Deanie Bryant; second row, Russ Morrow, Mike Clark, Danny Cottrell, Ken Poag, Roger Black, Dan Denny, Tommy Breakfield, Jim Perry, Don Blevins, Jess Teater, Joe Snodgrass, and Freddie Holiday.

Senior Murray Brown is brought down by Doug Morrow as Bruce Sullivan moves in.

Seniors Remain Threat to End

The senior class made their last year their best one in the interclass football competition. Although finishing up in second place after losing in the final game by a 12-6 score, the seniors possessed the league's hardest running backs and the top pass receiver.

Although they were the underdogs in the championship game, no one really counted them out as a winner until the final minutes of the game when Bryant Matthews made his dramatic run. Going into the final half of the championship game with the juniors, the seniors held a 6-0 lead and looked as if they were about to complete an upset victory.

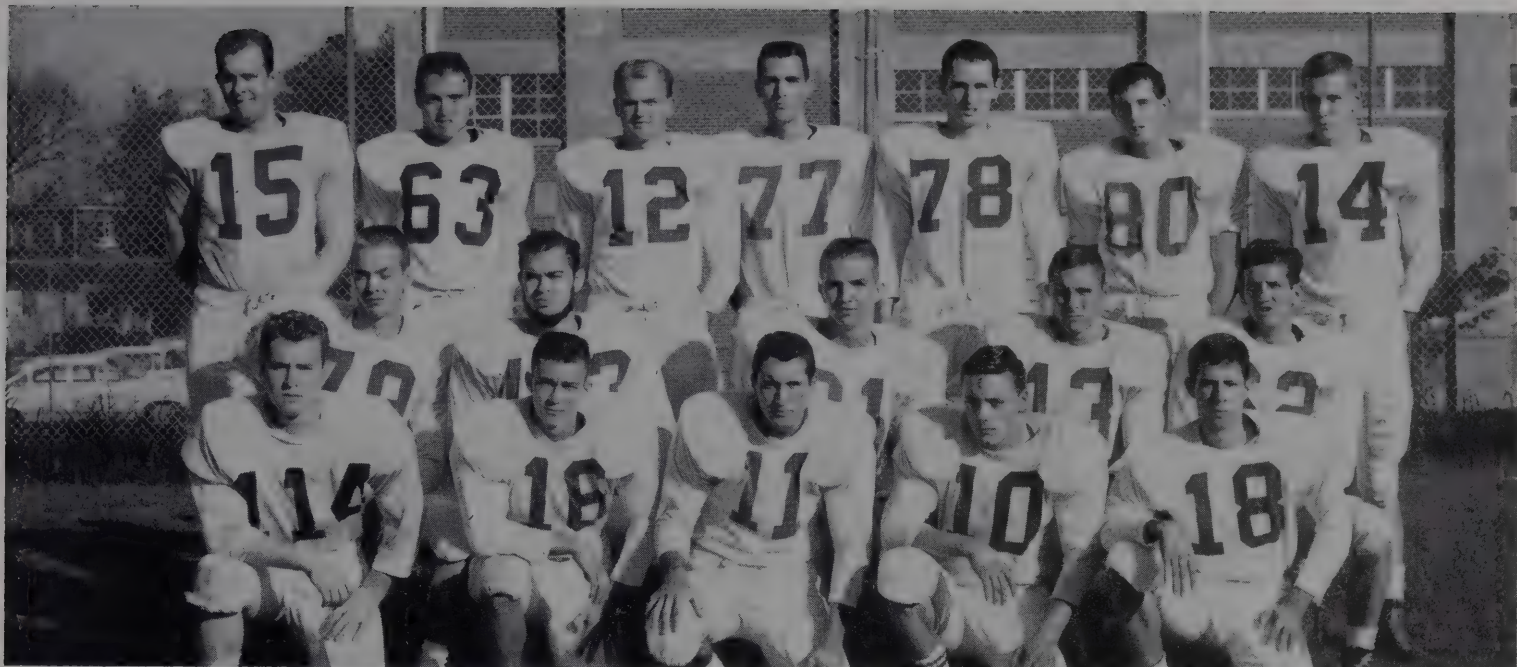

Playing in the powerful backfield were Stan Allen, who scored twenty points against the freshmen in a 26-0 romp, Jim Camp, a hard throwing quarterback, Bob Dixon, Murray Brown, and Jim Kistler, all noted for their running ability. All of these were capable of breaking the game wide open. Ken Rasbury was the key man in the seniors' passing plays, hauling down more than his share. Defensively, the seniors lacked the necessary weight but still managed to contain the freshmen and sophomore running and passing attacks. Setting up a hard wall of defense were Mack Thweatt, Don Kemp, Ken Rasbury, and Carl Hoffer.

The seniors placed the largest number of players on the All-Star team which defeated the juniors 7-0.

Sophs Whip Outclassed Freshmen For Third

Outclassed by the juniors and seniors, the sophomore class made a delayed start by defeating the freshmen in their closing game and finished the season in third place. Headed by Bruce Sullivan and Bert Harvey, the sophs fielded one of the most spirited teams on the field. Some big men in the sophs' line were Louis Green, Gary Benmark, and Radford Sherrill. Hampered by injuries to key players as Winston Richter, Steve North, and Green, the sophs made gallant tries before falling to the main contenders.

Added to the usual unorganization that comes with a newly formed team with only two weeks of work together, the fourth-place freshmen had a size disadvantage that spelled misfortune to them all season. Running the whole show was the league's Most Valuable Player Terry Bassham who was everywhere on offense and defense. Terry had some help from hardhitting Jon Hassey and Bob Edwards. The freshmen were a high-spirited and eager group but the lack of experience and organization put them at uneven odds.

Presidents of the intramural teams are: Eddie Hyche, Knights; David Fowlkes, Buccaneers; John Kroft, Rams; Darrell Gunselman, Pirates; Sam McFarland, Gladiators; Brad Dugger, Cavaliers; Bud Parker, Eagles; Don Kemp, Comets.

Intramural Sports Varied

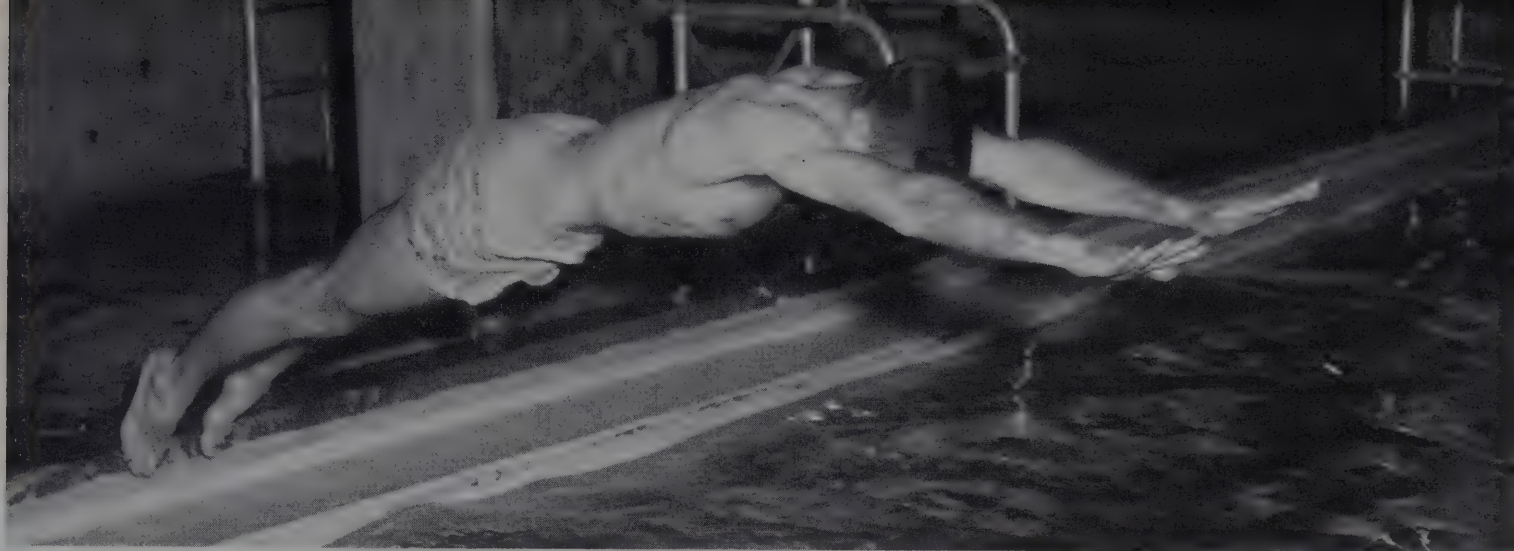

Coach Robert Vanderwarker is in charge of interclass sports, while Coach Eugene Boyce, intramural director, looks after regular intramurals in the expanding sports program.

Lipscomb has one of the most well rounded intramural programs in the South. The program, under the direction of "Fessor" Boyce, consists of eight teams each of which has a president and vice president. Teams have a player limit of 30 boys which are interested in these activities.

These 240 boys compete in team sports as football, basketball, volleyball, and softball as well as in individual events of track, badminton, tennis, golf, bowling, and swimming.

Competition is based on a point system in which the winner gains points for himself as well as for his team. At the end of the year these team points are added to determine the winners of the awards presented at the annual picnic. The two major awards are the All-Sports Trophy presented to the winning intramural club and the Most Outstanding Athlete Trophy presented to the outstanding individual performer.

Ken Joyner dives in for a swim after a landbound period of teaching and life-guarding. The pool facilities are used by many students the year around.

For the second straight year, the Junior "Rams" have dominated the interclass sports scene winning the All Sports trophy with first place finishes in the football, soccer, basketball and softball tournaments.

Following in second place was a "never-say-die" sophomore class who after finishing a dismal third in football came alive to furnish the Rams their only competition for the remainder of the year.

Bob Vanderwalker, a 1960 graduate of Maryland University, made his teaching debut in directing the interclass activities.

Comet Don Kemp hopes for a strike during battle with the league-leading Pirates.

Juniors Allen Kerns, Deanie Bryant, and George Grindley assault the sophomore goal, guarded by Joe Lavery, Johnny Sutherland, and Steve Smith.

Archer Jerry Spencer of the Buccaneers demonstrates bull's-eye form.

Junior Ray Boley controls the board for a tip-in in interclass play.

Bill Srygley goes high to rebound for the Junior interclass champs.

Ray Boley goes high for the rebound, this time for the Buccaneers.

Women Sport New Program

The women's intramurals, under the leadership of Frances Moore, is very similar in purpose and anatomy to the boys' program. All the girls involved in the intramural activities are divided into the four clubs, the Ramblers, the Mohawks, the Kool Kats, and the Rockets. Each headed by an elected president. Activities include basketball, volleyball, softball, badminton, tennis, table tennis, horseshoes, archery, and various other tournaments. Club and individual points are earned on the same basis as the boys, from winning in tournaments to being chosen on the All-Star teams.

Miss Frances Moore serves invaluable as director of the girl's intramural program.

The pace is fast, the action is heated, and the play is skillful in an important volleyball match between the contending Rambler and Kool Kat teams.

Jan Utley hopes for the long ball as Letitia Carney and Ray Boley await the pitch.

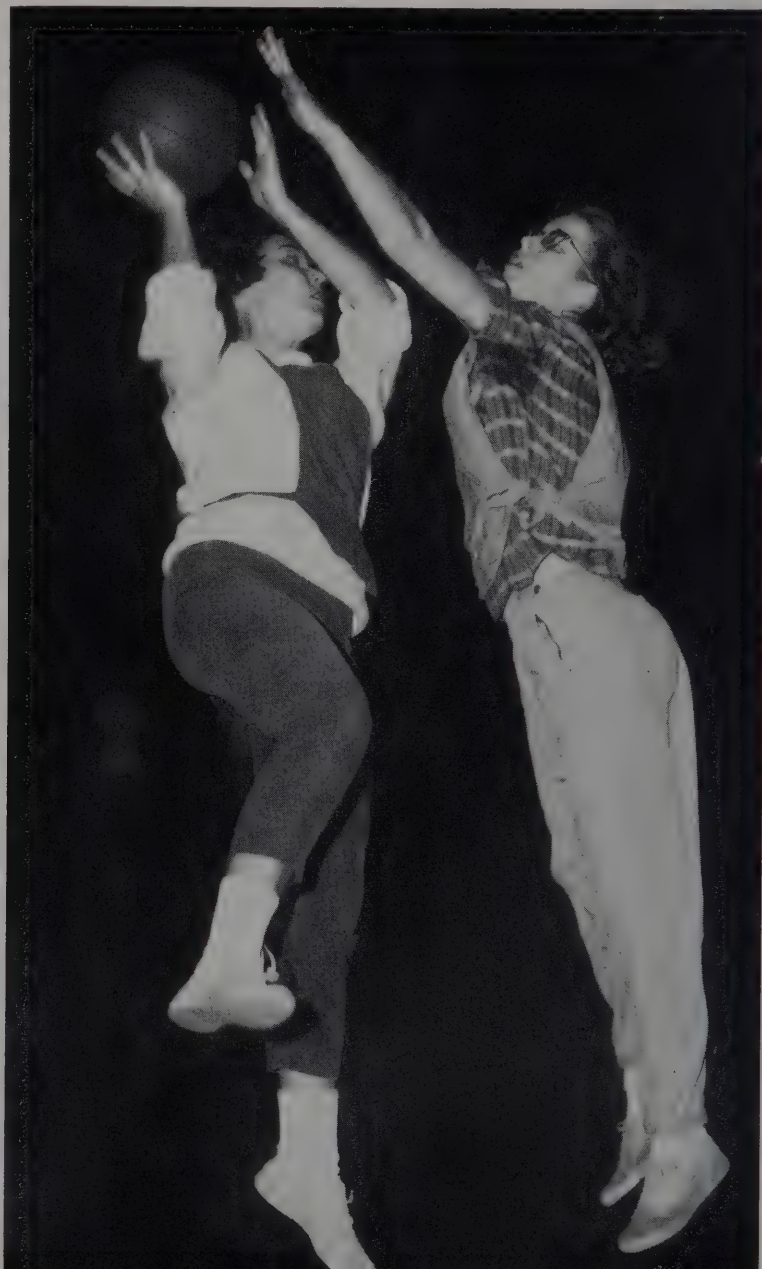

Barbara McDanell vies in the popular ping pong tourney.

Jackie Hartness, Rocket, shoots over the hand of Rambler Linda Carpenter.

Lois Moreland and June Phillips try their skill at shuffleboard.

Miss Moore, who is completing her seventh year as girls intramural director, has added a new section to her ever growing program. The new "recreational activities" including banball and shuffleboard, encourages participation to an even greater extent than in the past.

Fierce competition characterizes the women's league as all four teams are neck-and-neck going into the final stages of the season. Only the Kool Kats were able to remain stable enough to stay on top throughout most of the year. But they had very little breathing room as the Ramblers, Mohawks, and Rockets did not give up the race.

Individually, the outstanding player honors narrowed down to a threesome who have battled it out since the fall quarter. Jan Utey, Letitia Carney, and Hulane Brooks have jumped out of reach of all of the other point getters.

Miss Moore is a natural leader of the intramural program. She is kind, considerate, and busy. She is a friend to all who know her.

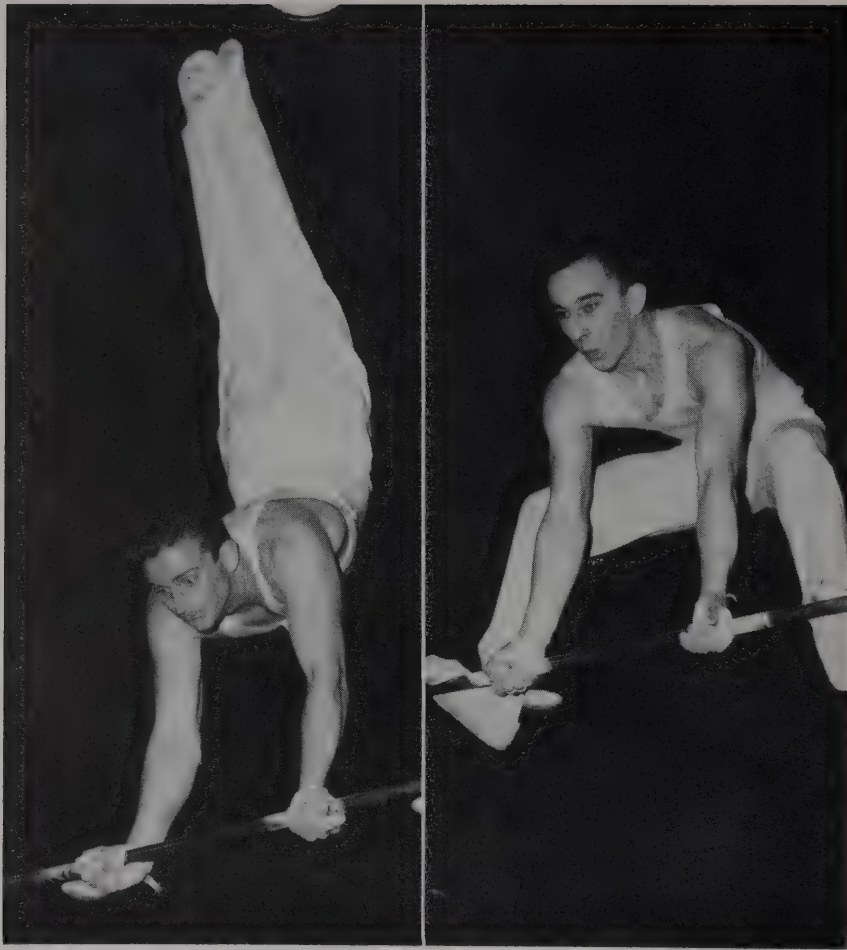

Hulane Brooks waits for the birdie in badminton competition.

Rambler Joe Holliday competes in the girl's horseshoe tournament.

Meeting with Miss Moore are the intramural presidents: Jean Enochs, Rambler; Cecelia Cymek, Rocket; Linda Fry, Kool Kat; and Peggy Laine, Mohawks.

Jimmy Nance and Don Dameworth display precision form in their difficult specialties.

Gymnastics Are Crowd Favorites

With its fame growing tremendously throughout Tennessee, the gymnastics team has a busy schedule as it fulfills the requests of appearance. Coached by Tom Hanvey, a former circus performer, the team is advancing rapidly.

Activities of the team include performances at Homecoming, Highschool Day, acts at Vandy, appearances in the Peabody circus, and civic and highschool benefits. The team also demonstrates the methods and techniques of teaching gymnastics to teachers of Nashville and Davidson County.

Gymnastics, a sport of skill and accurate timing, calls for much time and courage on the part of all performers. Other than public applause, there is individual satisfaction as each improves his body control.
